1 Your Tax Bill. When you shop in local stores, part of every dollar goes to pay local taxes.

2 Employment. Local businesses employ local residents, creating jobs for you, your children, your friends and your neighbors.

3 Quality. Products purchased locally are backed by the reputation of the local merchant who sold them. Follow-up service is handled personally.

4 Save Money. Save time, save gas. Local merchants offer competitive prices but you have to shop here to compare!

5 Variety. When you can't find what you want, ask the merchant. They'll order it or tell you where to find it.

6 Selection. You actually determine which goods and services are available in your area by creating a demand for them.

7 Economic Development. That dollar you spend locally does the work of $5.00, it recirculates five times! Spend it elsewhere and it's gone forever.

8 Community Interest. Local merchants generously support the interests of your kids and grand kids thus opening a wide range of opportunities through organizations, schools and churches.

9 Personal Service. When you're having trouble deciding what to buy, local merchants gladly offer their time and advice to help you, because they know you.

10 Concern. When you shop locally you're more than just a face in the crowd. You'll shop at your leisure knowing you're contributing to the betterment of your home town.

Rotary, Venetian team up for concert

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The Charlevoix Rotary Club and Venetian Festival, Inc. are teaming up to add some music to your holidays.

The two non-profit organizations will be hosting the musical group Three Men and a Tenor for a holiday concert at 7 p.m., Thursday, Dec. 4 at the Charlevoix High School auditorium. Doors will open at 6:30 p.m.

Dan Barron, president of Venetian Festival, Inc. and Rotary Club member, said, "This is part of Venetian Festivals mission to bring quality entertainment to the community."

Three Men and a Tenor is a four person acappella group who will be singing holiday songs, as well as those from other popular musical artists like Elvis Presley, The Beatles, Bob Marley, The Doobie Brothers, Garth Brooks and the Temptations. Three Men and a Tenor have been seen during the annual Venetian Festival in July in Charlevoix's East Park.

Barron said Three Men and a Tenor were one of the first musical groups to perform at the Venetian Festival when it was incorporated into a separate non-profit organization.

"They put on such a sensational performance, we felt they would be a perfect group to provide a holiday performance," he said.

This is the first time the Venetian Festival has hosted a holiday concert.

The concert will consist of two 45 minute sets with an intermission. During intermission, the Rotary Club and Venetian Festival will be supplying complementary refreshments and snacks. The Charlevoix Rayder Jazz Band will also perform.

In addition to the holiday concert, the group will also be performing two special concerts for Charlevoix school students. On Wednesday, Dec. 3, the group will be performing for the Charlevoix Middle School and on the afternoon of, Dec. 4, they will be performing for the Charlevoix High School students.

Barron said Three Men and a Tenor will be using music to teach the students about good self-esteem, good behavior and making good decisions. The group performs nearly 100 school assemblies and clinics per year.

The Charlevoix Rotary Club and Venetian Festival, Inc. will be teaming up to bring Charlevoix residents a holiday concert this December.

For more information on the holiday concert, contact Barron at 547-9950.

Tickets for the concert are $20 and $25. They are on sale at the Bridge Street Book Shop in downtown Charlevoix or at the door before the concert — if available.

Waterfront Salon adds massage therapy to options

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Charlevoix native Lisa Herriman has started down a new career path of relaxation.

Herriman has recently started working at the Waterfront Salon, at 629 Petoskey Avenue, as a massage therapist. She helps her customers relax and ease their tense muscles through the use of deep tissue massage, Swedish massage and stone therapy.

In six months, she will be adding herbal wraps to this lineup.

Herriman said she decided get into massage therapy because she saw a lot of future opportunities in the career. She added she wants to help people deal with pain and offer alternative healing.

"I like to help people and I like working with people," she added.

Herriman graduated in August from the Health Enrichment Center in Lapeer. She had 12 months of training, which included 660 hours of classroom and clinic hours for massage therapy.

Herriman is married to Mike and has three children, Coby, Jacy and Skylar.

Waterfront Salon is owned by Vicki Seymour-Long and provides haircuts, perms and colorings for men and women.

Hours are 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Monday through Friday and in the evenings by appointment.

To make an appointment with Herriman, call the salon at 547-6848 or 547-5791.

At RDI PhoneGuide® every effort has been made to produce an errorless directory. However, mistakes undoubtedly have been included. If your residential listing is not correct, or has been omitted, please fill out this form and we will correct it in the next edition of PhoneGuide®.

PLEASE REMEMBER TO ALSO NOTIFY YOUR PHONE SERVICE PROVIDER (SBC Ameritech, Century, Verizon, Island, Pigeon or Upper Peninsula Telephone Co.) as they provide our White Page Listings each year. If you don't make the same correction with them, your listing will be incorrect in the PhoneGuide® the following year as we don't maintain our own database and keep corrections for only one year.

Hospice reveals its new holiday cards

With November being designated as National Hospice Month, Hospice of Northwest Michigan (formerly Charlevoix County Hospice, Inc.) has started it off by introducing its Christmas cards, and a winter notecard for 2003.

This year, hospice will have a variety of cards to offer, featuring original designs by Chris Fall Knight of Boyne City and Kay Gee of Harper Woods.

Chris Fall Knight's artwork includes a cardinal on a winter park bench, with the words inside, "May your holidays be filled with everything that makes this Season so wonderful!"

Second is a winter barn scene, with the words inside saying, "Wishing you the quiet beauty of a peaceful holiday season."

Third is a lighthouse beacon shining on a snowman, with the words inside saying, "Wishing for you a world of wonder, a season of magic, a heart full of love and joy!"

She has also designed a note card of an American flag against a winter pine which is blank inside.

Kay Gee offers a lighthouse down by the harbor in Boyne City, with the words inside saying, "May this loving, caring season give you reason to rejoice."

She also has a decorated sailboat, towing a dingy with gifts and a Christmas tree, with the words inside saying, "A time to remember, a time to look ahead, a time to share the beauty and joy of the season."

The cards are available at Boyne Country Books and Sweet-Grass in Boyne City; The Clothing Company and Trademark in Charlevoix; Busy Bridge Gifts and Antiques in East Jordan; Sturgeon River Pottery and Wild Bird Supply in Petoskey and Orchard Hills Limited in Bellaire.

The proceeds from the sale of these cards will help further the work of Hospice of Northwest Michigan, in partnership with Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency, to provide care in Antrim, Charlevoix and Emmet counties.

Winter wonderland in fall

Charlevoix received a light dusting of snow Thursday at the end of a blizzard that blew through the area on Wednesday night and Thursday morning. Above, these pumpkins outside of city hall on Mason Street give visitors a taste of fall and winter at the same time.

Bergmann Center gets three-year accreditation

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Charlevoix's Bergmann Center, Inc. has received a three-year accreditation.

According to Executive Director Suzanne Muma, the center received word of this achievement in the early part of September.

"It means we are providing quality in the standards that we are meeting. We provide excellent care," she said.

This is not the first time the center has heen accredited. Muma said the Bergmann Center has received the honors since the 1970s. This is the center's fourth consecutive three-year accreditation; it has received one year accreditations in the past.

"It is something we must have to get funding from Community Mental Health," she said.

The Bergmann Center is a private, non-profit organization serving mentally and physically challenged adults from Charlevoix and Emmet counties. To get accreditation, the center must he surveyed by volunteers with Carf, an independent, not-for-profit accrediting body promoting quality, value and optimal outcomes of services.

Carf sent two surveyors to the Bergmann Center in June for two days. While there, they went through 32 notebooks of information compiled by Muma.

"It is quiet extensive," Muma said. "Safety is very big."

The surveyors also made sure the center had all of its proper policy and procedures in place and was meeting all of the current labor laws, among many others.

Blood drive to be Nov. 20

A community blood drive is scheduled from 12 to 5:45 p.m. on Thursday, Nov. 20 at the Community Reformed Church in Charlevoix at the corners of US-31 and Meech Street.

Call the American Red Cross at (800) GIVE-LIFE to schedule an appointment. Beginning in January 2004, all donors will be required to provide an ARC donor card, driver's license or other government issued ID, prior to donating.

Preservation group wants to save buildings

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

The out with the old, in with the new mentality may have met its match.

Over the past 10 years in downtown Charlevoix three historic buildings have been demolished, first it was the Parkside, then the Wharfside and now residents are just a short time away from watching the Appletree building crumble.

Two of those buildings, the Wharfside and the Parkside, were destroyed to open up views to Round Lake and the Appletree will be taken down to make way for a new three-story retail and residential development.

This latest decision by developers Jerry Rutter and Scott Zager of Elk Rapids had residents in Charlevoix hot under the collar.

Many said they want to see Charlevoix's history preserved and that means keeping some of the older buildings and homes in town.

The Historical Preservation Ad Hoc Committee was formed to meet this goal.

Its members include Charlevoix mayor Gabe Campbell, planning commissioners Francis "Brownie" Flanders and John Campbell, downtown development authority members Hugh Mason and Jeannine Wallace, Historical Society members Bob Heath and Mary Adams, chamber of commerce representatives Jacqueline Merta and Kirby Diepert and city planner Gerry Harsch.

The committee's chair is Adams and co-chair is Heath.

The group has met twice so far and has decided to concentrate its initial efforts on Charlevoix's central business district.

The group met earlier this month and deputy director of the Traverse City Downtown Development Authority, Rob Bacigalupi, spoke at the meeting.

Bacigalupi played an integral role in the estahlishment of a historic district in Traverse City's central business district which went into effect three years ago.

He discussed the channels Charlevoix will have to work through and some pitfalls he dealt with in Traverse City.

He said their aim mirrored what is trying to be done in Charlevoix.

"(The goal was to) protect existing historical structures as well as make sure what's built is respectful of what's here," he said.

Because some property owners were not supportive of the initiative the entire downtown was not included, but Bacigalupi said about half the DDA district is.

The Historic District Committee in Traverse City has since worked on several projects with developers, including the recently built parking deck, Radio Center and Milliken's Square. Other major renovation projects in the district, like the Traverse City Opera House, have received tax breaks.

If Charlevoix chooses to follow Traverse City's path the next step is to create an ordinance and district.

> "We want the agreement of the people in the business community. We aren't trying to rile them up or anything."
> Gabe Campbell,
> Charlevoix mayor and group member

Mayor Campbell said the group's goal is to find a way to maintain the buildings we have and to implement some architectural controls for future developments.

However, to do this he said they want the building owners in the Central Business District to come on board and support the initiative.

"We want the agreement of the people in the business community. We aren't trying to rile them up or anything," he said.

Charlevoix resident Dick Gorgi, who owns six buildings in the central business district, said he would likely oppose any ordinance regulating renovations and new construction.

He said he isn't in favor of more regulation. Gorgi supports better architecture, but he doesn't feel this group should be at the helm of deciding architectural controls.

"I just don't trust the politics enough," he said. "I don't know who would be on the board (that would review projects) and what their depth of understanding is and that concerns me."

He said to the committee that would review plans should be made up of architects or other designers with proper credentials and then he may support the initiative.

The preservation committee has not looked at how projects would be reviewed and has not decided whether or not it will follow the path the Traverse City group did.

How to get news into the Courier

If you have a news item you think would be perfect for the Charlevoix Courier, feel free to call 547-6558, e-mail charlevoixcourier@charlevoix-courier.com or visit the Courier office located at 112 Mason Street in downtown Charlevoix.

News items include events sponsored by non-profit organizations. Please inform us of your event at least two weeks in advance.

Our coverage area is the city of Charlevoix and its immediately surrounding areas, including Beaver Island.

Because of space limitations in the newspaper, we generally try to avoid publishing "check-handing" pictures or "ribbon-cutting" pictures. However, we will work with your organization to get a picture that reflects the event and is visually interesting to our readers.

Due to time constraints on the staff, we cannot attend every event we are notified of. If you have a picture of your event, we will gladly consider it for publication. But, please, contact us before your event.

Council puts airport contract plans on hold

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

A fixed base operator contract between the city of Charlevoix and Island Airways is finally ready, but city council isn't.

At Monday night's meeting, Nov. 17, Charlevoix City Council reviewed the contract, but did not approve it. Newly elected first ward councilman Bob Timms who was sworn in at the meeting, made the motion to table the issue to council's Dec. 1 meeting.

He said he received the council packet Saturday night, Nov. 15, and council needed more time to digest it.

The airport has been operating without a contract since April when the city's five year agreement with Island Airways expired.

This new proposed contract sweetens the deal for the airline. City manager Mike Wiesner said that in negotiating with Island Airways owner Paul Welke, he found the airline is struggling.

Wiesner said he was told that since the Emerald Isle started operating, Island Airways passengers had tapered off and they needed the contract to "come a little their way."

The proposed contract helps ease the burden by reducing the airline's cost for equipment insurance by $1,500, runway electric costs by $2,800 and the cost of the pilot lounge phones by $650. This will save the airline $4,950 and will cost the city $3,950.

Council also approved a motion to hike parking fees by 50 percent. If the contract is approved, the parking profits will be shared by the city and Island Airways bringing $13,723 to each.

The raise in rates will go into effect Dec. 31. At that time, long term parking will go from $.28 per day to $.42, overnight fees will go from $2 to $3, weekly fees will go from $10 to $15, monthly fees from $30 to $45 and annual fees from $100 to $150. Higher costs have been calculated for premium parking.

While the city is handing over a nice chunk of change from parking proceeds, Wiesner told council it is still to the city's advantage to stick with the airline.

He presented to council the cost to the city if it were to operate as the fixed base operator. Cost calculations showed the city's losses if it performed the duties Island Airways currently does at $189,334 which is over $60,000 more than they are estimating to lose in the 2003-2004 budget year.

Wiesner said the airport actually comes close to breaking even if the $107,000 goes to paying off the debt for the parking lot and new terminal and the only other small airport in the state that breaks even is in Holland.

The only reason Wiesner said Charlevoix is able to teeter on the break even point is because of its unique relationship with Island Airways — using their personnel to both monitor the airport and run the flight operation.

Second ward councilman Bill Bellows said, "I don't see how another contractor could do what Island Airways is doing for the money."

However, Dave Scott, a Charlevoix resident and pilot, questioned, "How do you know?"

Scott said he sees no reason the city should be losing money at the airport at all. He thinks two things would bring the city not only to that break even point, but to a level of operation that may even turn a profit.

He thinks the city contract should be bid out and the city should take over the fuel operation.

Mayor Gabe Campbell suggested a change in management encouraging the establishment of an airport commission. Scott, third ward council member Shirley Gibson, second ward council member Karen Campbell and first ward councilman Bob Timms agreed. But third ward councilman Sherm Chamberlain said it isn't necessary.

Chamberlain said, "When you have too many commissions, things kind of get lost."

Instead he suggested a performance review board made up of mayor Campbell, Brooks and Wiesner.

But this wasn't what mayor Campbell had in mind.

"I would be more comfortable with someone who knows what the hell they're talking about," he said.

Scott agreed and said more "pure aviation experience" is needed at the airport.

But Wiesner wants to see things continue in their current direction, with he and Brooks at the helm.

"That's just the management form of government, you access people and get the job done," he said.

Currently, he said the airport works with the expertise of many city offices including the golf course superintendent Tom Heid, city street department superintendent John Martin and city engineer Don Swem. He said if a commission were established it would be harder to continue this cooperative effort.

Former mayor and pilot Josh Barnes agreed. He said under a commission, nothing will ever get done at the airport.

Scott said he would be in favor of the airport continuing to operate under the city manager form of government, if the city was open to input from the public, but that hasn't been his experience.

"There is additional revenue and additional opportunity for us to make money rather than lose money here in Charlevoix. But they are not talking with the community about what can be done," he said.

Council will continue to review the contract and gather information before its Dec. 1 meeting when the recommendation to approve the contract is back on the table.

COUNCIL

much time on it — that's no respect to your planning commission."

"At least if we had a public hearing we could have discussed the facts of the matter so the community could make a decision. That's grossly unfair."

In September, council rejected the commission's initial recommendation to allow the use in the R-1 and R-2, asking for further review.

The commission met late that month and added to the zoning language that the building roof height not exceed 26 feet, that the design character of the building be reflective of other residential structures in the immediate area and a subsection giving the power of special use approval to council.

This week, with the changes they requested before them, the majority of council still voted against it because they said they feel the same way many residents do — the single family residential district isn't the place for this type of development. They have said R-4 is the better place for it.

Charlevoix resident Bill Joy said, "It's the same thing we've said all along, no commercial business belongs in a residential area."

Those who voted against it include third ward council person Shirley Gibson, second ward council person Karen Campbell and first ward councilman Bob Timms.

Votes in favor of setting the hearing were Chamberlain, first ward councilman Bill Haggard and second ward councilman Bill Bellows.

Chamberlain has characterized assisted living as "an in between residential use" and feels that rezoning property to R-4 could lead to any type of development allowed in R-4 and that the city has greater control with a special use permit in the R-1 and R-2.

While there have been many voices opposed to assisted living being permitted as a special use in the R-1 and R-2 districts, there were also many there who stressed the need for assisted living in town where amenities are conveniently located in close proximity.

Nancy Bottomly, adult health director with Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency, said, council's decision is sad.

"It means that when they need assisted living, they will have to go to Traverse City, Petoskey or downstate as they do now and that's sad," she said.

Council's final vote did not include direction for the planning commission to look at adding assisted living language to the zoning ordinance's R-4 district.

Theater auditions for winter show

The Little Traverse Civic Theater in Petoskey is announcing auditions for the winter show of the 2003-2004 season, "Lend Me A Tenor."

Auditions will be at 7 p.m., Wednesday, Nov. 19, at the Crooked Tree Arts Center in Petoskey.

Show dates are Feb. 12-21.

The show calls for four men, age range from 20-50 and four women, age range 20-65.

"Lend Me A Tenor" is a comic farce written by Ken Ludwig and will be directed by Gary Albert.

Women's Resource Center to have food, supply drive

The Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan, Inc. Safe Home announces their annual Harvest Food and Supply Drive.

Family violence continues to be a serious family issue in this country. Nearly one-third of American women report being physically or sexually abused by a husband or boyfriend at some time in their lives.

The Safe Home of the Women's Resource Center is here to provide shelter, safety and support to victims of violent crime in Antrim, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Emmet and Otsego counties.

In the past year, 67 women and 80 children took refuge at Safe Home to escape the peril of emotional, verbal and/or physical abuse. About 2,232 nights of housing were provided averaging seven persons per day, 365 days a year.

During the past year, food and supply costs exceeded $18,000 of which over $12,000 was donated locally by groups and individual supporters.

The Harvest Food and Supply Drive is an appeal to the northern Michigan community to assist the Safe Home in providing food, household goods, and personal items to the many families who reside there. Non-perishable food items, paper products and toiletries are a major need. The Safe Home also requires financial support with $90,000 needing to be raised each year to maintain the facility, and staff, and to operate the shelter 24 hours per day.

Cash donations are needed and appreciated.

To drop off a donation, receive a copy of the Safe Home Needs List, or for more information, please call the Women's Resource Center in Petoskey at (231) 347-1572, Cheboygan at (231) 627-2380, Gaylord at (989) 731-0918 or Mancelona at (231) 587-8891.

The Needs List is also available online at www.wrcnm.org.

Garden Club closes out another successful season

Thanks to the efforts of the Charlevoix Area Garden Club, an all volunteer group that puts in countless hours beautifying our community and raising funds to keep the city blooming, the city truly is, "Charlevoix the Beautiful."

Last year membership climbed to over one hundred individuals who faithfully plant and care for eleven civic gardens and support a multitude of special projects and events.

Spectacular displays of perennials and annuals are enjoyed daily throughout the season at the hospital, library, pool and post office among other sites. The striking display of blooms in the Triangle Garden located at the bend of Charlevoix Road and Michigan Avenue just north of the bridge is still bursting with color.

Each summer the club sponsors a garden walk providing a rare and unique opportunity for attendees to slip into lovely, private gardens offering inspiration and enjoyment. This year's attendance nearly reached the 500 mark attracting visitors from across the state.

The Charlevoix Area Garden Club also conducts a plant sale each spring by digging plants from their and friends' gardens and donating them to the plant sale. During Charlevoix Apple Fest in October the club holds a Bulb Sale selling daffodil and tulip bulbs plus other garden related items like gloves and trowels and crafts made by garden club members.

The Adopt-A-Highway Committee of the Charlevoix Area Garden Club picks up litter along a designated two-mile stretch of US-31 north of Charlevoix three times a year.

The Youth Education Committee works to help young people learn about plants, gardens and ecology. Other committees and special projects focus their attention on ecological trends and environmental issues, and provide support to implementing beautification programs and preventing visual pollution.

The Charlevoix Area Garden Club was organized in 1939 and became a member of the Federated Garden Clubs of Michigan in 1949. The club is also a member of National Garden Clubs, Inc. The Charlevoix Area Garden Club meets the second Tuesday of each month.

For more information about the club, please call the Membership Chairperson Marcie Gowdy at (231) 536-7342.

Rayders move on in districts

By ALLEN TELGENHOF
Sports writer

The Charlevoix Rayders opened district play with an exciting 73-70 overtime victory over rival East Jordan on the Red Devils home court.

Sarah Cross played perhaps her best game of the season, scoring 21 points and pulling down 12 rebounds. She also held her East Jordan counterpart to only three points.

Rachel Wyniawskyj tallied 16 points, including three three-point shots. Alyssia McDonough scored 11 points and pulled down seven rebounds.

"She (McDonough) was a steadying influence all night long," Charlevoix coach Jim Parrish said. Her senior leadership was a key to the game. "She was determined not to lose."

Kari Way scored 10 points and grabbed nine boards.

East Jordan's Courtney Hammond scored 37 points, but missed a chance to win the game in regulation as her shot bounced off the rim with 1.5 seconds to go.

Charlevoix closed out regular season play with a 68-47 loss to Kalkaska. The Blazers raced out to a 15-8 first quarter lead and extended the advantage to 36-21 at the half. Kalkaska led after three quarters by a score of 44 to 29.

Wyniawskyj led the Rayders with 11 points, three rebounds and three steals. Cross added 10 points.

McDonough scored eight points and grabbed a team-high nine rebounds.

Way contributed six points and three rebounds to the Rayder cause.

The Rayders (12-9) continue district play on Wednesday, Nov. 19 against the winner between Elk Rapids and Pellston. The winner of that game will advance to the district finals on Friday in East Jordan.

SCRAPBOOK

Charlevoix French students learning culture

By CELENE DREW
Francais Three
Charlevoix High School

(Editor's note: This article was submitted by a French Three student at Charlevoix High School. Throughout the year, we will be publishing articles from the French class in our scrapbook section. Students from the class will share what they are learning and will teach our readers a little about the French heritage of northern Michigan and Charlevoix.)

Charlevoix High School's French classes are going to be filled with many activities this year.

Sue Kessler had been head of the French program for four years now. She has gone to France with her Charlevoix students twice. The students enjoy her class very much and look forward to the unpredictable events that will happen each day. The third and fourth year students will be going to France next year during the summer and will be spending a week with a host family. Senior Brenna Bergmann a former French traveler from last year said, "I loved staying with my host family and they made me feel very welcome."

The students are learning new everyday phrases such as "I miss you" and "If you want." The French department is looking forward to a very positive year with Madame Kessler.

The French One class has been very excited about learning a new language, and experiencing a different culture. Madame Kessler said, "They are very enthusiastic and very quick learners!"

Starting right off the bat the first day of school the new students started learning numbers, colors, and the alphabet. They are also starting to learn the names of common classroom items. They play games such as frappez; this is when two teams compete to see who knows their vocabulary best.

One player from each team goes up with a fly swatter in hand, with words written on the board, Madame will call out a vocabulary word and the first person to hit the word wins a point for their team. This is a very popular game. They are all looking forward to see what is next on the agenda.

The French Two class is very energetic about joining Madame for another year of French. So far they have learned about Michigan history and the connection it has with France. To help them enhance their learning experience about Michigan's French culture they took a trip to Fort Michilimackinac.

Here they saw where different settlers that were French lived in the early years of Michigan. Not only have they been learning new words and phrases they are studying the Tour de France. They are hoping to one day join Madame in a trip to France.

The French Three class has been studying a group of verbs called the Vandertramp verbs — as Americans say to understand easier. Vandertramp verbs are where each letter represents a different verb.

They are also working on writing and revising articles for a new French newspaper, called La Voix. Each student is writing a different article about something that is going on in the school.

La Voix will be published four times a year, with each person doing a different subject each time. They are excited for it to come out and hope that everyone enjoys it as much as they enjoyed writing it.

The French Four class also will be taking a part in the newspaper by taking what the French Three class has written and putting them all into an official newspaper.

This group will also read a book written in French called "Petit Nicolas" that challenges their understanding of the French language.

They also are planning a day for the French student, which will occur once a year. This will contain French games, food, and fun. They are sad that this is their last year with Madame, but they are making the best of it and having a fun time making memories.

At around 12:30 a.m. the entire city was without power while Consumer's Energy changed a switch that had taken a beating in the high winds. The north side of town was back on within minutes, but the rest of town took a little longer.

City engineer Don Swem said everyone in the city had power by about 7:30 a.m., Nov. 13. But the city's electric crew who started work at 9:30 p.m. the night before were hard at work until about 3:30 p.m. the next afternoon clearing off power lines and removing trees that had blown over.

Residents in Charlevoix, Marion, Hayes and Eveline townships that lost power were some of Consumer's Energy's 205,000 customers across the state that lost the service.

Tim Pietryga, spokesperson for Consumer's, said all Charlevoix area customers would not have their power turned back on until midnight Nov. 15.

He said, "Wind storms like this are more damaging than thunderstorms because of the destructive nature of tree limbs on lines. It's just more labor and time intensive."

While many suffered the inconvenience of a power outage, Hayes Township resident Tom Bergmann, lost his house due to the wind.

Charlevoix Township fire chief Curt Thompson said at around 2:30 a.m. that night, just after he returned home from addressing issues of down power lines, he got the call that the township's firemen were needed at a home off Stevens Road.

The small shed that housed Bergmann's external wood furnace had caught on fire and the wind had blown sparks from that blaze to the roof of the house which also caught fire.

Thompson said the smoke and water damage from the blaze was extensive.

Luckily the high winds didn't cause major traffic accidents. Both city police chief Dennis Halverson and Charlevoix County Sheriff George Lasater said no storm related accidents were reported.

While this devastating wind was related to the blizzard warning residents heard about early Wednesday morning, many were surprised to see just traces of snow.

Jelsema said this was expected. He explained that little snow was anticipated and their warning was aimed more at the wind issue.

He said several inches of snow did fall in inland communities like Gaylord and across higher terrain, but Charlevoix's close proximity to the lake's warm water helped the community dodge the snow bullet.

The storm was a result of low pressure over Wisconsin on Nov. 12 that moved over northern Lake Michigan to the Straits of Mackinac where Jelsema said it "bombed out...."

"We knew the wind would be severe as the storm exploded over the Straits of Mackinac," he said.

Hayes: Make Big Rock a park

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

While a developer looks at the Big Rock Point property and sees dollar signs, the Hayes Township Board sees tents.

On Nov. 10 the Hayes Township Board followed a plan outlined in its master plan, unanimously passing a resolution in support of state acquisition of Big Rock Point to create a state park.

"It's right in our township," Tim Boyko, Hayes Township supervisor, said. "Recreation is important to the livelihood and vitality of this community."

The land in question is owned by Consumer's Energy and it consists of 580 acres located along US-31 in Hayes Township. A large chunk of the acreage fronts on Lake Michigan making it valuable for both its recreation and development opportunities.

According to Rik Lobenherz, president of Vacation Properties Network, vacant, construction ready Lake Michigan lots are going for between $3,000 and $10,000 per foot. The cost is dependent on the size of the parcel, the quality of the land and the type of development.

Tim Petrosky, spokesman for Big Rock Point, said, "I am aware there is an intense interest in the community concerning the property."

He explained that interest has come from both public and private entities, but no formal offers have been received. He said the company is focusing on returning the site to a green field and the decision for the future of the property is a few years away.

"We would consider everything and nothing at this point," Petrosky said.

The vast majority of the Big Rock site will be restored to a green field by early 2006. But the dry fuel storage facility will still be there. This is expected to be dismantled by 2012 pending the opening of Yucca Mountain in Nevada which is expected to happen in 2010.

Petrosky said after the mountain opens for business Charlevoix is expected to be one of the first to ship its spent fuel. He said it will take a year to ship the material and another year to dismantle the dry fuel storage facility.

While Boyko said he recognizes the property won't change hands any time soon, he and several others involved in a grass roots effort to try and keep the site in public hands, want to get the ball rolling now.

The first stage in doing that is to get support of government entities, like the Hayes Township Board, the Charlevoix County Commission, other area township boards, city councils and state representatives.

An ad hoc committee has also been quietly working behind the scenes to set the stage for the eventual push to see this property become a public resource. Its membership includes Boyko, Little Traverse Conservancy executive director Tom Bailey and other interested citizens.

The group has not decided whether it will try to acquire all or just part of the property.

"We are laying the ground work so it (public acquisition) will be an option in the future," Bailey said.

Charlevoix resident dies in U.P. car accident

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Family gathered around the Spencers' kitchen table on Monday — a pregnant woman and another newly engaged, added to the list of things they have to be thankful for this season, but the mood was piercingly somber.

Jordan Spencer

At around 8:30 p.m., Nov. 22, Jordan Spencer, 31, the son of Carla and Gary Spencer of Charlevoix, was killed in a car accident in the western part of the Upper Peninsula near Watersmeet.

As the family flipped through a mound of photo albums, Jordan's cousin and best friend, Ty Wagner, said, "He was one of the good guys. He was magnetic, people gravitated

Penny collection

Second grade students at Charlevoix Elementary School are sponsoring a penny collection drive to buy gifts for Toys for Tots. They are graphing, counting and rolling the pennies they receive as part of a counting lesson. Students in Sarah Jonker's class worked to roll some of the pennies on Nov. 24. They will be buying gifts at Kmart with the money on Dec. 9. Above, Sam Eakes , 7, and J.J. Bottomley, 7, roll.

Holly Daze to be next week

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The holidays in Charlevoix are here again, bringing Christmas trees, new snow on the ground, colorful lights and, of course, Holly Daze at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Holly Daze is the annual hospital fund-raiser that coincides with the holidays in Charlevoix every year. The fund-raiser consists of a live auction, silent auction and a dinner at the Charlevoix Area Hospital and the Charlevoix Country Club.

But, according to event coordinator Patti Barraw, this year's event will be a little different. Instead of the usual large live auction, with up to 30 items to bid on — including large decorated Christmas trees — this year's live auction will be small, with only 10-12 items and no large decorated Christmas trees.

Three teenagers injured in traffic accident

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Three Charlevoix teenagers were injured in a fiery one vehicle accident around 10:30 p.m., Nov. 21 near the intersection of Loeb Road and M-66.

According to Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater, a vehicle driven by Nicholas J. Casciani, 16, of Charlevoix, was traveling north on Loeb Road at an extremely high rate of speed when it failed to negotiate the curve at the intersection of Loeb Road and M-66.

His 1984 Datsun 300 Turbo-Z struck a driveway embankment and went airborne, before striking a parked vehicle and rolling end over even at least five times, Lasater said. The vehicle came to rest, upside down, in the middle of M-66.

The vehicle was also on fire.

Casciani and his two passengers, Steven Russell, 15, and Nathan Russell, 15, both of Charlevoix, were extracted from the vehicle by the Charlevoix City Fire Department and transported by ambulance to Charlevoix Area Hospital with multiple injuries.

In addition to being trapped in the vehicle, Nathan Russell was found in the rear hatchback of the two seat sports car, without a seat belt.

According to Charlevoix Area Hospital, Caseiani and Nathan Russell were discharged by Monday morning. Also as of Monday morning, Steven Russell was still undergoing treatment for his injuries at the hospital, but is listed in good condition.

Mike Jakobowski, of Mancelona, who was driving on M-66 when the accident occurred in front of him said, "It looked like fireworks. It was unlike anything I have seen in a long time."

Jakobowski, who also tried to help get the occupants of the vehicle out and put out the fire, said the car was traveling down Loeb Road when it suddenly lost control and started flipping end-over-end. He added Casciani's vehicle almost hit his vehicle when it landed on M-66.

"It was bad," he said.

M-66 was closed for two hours due to the accident. The Charlevoix City Police and Fire Department assisted the sheriff's office at the scene. The crash remains under investigation by the sheriff's office.

Council should have had public hearings

EDITORIAL

If you have an opinion on assisted living or building heights, apparently the city council doesn't want to hear them.

They have already made up their minds and the citizens can not change them.

This is the image of council following a close decision to nix any public hearings for an ordinance change allowing assisted living in the R-1 district and one discussing building heights in the city before council, last week.

According to Charlevoix Mayor Gabe Campbell, who was the tie-breaking vote, he decided against the hearings to save time. He said the issues had already been talked about enough at the planning commission level and he thought the proposals would fail at council. Also, council member Shirley Gibson said they believed at the time that the building height issue was related to the assisted living issue, which is why they voted against that public hearing.

This editorial is not going to take a side whether or not assisted living belongs in R-1 or what kind of building heights the city should have. The problem is killing public hearings.

By not having the public hearing, the city council basically killed two proposals without formally listening to the public and without hearing what their fellow council members had to say. Plus, they ended discussion on the building heights issue based on a hunch that it was related to assisted living. That is just not right.

What if someone came to the public hearing and had a good reason for having assisted living in the R-1 district that has not been heard before? Or what if someone had a compelling reason against it that has not been heard before? Sure there were public hearings at the planning commission level, but what if someone wanted to speak out on the issue, but they could not make it to a planning commission meeting and were planning on speaking at the city council meeting?

The answer is: We don't really know since there was no public hearing at city council.

Basically, the city council's action leaves a lot of "what ifs" on these issues. While they may cost the city a little meeting time, public hearings are always a good idea on every issue.

Do the ends ever justify the means used in the process?

Roger Knuston

'Ear to the ground'

One of the first formal ethical precepts I learned was that "The ends do not justify the means."

It might even be stated as, "Ends never justify means." As the years of my considering means and ends increased, it became clear that the question was too complicated to be decided by an absolute statement.

"Do good or beneficial ends ever justify bad or harmful means?" was a clearer statement of the problem. Is an end ever good enough to justify any and all means? Are there differences between public and private questions of means and ends?

Current public examples come easily to mind. Does winning an election justify lies, exaggerations or purposefully misleading statements about your opponent? Does passing an important piece of legislation justify bribing legislators to vote for it? Does such passage justify giving them a major campaign contribution? Does removing an evil dictator justify the deaths of thousands of people, both military and civilian? Does making enough money to provide for my family's comfortable life justify stealing just a little bit (a few cents each) from millions of people? Does making enough money to handsomely provide for a charitable foundation justify stock deals that are marginally legal, but that take small amounts of money from thousands of other unknowing investors?

If winning that election results in enormous good for large numbers of people, are the means then justified? If the important piece of legislation benefits millions of citizens, is the bribe all right? If Iraq is finally a beacon of democracy for all of the Middle East, are the deaths justified? If the money accumulated from stock manipulations provides dozens or even thousands of young people with an education that benefits us all, are the marginally legal deals justified?

In each case in the previous paragraph we are looking only at the positive outcome of ends, and questions about means are irrelevant after the fact. It is only by deciding on the way to reach an end well before it is realized that the problem of ends and means can be properly addressed. Is bribing a legislator ever a good thing? Is accidentally or purposefully killing large numbers of people who were only in the wrong place at the wrong time ever a good thing? Is stealing money, even in small amounts, ever a good thing? Most of us would have to answer no to each question of means.

My suspicion is that we have lost track of the ethical precept about ends and means. Should we discard it or is there reason to consider it in social and political situations?

Personal situations provide a very different context for the question of means and ends. Is abortion as a means ever justified by a personal end? Is that question a social-political or a personal one? Most opinions would suggest it is a personal one. Social or governmental control over our reproduction is not something many of us could easily accommodate. Social or government control over theft, bribery or war is much easier to contemplate.

Do ends ever justify means? I don't know. It is something we should be talking about.

Support Wal-Mart

Editor:

I find those opposing the Charlevoix Wal-Mart Store to be either misguided or self-serving. Most of the reasons I have read are, in my opinion, without merit.

The existing downtown merchants will not be adversely affected. The summer tourist will not be going out to Wal-Mart to purchase their fudge, collectibles, artwork and embroidered sweatshirts.

The idea that the Ace Hardware is closing its downtown location due to the arrival of Wal-Mart is questionable. With the high cost of downtown retail space, it does not make good business sense to rent, stock and staff two locations in this market.

The concern that the runoff from such a large parking area will affect the quality of the lake or our drinking water is not supported by facts.

If a person is of the opinion that this site should be kept as a natural open land for its beauty, they should take another look at the site. The new Wal-Mart stores are brick faced and architecturally attractive. Such a building and landscaped site will enhance that approach to our town.

I would argue that low paying and part-time jobs are better than none at all. Such an enterprise will provide many families a venue for supplemental income and could take some off welfare. Let's not forget the advantages of an increased tax base.

Some are concerned by the prospect of increased traffic (which by some accounts will not have enough traffic to succeed). That argument is always a smoke screen. Traffic will flow as it does now.

Then there is the concern that we will lose our small town atmosphere. Kmart, a large supermarket, expanded Ace Hardware and one of the most modem post offices in the state have not changed the nature of Charlevoix, nor will Wal-Mart.

Further, it is important that we take into consideration that there are many low income families and retired persons who cannot afford frequent trips to Petoskey to shop for everyday items.

Someone wrote that it is wrong to patronize a corporation declaring such a large profit. That profit is distributed among the stock owners, contributing to the growth of the national economy from which we all benefit.

On the positive side, this retail outlet will bring a great amount of retail traffic to this area who will patronize restaurants and other businesses. Local service and support firms will have another major customer. A few local businesses that, due to lack of competition have maintained higher than justified prices, will be forced to become competitive.

In a free enterprise system, I find it disturbing that any group should dictate how discount retailers, fast food, auto parts stores and so on, should be permitted to compete in a particular market. A property owner should be able to utilize his property in any way that is legal, conforms with existing codes and other restriction deemed necessary by the local government.

Thanks to the council

Editor:

We would like to offer our sincere thanks and appreciation to the Charlevoix City Council and its Mayor, Gabe Campbell, for the action taken to resolve a dispute by Charlevoix citizens and Planning Commission members.

Zoning districts 1, 2 and 4 were to be amended to allow special use permits in amending them to allow uses not spelled out as Assisted Living Quarters, Adult Foster Care Facilities and homes for the aged. Special use permits for these profit making commercial enterprises would have been allowed in all residential districts, upon approval of the Planning Commission after its review and then approval of the city council.

The Citizen's Group which opposed such changes in residential districts 1, 2 and 4 were not, and are not opposed to elderly housing in the city of Charlevoix. Such businesses are welcome in our city, in properly zoned districts. This requires development of a zoning district which spells out all of the requirements for such uses. The wishes of adjoining neighbors have to receive primary attention and consideration.

The Charlevoix City Council respected the wishes of the residents in the R-1, R-2 and R-4 districts, and their actions are deeply appreciated by all.

The Planning Commission has a difficult job to design a proper method to incorporate businesses aforementioned without impacting the present zoning districts, that will gain the approval of the citizens of Charlevoix and its representatives on the city council. All are asked to assist in any fashion in this important work affecting our city of Charlevoix when called upon by the planning commission and/or the Charlevoix City Council.

Wake up

Editor:

Consider it a wake-up call for northern Michigan!

Like Lemmings to the sea, we continue to jump off the proverbial cliff. By our shopping behavior patterns we hasten the homogenization of our beautiful northern Michigan communities. By neglecting the very businesses that set us apart from every other region, the businesses that continue to support our local school teams, our local charities, the things we all hold near and dear to our hearts, we choke them out of business with the "perception" that we are saving a few pennies on the dollar at the big box store.

Not realizing that the very dollars we spend, if spent at the local small business, compounds and recycles locally time and time again, staying local and strengthening our communities.

Consider it a wake-up call for northern Michigan!

With the closing of three of northern Michigan Carter's stores (local businesses that have provided jobs to our neighbors, and given thousands of dollars back to our local communities through donations and their community cash programs) we have lost three more businesses that had a vested interested in our local northern Michigan communities.

Your dollars are your vote! You make the difference!

Our shopping behavior can make a difference in preserving the flavor of northern Michigan and our quality of life. By modifying our spending habits we slow down sprawl. By supporting local family farms we preserve open space. By supporting Mom-and-Pop small business, which are the backbone of our commercial and civic life blood, we preserve our community character and bolster our quality of life.

This holiday shopping season, and every future purchase you make, ask yourself why you choose to live in northern Michigan, and do you want northern Michigan to become like any other community USA or do we want to preserve what makes us so unique?

Hopefully by realizing that your very actions will dictate our future and the quality of life we all cherish, you will think about where you make your next purchase.

If you care and feel like most of us do about living and doing business in northern Michigan, you will show it through your spending habits.

Scott MacKenzie

Thank you

Editor:

We would like to express our heartfelt gratitude and appreciation to all of the folks who lent a helping hand to our family during our time of hardship. Your generosity and support has enabled us to look toward a brighter future. May God bless you, as you have blessed us.

Thank You,
Tim, Shelley, Brandon, Justin and Savhana McCullough

Don't cut school funding

Editor:

I am responding to the piece in the paper about how school funding could be cut. I understand that schools are under funded, but what I don't get is why Jennifer Granholm wants to take money away from the students.

This is lack of planning on her part. When you start taking money away from students for learning you're taking away their future. Your pretty much saying that they're not as important as something else.

If we're so worried about school funding maybe Jennifer Granholm ought to take a pay cut and see how it feels to take money away from someone. Ever since she has became governor all I've heard is how she wants to cut funding to Michigan schools. How are children going to learn when you want to cut funding to education? This is a very dumb thing to do. Maybe we should come up with a different idea than to cut funding to our children. With the money we pay out of our taxes maybe it could be put to better use than pay the so-called governor and to put it into education. My children's education is very important to me. I want to see my children go to school, get what I pay for and graduate and go to college without worrying about failing.

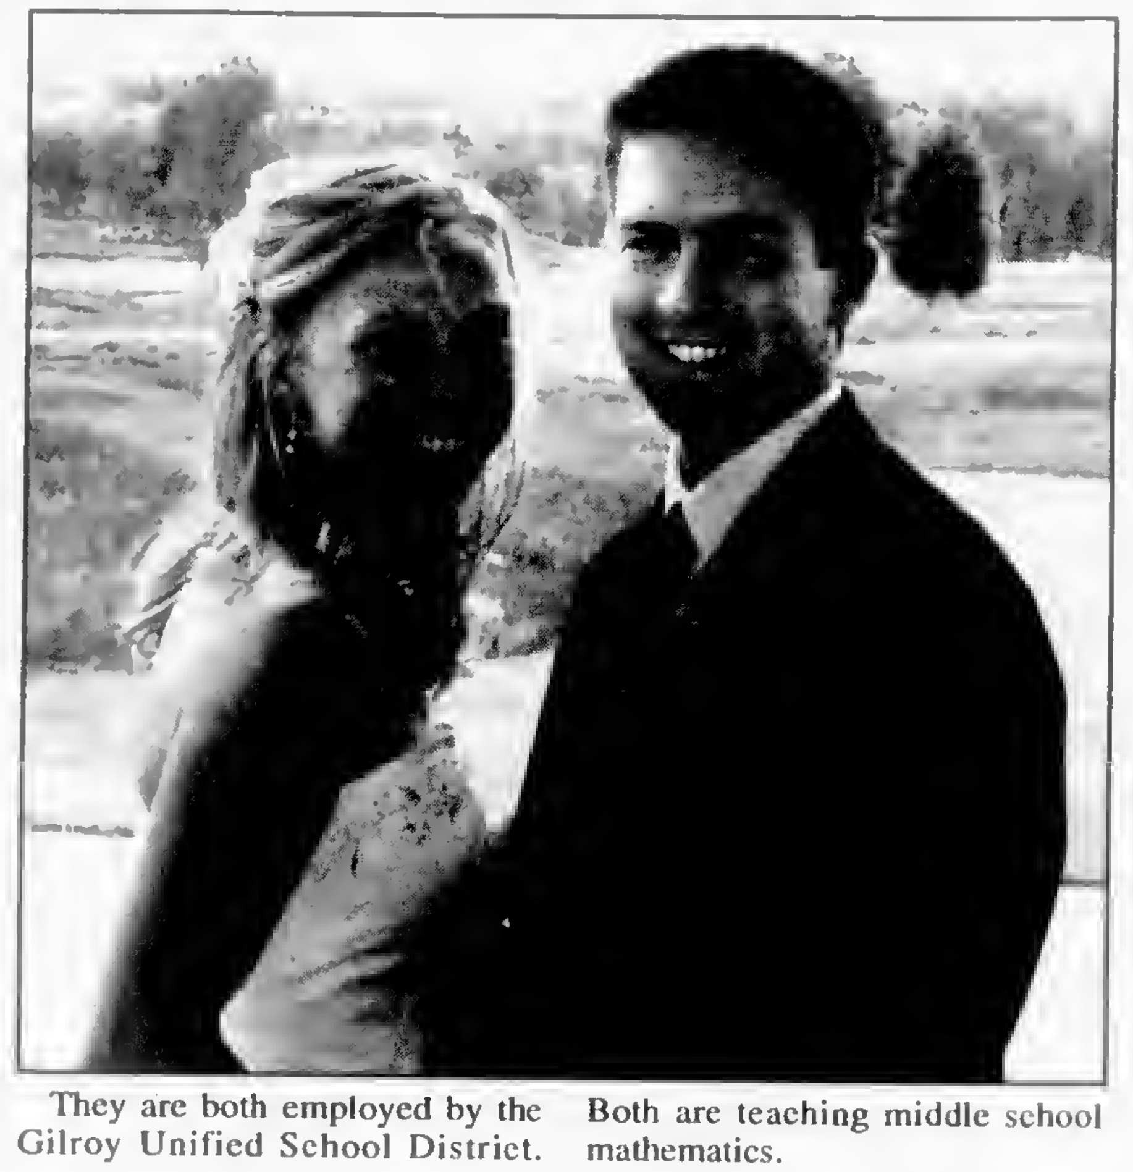
Wedding

Petkewicz — Parton



Holly Jo Petkewicz and William David Parton were married on May 31, 2003.

The Best Man was Mark Adama. Groomsmen were David Becksvoort, Jeffrey Oonk and Peter Todd.

The bride and groom were given away by their family, Bill and Bea Parton of Charlevoix and Judy and Jerry Petkewicz of Charlevoix.

The outdoor wedding was in Grand Rapids at Thornapple Hills Country Club.

The ceromony was performed by close friend Michael Wolfe and Bryan VanderArk who are both pastors at Ada Bible Church. The master and mistress of ceremonies, and cousins' of the groom, were Carla and Stan Gzym.

The couple graduated from Calvin College in Grand Rapids. They live in Morgan Hill, Calif. They are both employed by the Gilroy Unified School District. Both are teaching middle school mathematics.

Anniversary

John and Bev Sladek

John and Bev (Cunningham) Sladek of Charlevoix celebrated their golden anniversary earlier this month.

The couple were married on Oct. 31, 1953 at St. Mary's Church in Charlevoix by Father Denay.

The Sladeks have lived in Charlevoix Township where they raised five children: Barb (Paul) Mossner of Manchester, Iowa; Jim (Rose) Sladek of Butte, Mont.; Kathy (Jen) Sladek of Eastport; Jerry (Lisa) Sladek and Joe (Laural) Sladek both of Charlevoix. They also are very proud to have eight grandchildren as well.

John retired from the U.S. Postal Service in Charlevoix where he served as a mail carrier, clerk and then rural route carrier from 1953 until 1988. Bev worked for the phone company before raising her family and later on drove school bus for Charlevoix area schools from 1968 through 1983.

Their children and grandchildren hosted an anniversary dinner/party for the couple on Nov. 1 at the Charlevoix Yacht Club where approximately 145 guests attended. Helen C. Cunningham, Bev's mother was recognized and thanked for making their fiftieth wedding anniversary cake,. She also made their original wedding day and twenty-fifth anniversary cakes, years prior.

God uses lessons to teach

Beacons of Blessing

By JAN BOSS
Charlevoix Community
Reformed Church

Proverbs 3: 5-12: "Trust in the Lord with all your heart, and do not rely on your own insight. In all your ways acknowledge him, and he will make straight your paths. Do not be wise in your own eyes; fear the Lord, and turn away from evil. It will be a healing for your flesh and a refreshment for your body. Honor the Lord with your substance and with the first fruits of all your produce; then your barns will be filled with plenty, and your vats will be bursting with wine. My child, do not despise the Lord's discipline or be weary of his reproof, for the Lord reproves the one he loves, and a father the son in whom he delights."

I think most people can find something to complain about in the weather category. Just the other day I overheard someone in a store complaining about it, making a statement something like this, "We better have an easy winter this year after the fall we are having; we deserve some kind of break."

It made me chuckle just to think about the arrogance of that statement. Then it dawned on me how many times I've made similar statements over things I thought were unfair or things I don't understand. In fact there are a lot of things that I just don't understand. But, many times I try to explain them away because I need a reason.

It can be weather, it can be finances, it can be pleasure, it can be relationships, it can be problems, it can be illness, but I'm sure God somehow must have gotten mixed up. The real truth is that I'm the one that is mixed up.

You see I have an agenda for my life and as long as God signs on the dotted line and things come out the way I've planned them, He is on my side. But when He says, "I have a lesson for you to learn or be patient, or trust me, I'm really in control." I immediately want to explain away His plan so mine will make more sense.

I can get caught up in that same kind of statement I overheard in the store, "I deserve ..." but fortunately He deals with grace because in honesty I don't think I really want what "I deserve!"

I try to use the fall months as a time of remembering. Remembering all the blessing of the year, all the ways God has blessed me and given me things greater than I ever deserved: Friendships, family, a new home, great kids in the youth group, sunsets that out-do the last great one, bike rides, fresh coffee, starry nights, waves lapping, and the list goes on and on. What are some blessings that God has given you over the last year that you didn't "deserve?"

When trouble hits or something happens that I just don't understand I'm trying to ask myself some questions: "How can I see God's hand working?" "What lesson is to be learned in this one?" or "God, how do you want me act?" I have a lot yet to learn in my life.

I pray I will never forget that and that I can always remember, the God who sent His Son to the manger only to die and rise from the dead for me, can be trusted. He is the one who desires a relationship with me and that He wants what is best for me. I'm not in control of what things come my way, but I am in control of how I react to them.

Obituaries

Eileen O. Fessenden: Oct. 12, 1911 - Nov. 19, 2003

Eileen O. Fessenden died Nov. 19, 2003 at Boulder Park Terrace in Charlevoix at the age of 92.

All who knew her will remember her strong character and the love she had for her family and friends.

A memorial mass will be 10 am, Monday, Dec. 1, 2003, at Saint Mary's Church in Charlevoix. The Rev. Thomas Neis will officiate and interment will be in Saint Mary's Cemetery.

Eileen was born Oct. 12, 1911 to Thomas J. and Isabelle (McFall) O'Brien in Duluth, Minnesota. When Eileen was a small girl, the family moved to Carlton, Minn. After graduating from Carlton High School in 1929, Eileen was trained as a laboratory and x-ray technologist at St. Mary Hospital School in St. Paul, Minn., finishing in 1933. The next year, Eileen married William J. Fessenden in Cloquet, Minn. and came to Charlevoix. At that time William and his father Floyd were operating the Fessenden Drug Store at the corner of Bridge and Mason streets in Charlevoix . William preceded her in death in 1960 after a long illness.

Eileen was employed as an x-ray and laboratory technician by Dr. Gilbert B. Saltonstall at his Clinton Street office for more that 35 years. She also worked in this capacity at both the old and new Charlevoix Area Hospitals. She retired when Dr. Saltonstall closed his practice in 1977. She has been a member of St. Mary of the Assumption Catholic Church since coming to Charlevoix.

Eileen O. Fessenden is survived by her son Thomas J. Fessenden and wife Toni of San Ramon, Calif.; her daughter Kathleen A. Smith and husband Vane of Charlevoix; six grandchildren: Patricia (Smith) Rash, George Smith, James Fessenden, Rebecca (Smith) Frye, Roger Smith and Julianna (Fessenden) Rahn; and seven great-grandchildren: Jordan, Nathan and Eric Smith; Rebecca and Kathleen Rash; Jarret Frye and Adam Rahn.

Memorial contributions may be made to Saint Mary's Church or to Boulder Park Terrace Nursing Home in Charlevoix. The family is being served by the Winchester Funeral Home.

A Mass of the Resurrection was Wednesday, Nov. 26, at Saint Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix. The Rev. Thomas Neis officiated and burial was in Saint Mary's Cemetery in Charlevoix.

Margaret was born Feb. 24, 1917, in Detroit, the daughter of Donald and Alice (Madill) McHugh. She was raised in Charlevoix and graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1933.

She returned to the Detroit area where she raised her family, and worked as administrative assistant at the Heeney-Sundquist Funeral Home for 10 years. She retired to Charlevoix in 1983. Margaret was a member of Saint Mary's Church in Charlevoix, the Gaelic League and was a Charlevoix Area Hospital volunteer. She will be sorely missed by her family and friends.

Margaret is survived by her daughter Sue (James) Soullicre of Charlevoix; sons, Douglas Gregory of East Jordan, and Thomas (Anne) Gregory of Toronto; grandchildren, Jennifer (Robert) Clubb of Charlevoix, Jill (Lewis) Cooper of Grosse Point, Jon Gregory of Denver, Jessica O'Donnell of Central Lake; great-grandchildren, Brandon Story and Christopher Clubb of Charlevoix and Ashley and Jay Cooper of Grosse Pointe; sisters, Anne (Bill) Cagney of Scotts, Kathleen (Steve) Drzick of Kalamazoo and Alice Maher of Westland.

She was preceded in death by her sons, Donald and Douglas.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Women's Resource Center in Petoskey.

Training at CEMEX

CEMEX of Charlevoix hosted a confined space attendant, non-attendant and rescue training session at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Charlevoix from Aug. 25 through 29. A majority of CEMEX employees attended the one day training, which was also offered to other local employers, as well as the local fire departments. Confined spaces are spaces large enough to enter, but have restricted or limited openings and are not designed for regular human occupancy. Rescue efforts are often hampered by the lack of training for the rescuers in a delay of time for the injured or ill person. Above, Bob Crone, second from left, instructs local firefighters at the training.

Charlevoix City audit clean

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

A city of Charlevoix audit for 2002-2003 revealed the city's records are in order, but a few minor changes in procedure are needed to clean up the books even more.

At an October city council meeting Brian Postma, a representative of the Rehmann Group who worked on the city's audit, described the audit as "clean."

City treasurer Rick Brandi said this means the city's records are accurate and correct and Postma didn't find any major issues like too little or too much money in a fund.

If the city's audit came back dirty, Brandi said it would be more difficult to borrow money and the state would pile on requirements to get the city to a point where its audit was clean.

Postma pointed out that in a time when state revenue sharing will likely be slashed and health care costs are on the rise, he is very comfortable with the city's $447,655 fund balance. This money is the city's safety net, it is just over 16 percent of the city's total operating budget.

Postma suggested the city keep between 10 and 20 percent fund balance — enough to pay the bills for three months if something were to happen.

While Postma lauded the work of Brandi and city manager Mike Wiesner he said there are a handful of opportunities for the city to strengthen its internal controls and operating efficiency.

These included turning outstanding checks over to the state. The city had about $900 in unclaimed checks, the majority of which came from utility deposits. These checks have to be given to the state where they can be claimed.

Utility billing was a second place that needed some work. Postma pointed out fluctuations in meter reads and a need for more accurate billing. The city's billing department currently audits the meter reads. Postma suggested the meter readers themselves, who are familiar with the readings, do this review to weed out unusual or unexpected reads.

Operations at Mount McSauba were a third target for change.

Postma said cash from daily operations at the ski hill that has historically been taken to the manager Bo Boss' house, would be better off in a safe. He further suggested daily deposit of receipts with Brandi's office and the installation of an alarm system at the rental building to protect the equipment.

This alarm has been installed.

Lange pulls PUD from Charlevoix Township

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

A request for planned unit development zoning in Charlevoix Township has been taken off the table.

Township planning commission chair, Nancy Rajewski, said she made a mistake when she first reviewed Dorian Lange's application for rezoning from commercial to PUD, planned unit development.

The property in question is 29 acres Lange owns, near the intersection of Boyne City-Charlevoix Road and US-31.

The planning commission heard his request Oct. 15 and voted unanimously in favor of recommending the township board approve it.

But soon after that vote came down, Rajewski said she and Fred Hoisington, the township's planning consultant, compared the application to the township's zoning ordinance and found problems.

She said all the pieces that are required for a parcel to be rezoned to PUD were not in the application and the commission never should have considered it in the first place.

So, instead of letting the application make its way to the Charlevoix County Planning Commission and eventually to the township board for final review, two weeks ago Rajewski called Lange and told him that it was unlikely the board would approve his request.

Lange said she told him the township's zoning ordinance requires that any property rezoned to PUD also include a detailed site plan that shows specific plans for the property. Rajewski said that those plans cannot then be changed without going back through the approval process.

While Lange's master plan concept was included in the application and did outline where commercial and residential development would occur, it wasn't specific enough and isn't necessarily what will definitely happen there.

He said his plans for the property may change and he is still working on all the pieces of the puzzle.

Another requirement in the PUD district that Rajewski said Lange failed to meet is the township's density requirement for the PUD district.

Rajewski said the PUD requirements are "a far cry from whatever they thought they were going to get on there."

In the township's PUD zone, four residential units per acre are allowed.

Lange's master plan concept showed plans for an affordable apartment complex with 112 units fronting on US-31.

Lange said Rajewski did tell him his application was not complete, but didn't mention the density issue.

But for now, he said he is going to work on more detailed, concrete site plans before he submits another application for rezoning to PUD.

The 44 acres that make up the Hayes Township part of the property has already been rezoned to PUD.

Santa Cause promotional donations are not tax-deductible for customers. The $20 donation is a promotional fee to the customer and will be contributed to a local children's charity by Cellular One from Dobson Cellular Systems. A one-month access credit and a prorated portion of one month's access will appear on first billing statement. Double the package minutes offer includes 300 additional anytime minutes on the $29.99 regional rate plan. Free mobile-to-mobile offer requires the purchase of a second line of service. $9.99 partner plan option offer requires the activation of a host and partner line of service, both on two-year agreements. Up to three partner lines may be added to one host line. Free roadside assistance offer valid for two months and must be cancelled by customer prior to fourth billing statement or the monthly feature charge of $2.99 will begin to appear on billing statement. A prorated portion of the monthly roadside assistance fee will appear on the first billing statement. Phones available will vary by location. New activations are contingent upon credit checks and annual agreements. Airtime is billed in one-minute increments. Long distance, roaming, taxes, surcharges and other terms and conditions may apply. See store for details. Available at participating locations only. ©2003 Dobson Cellular Systems. Nov M13

Guess who supports the local boy scouts, little league, etc.

Local merchants are the same people that serve as scoutmasters, coaches or fund raisers for your community. These merchants donate many hours of time and effort to building and improving the community for everyone. If they prosper - we all prosper.

Shopping locally insures that your money will stay at home supporting the things we all need and enjoy. Each dollar spent locally is returned many times over in local services for you and your family.

Think about it! Do you want your money supporting parks, streets or service in some other city? And when is the last time a big city merchant took a local scout troop camping for the weekend?

Exchange students to enjoy first Thanksgiving

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

This week, three 17-year-old seniors at Charlevoix High School will relax and soak in the sweet smells of Thanksgiving for the first time.

Exchange students, Iven Helm, Alex Beynenson and Nurken Ashenov arrived in town in August for their first stay on U.S. soil.

Since then, they have adjusted to the move from big European and Middle Eastern cities to small town USA — tasting American food, fraternizing with American teens and vegging in front of gold old-fashioned American TV.

Now, they will enjoy what is a tradition in many households — the Thanksgiving feast.

The three take off in June after graduation. Both Helm and Beynenson have two more years of high school to complete after returning to Germany and Ashenov already graduated.

Even though the credit doesn't count toward their education, all three of the boys said they are here to learn the English language and more about the culture.

And they are sure to meet their cultural quota this week as they bite into their first holiday, Thanksgiving.

They are all looking forward to the rest and good eats, but Helm and Ashenov weren't quite sure why they would be filling their bellies with turkey and all the fixings.

Helm thought it was just a time when turkey is eaten and Ashenov believes it is a celebration of the change in season. But Beynenson set the record straight, explaining the pilgrim story and even elaborated a little on how the holiday operates in most families.

"It's a family holiday; everyone joins around the table and celebrates to say thank you for what they have," he said.

Beynenson, will do just that this holiday season. Instead of spending the day with his host family, Sandy and Steve Bennett, he will travel to New York City to visit relatives in Brighton Beach.

Helm, will also hit the road en route to big city turkey time. He and his host parents, Tom and Lisa Foley, and their kids, Gene and Bill, are off to Detroit to spend the holiday with friends.

In Germany, where Helm and Beynenson are from, residents celebrate a harvest festival in late October, but don't have a holiday that mirrors Thanksgiving.

The two will leave Ashenov in Charlevoix, where he will celebrate his first American holiday in the comfort of his home with his host parents, Diane Penfold and Dick Sayward and his American sisters Michael and Madison Sayward.

PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE
Charlevoix City Council
December 15, 2003 • 7:00 p.m.

The Charlevoix City Council will hold a public hearing on Monday, December 15, 2003 at 7:00 p.m. at 109 Coast Guard Drive, USCGC Acacia Conference/Training Room, Charlevoix, MI 49720 to receive public input on proposed amendments to Chapter 51 of the City Code. The proposed amendments will repeal Section 5.212 (12) and amend Sections 5.212(8) and Section 5.214(7) to allow the Central Business District to pay into the parking improvement fund.

A complete copy of the proposed language is available at the City Clerk's Office.

Interested citizens can make comments at the public hearing or written comments may be sent to the City Clerk's Office, 210 State Street, P.O. Box 550, Charlevoix, Michigan.

Elizabeth A. Gooch, City Clerk

The City of Charlevoix will provide necessary reasonable auxiliary aids and services, such as signers for the hearing impaired and audio tapes of printed materials being considered at the meeting, to individuals with disabilities at the meeting upon 1 week's notice to the City of Charlevoix. Individuals with disabilities requiring auxiliary aids or services should contact the City of Charlevoix Clerk's Office in writing or call the following: City Clerk, 210 State Street, P.O. Box 550, Charlevoix, MI 49720 (231) 547-3250.

Official Notice

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX
Ordinance No. 692 of 2003

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND SECTION 10.1 OF CHAPTER 145 OF TITLE X -TRAFFIC OF THE CODE OF THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX BY ADOPTING THE UNIFORM TRAFFIC CODE AND THE MOTOR VEHICLE CODE.

THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS:

SECTION 1. Amendment of Section 10.1, Chapter 145, Title X-Traffic.

10.1. Code adopted.

(1) Adoption of the Uniform Traffic Code. The Uniform Traffic Code for Cities, Townships, and Villages promulgated by the Commissioner of State Police on January 14, 1958, and published in Supplement No.13, as amended on February 14, 1961, and published in Supplement No. 25, on February 26, 1968, and published in Supplement No. 54, on July 20, 1976, and published in Supplement No. 88 and as last amended February 10, 1978, and published in Supplement No. 94, all of said Supplements being to the 1954 Michigan Administrative Code, and in accordance with Public Act 62 of 1956, Stato of Michigan, is hereby adopted by reference as in this Chapter modified. All future amendments of the Uniform Treffic Code for Cities, Townships, and Villages may be adopted by resolution of the City Council of Charlevoix.

(2) Adoption of the Michigan Motor Vehicle Code. The Michigan Motor Vehiclo Code, Public Act 300 of 1949, as amended, being MCL 257.1 to 257.923, is hereby adopted by reference by the City of Charlevoix. All references in the Michigan Motor Vehicle Code to "local authorities" shall be construed as referencing the City of Charlevoix.

SECTION 2. Purpose of the Motor Vehicle Code

The purpose of the Michigan Motor Vehicle Code is to provide for the following:

A. The regulation of certain vehicles operated upon the public highways of the state of Michigan or any other place open to the public or generally accessible to motor vehicles and distress vehicles within the state of Michigan

B. The regulation of use of streets and highways within the state of Michigan;

C. Penalties and sanctions for violation of the Michigan Motor Vehicle Code;

D. Civil liability of owners and operators of vehicles and service of process on residents of the state of Michigan and nonresidents;

E. Enforcement of the motor vehicle code;

F. The creation and specifications of the powers and duties of certain state and local authorities and agencies

SECTION 3. Notice of Availablility of Copy of Motor Vehicle Act.

Notice Is hereby given that e complete copy of the Michigan Motor Vehicle Code, PA 300 of 1949, as emended, being MCL 257.1 to 257.923, is available to the public for inspection at the office of the city clerk. This shall also serve as notice that the city shall not enforce any provision of the Michigan Motor Vehicle Code having a maximum period of imprisonment greater than ninety-three (93) days.

SECTION 4. Severablility

If any article, section, subsection, sentence, clause, phrase, or portion of this Ordinance is held to be invalid or unconstitutional by any court of competent jurisdiction, the city intends said portion to be disregarded, reduced and/or revised so as to be recognized to the fullest extent possible by law. The city further states that it would have passed and edopted what remains of this Ordinanco following the removal, reduction or revision of any portion so found to be invalid or unconstitutional.

SECTION 5. Effective Date

This Ordinance shall become effoctivo thirty (30) days after its enactment.

Motion by Councilman Chamberlain and seconded by Councilman Haggard to adopt Ordinance No. 693 at the Regular City Council Meeting held on November 24th, 2003 by the following yea and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmembers Gibson, Haggard, Timms, Bellows, Campbell and Chamberlain.
Nays: None.
Absent: None.

Poster contest winners announced

Charlevoix students produced impressive entries for this year's poster contests sponsored by the Charlevoix Area Garden Club.

Club members met on Nov. 11 to determine top awards for students of both Charlevoix Elementary and St. Mary's schools. Hundreds of students participated in the two contests "Plant a Garden for the Future" and the "Smokey the Bear/Woodsy the Owl."

"Each year the children find new ways to depict the theme," said juror Marie Priebe of the Charlevoix Garden Club. "They are so creative."

First, second, and third place winners were selected for each grade level from K-4 from the combined entries of the two elementary schools in the "Smokey the Bear/Woodsy the Owl" contest.

They include:

First Grade — first place: Sammy Hovie; second place: Kourtney Putman and third place: Brody Robarge.

Second Grade — first place: Jody McKinney; second place: Shelby Robinson and third place: Cora Taylor.

Third Grade — first place: Carly Thompson; second place Ryder Boss and third place: Janaye Baier.

Grade Four — first place: Christina Russell; second place: Tyler Loper; and third place: Madalyne May.

The Garden Club also simultaneously sponsors the poster contest titled "Plant a Garden for the Future" and local students in grades 1-6 were eligible to compete. This contest was judged not only for its artistic merit, but also for the reasons given by the artists for choosing the plants and animals displayed in their posters.

Winners in this contest were:

First grade — first place: Dávid Kirk and second place: Janessa Houghton.

Second grade — first place: Erin Stebe; second place: Emily Volovsek and third place: Nicholas Snabes.

Third grade — first place: Josh Hogan; second place: Desiree Drewa and third place: Grace Glenny.

Fourth grade — first place: Trenton Bradley; second place: Samantha Sell and third place: Zachary Merrill.

Fifth grade — first place: Megan Zawisza; second place: Kathryn Sell, and third place: Jacob Baier.

Sixth grade — first place: Krista Pischner; second place: Madeline Jeakle; and third place: Tyler Troppman.

The first place winners of each contest at each grade level will be sent on for further competition at the state and regional level. All winners will receive a certificate to be presented by the Garden Club in the spring at a tea given in their honor.

The top local winners of each contest will receive a U.S. savings bond worth $50 at maturity, a gift from the Charlevoix Area Garden Club.

Christina Russell, a fourth grade student at Charlevoix Elementary is the 2003 overall winner of the Smokey the Bear/Woodsy the Owl contest and Megan Zawisza, a fifth grader at St. Mary's, is the overall winner of the "Plant a Garden for the Future" contest.

Island church to host annual Cantata

The third annual Beaver Island Christmas Cantata will be performed at 2 p.m. on Dec. 6 and 7, at the Beaver Island Christian Church.

A choir of 35 voices and an orchestra of 13 have been rehearsing the program since early September.

Choir Director Kathy Speck said she is always amazed at number of gifted individuals who become involved in the program.

"For such a small community to have this much talent in one weekend's performance is really something," said Speck. "It's a great way to start the holidays."

Choir members and musicians from all three island churches perform in the Cantata. The performance is supported by the Christian Church Music Fund and contributions from Holy Cross Church and individuals. For those interested in contributing to future performances of the Cantata, a free-will donation box will be available.

This year's Cantata selection, "The Promise of a King," includes new Christmas music, blending with traditional favorites and the narration of the Christmas story.

The choir will also perform a favorite from last year, "Mary, Did You Know?" by Mark Lowry and Buddy Green.

Last year's audience included a number of individuals from the mainland who had heard about the Cantata and traveled to the island to attend the event.

The choir will also be performing at the Ecumenical Thanksgiving Day service, which will be at 10 a.m. on Nov. 26, at Holy Cross Catholic Church.

Charlevoix women training for marathon

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Lisa Carlson and Leslee Pearson are up before the sun, tying their sneakers and stretching their sleepy legs to prep for their morning run.

Just after 6 a.m. Pearson joins a group of friends that run from the north to Charlevoix's south side while Carlson and Kris Way meet on the south side and make their way north.

The morning routine of these Charlevoix residents has them running in different directions, but they are planning to meet at the same finish line. The two are training to run the hallowed Boston Marathon.

Carlson, 35, a nurse and mother of two, said in the runner's circle the Boston Marathon is known to be the granddaddy of all marathons. But it isn't easy to participate in, you have to qualify.

Pearson, 41, is a nurse and personal trainer who qualified in December of 2002 when she ran the Rocket City Marathon in Huntsville, Ala. The course winds along the foothills of the Smoky Mountains and was a "grueling" run for Pearson. But she said the exhilarating thrill of the finish made it worth it.

"It gives you the feeling that you can do anything," Pearson said.

Carlson, 35, qualified Nov. 2 when she ran the New York Marathon in New York City. This was her third time running this marathon in the hope of qualifying for Boston.

She joined over 30,000 other runners in the New York run that took her through all five boroughs. She finished the race in 3 hours, 45 minutes and 39 seconds — 20 seconds before she would have missed the cutoff.

She would have came in a little sooner if it hadn't been for mile 23 when she got a huge side cramp and had to deal with the entourage surrounding fellow runner and celebrity Shawn "P. Diddy" Combs.

While the two took different paths to qualify for the April 19, 2004 Boston Marathon, the reason they will be there is the same, they set a goal and refused to stop until they reached it.

At 39, Pearson set the goal to qualify for the Boston Marathon by 40. She said she excels in short, fast runs, but dug deep and made it.

"It's one of the hardest things I've ever done. I'm always setting goals for myself and I'm pretty determined," she said.

Carlson is the junior varsity girls basketball coach at Charlevoix High School and she said making the cut and reaching her goal was an important life lesson to share with her players.

Both women said their next goal is to finish the Boston Marathon in under four hours.

This will be Pearson's first large group run.

"The numbers will definitely be overwhelming. But I'm going for the thrill of saying I ran a Boston — the experience of telling my grandkids that grandma ran the Boston Marathon," Pearson said.

Goal setting for these two won't stop at the finish line. Pearson said in July of 2004 she plans to ride with her husband Woody in the Tour de France. And Carlson has her sites set on the Marine Corps Marathon in Arlington, Va.

Obituaries

C. Mary Nielsen: March 19, 1914 - Nov. 14, 2003

C. Mary Nielsen, 89, of Durand, passed away Friday, Nov. 14, 2003 at the Durand Convalescent Center.

Memorial services will be at 3 p.m., Dec. 4, 2003 at the Ironton Congregational Church. Cremation has taken place, no visitation is scheduled at this time.

Mrs. Nielsen was born March 19, 1914, in Charlevoix, the daughter of Orville Robert and Anna Iris (Dodd) Beattie.

She married Thomas Christian Nielsen in Charlevoix on Oct. 28, 1933, and he preceded her in death on Aug. 28, 1989. Mrs. Nielsen was a homemaker and mother. She also worked as an inspector at Courters, Inc. in Boyne City. She was a member of the Democratic Party, UAW and a former 60 year member of the Ironton Congregational Church.

Survivors include: five daughters, Doris Schowald of Winston-Salem, N.C., Joyce Rhoades of Seattle, Wash., Terry Enlund of Crossville, Tenn., Sharon Johnson of Durand and Mary Schwaderer of Lansing; eleven grandchildren; and eleven great-grandchildren.

Dorothy Beth Penn: Jan. 29, 1922 - Nov. 16, 2003

Dorothy Beth Penn died Sunday, Nov. 16, 2003 following a long illness. She was born Dorothy Hollister in Spivey, Kansas on Jan. 29, 1922 and was a resident of Charlevoix for nearly 30 years.

She completed nurse's training at St. Francis Hospital in Wichita, Kansas and later married Jesse W. Penn on August 26, 1944 while he was stationed in Fort Myers, Fla. with the U.S. Army Air Corps.

Mr. Penn owned Great Lakes Fabrication in Charlevoix and Mrs. Penn worked as a registered nurse at the Charlevoix Hospital for many years and later in the office of Dr. Robert Martin.

Mrs. Penn and her husband moved to Lockhart, Texas in 1984 where he worked as a production engineer for Kewaunee Scientific Equipment Corp. until his retirement in 1992. At that time, they moved to Lake Dallas, Texas.

Mrs. Penn resided in an assisted living facility in Flower Mound, Texas for the past three years.

She is survived by a son, Randy of Flower Mound, Texas; daughter Patricia Kroken and her husband Bruce, of Albuquerque, N.M.; granddaughter Christina (Kroken) Barber and her husband Thomas, of Lemoore, Calf.; granddaughter Jennifer (Kroken) Amann and her husband Patrick of Albuquerque, N.M. and great-grandsons, Zachary and Jacob Barber.

Funeral services were at the Rosewood Memorial Gardens cemetery in Denton, Texas on Nov. 20, 2003.

Those wishing to make a donation in Mrs. Penn's honor are asked to contribute to Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Jordan G. Spencer: Oct. 13, 1972 - Nov. 22, 2003

Jordan G. Spencer, 31, of Charlevoix, died Saturday, Nov. 22, 2003 in Houghton County.

A funeral will be at 1:30 p.m., Wednesday, Nov. 26, 2003, at the Winehester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. The Rev. Miehael Dennis will officiate and burial will be in Undine Cemetery in Hayes Township.

Jordan was born October 13, 1972, in Petoskey, the son of Gary G. and Carla J. (Riley) Speneer. He graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1991. He was a carpenter by trade and he loved to hunt, fish and play golf.

Jordan is survived by his parents, Gary and Carla Spencer; sister, Ember Witthoeft; niece, Jasmine Witthoeft and maternal grandmother, June Riley, all of Charlevoix. He is also survived by his aunts and uncles, Lee (Margaret) Spencer of Belding, Ruth Ann (Bob) Chapman of San Antonio, Texas and Charlevoix, Joan (Butch) Wagner of Charlevoix and Gayle (Jerry) Andersen of East Jordan; and several cousins.

Contributions in Jordan's memory may be made to a charity of your choice.

Stomach flu strikes area

Many people in the Charlevoix area have reported gastrointestinal symptoms to the Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency, the local health department that serves Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet, and Otsego Counties.

"We carefully investigate outbreaks like this one," said Joshua Meyerson, M.D., medical director of the agency. "We have nurses and sanitarians trained to conduct investigations of communicable diseases. They're talking to everyone who is ill to determine possible causes."

Charlevoix area residents who are experiencing nausea, vomiting or diarrhea are asked to contact the health department's Charlevoix office at (800) 423-4121 during regular business hours so investigators can contact them.

In the meantime, Meyerson said, handwashing — thoroughly and often — is the best defense against contracting a communicable disease.

The Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency is the local health department serving Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet, and Otsego Counties. Its staff is dedicated to preventing disease and injury and promoting healthy communities.

Rayders fall in finals

By ALLEN TELGENHOF
Sports writer

The Charlevoix Rayders closed out their season with a 50-37 loss to Harbor Springs in the district finals.

Charlevoix had defeated Elk Rapids, 77-53 to reach the final game.

Against Harbor Springs, the Rayders took advantage of cold shooting by the Rams early on to take a 12-2 advantage. Charlevoix led 14-6 at the end of the first period and 20-14 at the half.

The Rams surged ahead with a 16-8 advantage in the third quarter to take a 30-28 lead heading into the final stanza.

The game was tight for the first four minutes of the final period and Shannon Dibble's three-pointer cut the Harbor advantage to 38-37 with just under four minutes to go. The Rams held Charlevoix scoreless the rest of the way though to take the win.

The Rayders, who finished their season with a 13-10 record, were hurt by their six for 16 free throw shooting. Harbor was 17 for 21 from the line.

Kari Way scored 14 points and had six rebounds and four steals. Sarah Cross had eight points and twelve rebounds.

In the victory over Elk Rapids, Cross scored 18 points. Way tallied 12 points. Madison McKenzie and Rachel Wyniawskyj scored nine and eight respectively.

Center open house

Charlevoix County Commission on Aging announced the Open House of the Adult Day Center from 5 to 7 p.m., on Dec. 11, located at 116 Main Street in East Jordan.

Two years have passed since the Charlevoix County Commission on Aging opened the doors for the Adult Day Center.

The new Coordinator of the Adult Day Center is Barbara Shooks, R.N., formerly with Northwest Community Health. She is assisted by Pixie Fortune, previous Health Aide at the Commission on Aging and the Health Department. Fortune is also an experienced hair stylist an nail technician, which adds a special touch to the Adult Day Center setting where participants can get their nails done and hair styled, plus receive expert personal care.

The Adult Day Center is designed to provide a safe, nurturing environment for memory impaired or frail elderly with medical conditions which do not allow them to be left home alone. This not only provides a much needed respite for the caregiver, but also aids in the prevention of early admission to a nursing home.

A family member may seek assistance from the Adult Day Center for their loved one, who needs assistance with mobility, has a loss of cognitive function or a medical condition that requires monitoring during the day. Specific medical treatments such as checking blood sugars, inhalation therapies, foot care, diet monitoring, wound care or assistance with activities of daily living such as dressing, bathing, eating, toileting, shaving or hair care can be performed as well. Diet intake and socialization during mealtime, often improves appetites in elderly who are failing to thrive.

The Adult Day Center is a group setting which offers social interaction and activities that are specialized to their level of mental functioning. The staff assess their strengths and abilities and help improve self esteem and self-worth again with the use of exercise programs, music therapy, crafts, gardening, field trips, and reminiscent therapy.

Families who use the Adult Day Center can relax while knowing that their loved one is safe and in a nurturing atmosphere. Caregivers can plan a full day of errands, appointments, and maintain employment.

However, there are many caregivers who are reluctant to try adult day services. It may take a few visits to the day center to develop a comfort level for both caregiver and participant.

The staff will work closely with the family to individualize the participant's care and activities. The caregivers will soon realize that this is not only a break for them but also a chance for the participant to spend time with others with memory loss or functional needs while having fun and stimulating their abilities.

The Adult Day Center of East Jordan is accepting clients from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Intake and assessments can be conducted in East Jordan at this time or by calling the Commission on Aging office in Charlevoix at (231) 237-0103 or Barbara Shooks at East Jordan Adult Day Center at (231) 536-5300.

City police stepping up seat-belt patrols

The Charlevoix City Police is participating in the Buckle Up America Campaign, which runs from Nov. 17 through Nov. 30.

This national effort is meant to raise the driving public's compliance with our seatbelt and child restraint laws.

The Charlevoix Police Department has been running high-visibility, directed patrols, aimed specifically at seatbelt enforcement. In the first week of these patrols,18 seatbelt violation tickets have been issued.

"This effort is meant to make seatbelt and child restraint use second nature to the driving public. These devices save lives and prevent injuries," according to Charlevoix Police Chief Dennis Halverson. "Your presence is important to us. 'Buckle up' to you and yours."

SPENCER

toward him — you just wanted to be around him."

The night of the accident, Jordan was sharing a drive from his family's hunting cabin in Curtis with his friend and co-worker, Charlevoix resident John Olson, who was going to pick up his son.

The two were just 15 minutes from their destination when Jordan lost control of Olson's Ford F-350 pickup on slushy roads.

Both were thrown from the vehicle. Jordan died at the scene and Olson was transported to Ontonagon County Memorial Hospital where he was treated and released.

Even though the weather wasn't ideal for a drive, Jordan's friends and family said it wasn't out of character for him to offer to share a tough task like a long drive with a friend. Wagner said he was a loyal friend.

Wagner often spent time with Jordan playing music. Jordan played the drums in the Charlevoix High School band and continued to play after graduating in 1991.

In between his junior and senior years in high school Jordan joined the National Guard. Carla said the decision to enlist came as no surprise, Jordan was always a fan of the armed services. When he was a young boy she would find his little green army guys hidden in her plants around their Hayes Township home where he grew up.

The album pages were also filled with shots of Jordan playing sports in high school and standing over deer he brought home each hunting season. He was an avid outdoorsman .who would hunt around the state and fish local rivers with his father, Gary, a surveyor with Ferguson and Chamberlain Associates in Charlevoix.

As his mom, Carla, the former Charlevoix County Equalization Director, flipped through the album pages she talked about being pregnant with Jordan, the tough delivery that brought him into the world on Oct. 13, 1972, the adorable baby he was and the generous man he had become.

Carla said not a holiday went by when Jordan wouldn't come to her former office at the Charlevoix County Building to show gifts to her co-workers before proudly handing them over to his mom.

With the holidays on the horizon, family members giggled as they remembered the way Jordan would work the family gift exchange commonly known in the Spencer circle as "the game."

"Jordan was fun to have around. He was our entertainer," Carla said.

His grandma, June Riley, tilted her head back and smiled as she fondly recalled Jordan moments, "He had a tremendous sense of humor."

Spencer wasn't married and had no children, but his sister Ember Witthoeft said he had a big place in his heart for his cousins and niece. Carla said he would have been a proud father.

Friends and family will attend a funeral at 1:30 p.m. today, Nov. 26, at Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

Shop Charlevoix and benefit the hospital

Local merchants are helping Charlevoix Area Hospital raise funds for equipment with the Third Annual Shop Charlevoix promotion.

Most stores will feature bedpans decorated by area school children to encourage shoppers to make a donation to the hospital.

On Friday, Nov. 28, many local merchants will display their decorated bedpans and collect loose change benefiting the equipment needs for the hospital's new Emergency Department and the new Obstetrical wing. Many stores will donate a percent of their sales toward the project as well.

Shop Charlevoix is a project of the Retail Committee of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce and the Business and Professional Committee of the Charlevoix Area Hospital Foundation.

"Shop Charlevoix" demonstrates to the community that merchants and retailers here support the hospital and that when money is spent locally it turns in jobs, groceries, gas, construction and donations that benefit the community.

Many merchants will have special holiday sales going on at this time of year, so shoppers will find a lot of bargains in the community.

Participating merchants will provide shoppers with a wide range of locations to have a meal, decorate their home, fill a prescription, visit their local bank, buy a tree for the holidays, have their hair done, go to the movies, purchase some new shoes or clothing, get a book, purchase new furniture, do their Christmas shopping and pick up some cheese and wine.

Participating merchants include: Charlevoix Screen Masters, Charlevoix North Easy Mart, Taco Bell, Giuseppe's Italian Grille, Don's Market, Mason Interiors, Elements, New Trademark, Three Chairs, Village Inn Pizza, Carey's Shoes, Central Drug Store, American Spoon, J. Phillips, Charlevoix Wear, The Clothing Company, Subway, Charlevoix Courier, Interior Motives, Charlevoix State Bank, Citizens Bank, Bridge Street Book Shop, Aartvark Studio, Charlevoix Camera, Charlevoix Easy Mart, Bullfrog Light Company, Grey Gables and Friske's Farm Market.

Shoppers are encouraged to watch for participating merchants and their associates, many of whom will be wearing hospital scrubs.

Minor injuries in accident on US-31, near Burgess Road

On Nov. 20, 2003, the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office responded to a one vehicle Personal Injury Accident on US-31 North near Burgess Road.

The driver, Tracy Glen Cheaves, 38, of Ellsworth was on US-31 North, when he had a minor seizure while driving his 2001 GMC Yukon. The passenger, Katherine Lee Cooper, 39, also of Ellsworth was able to grab the steering wheel and was able to somewhat control the vehicle down the embankment.

The vehicle came to rest near Lake Michigan.

Cheaves was taken by Charlevoix EMS to Charlevoix Area Hospital where he was treated for the seizure and other minor injuries. Cooper was not injured in the accident.

Alcohol was not a factor in this accident and both subjects were wearing their seatbelts at the time of the accident.

Hospital hosts Holly Daze

HOLLY

Event Coordinator Patti Barraw stands with some of the items for auction at this year's Holly Daze.

Barraw said many consistent patrons of Holly Daze told her they already had too many Christmas trees and were not interested in bidding on any more. Therefore, the decision was made to leave big trees out of this year's auction.

"This year we are concentrating on smaller items and package items," Barraw said.

The live auction, which will start with dinner at 6 p.m., Dec. 3 at the Charlevoix Country Club on US-31 North will focus more on packages this year.

Barraw said some of the items in the live auction will be: a chance to be a worker at Dairy Queen for a day; a chance to hang out with the local blues band Mojo and the Boogieman for an evening; a chance to be treated like a goddess for an evening, with a massage and manicure at J. Marie Salon and Beyond and a tarot card reading by Kim Left; a 6 foot copper bird feeder; dinner at the Lepman home catered by City Park Grille and a sculptured steel Christmas tree.

Additionally, the silent auction, which was a week-long event in the past, has been shortened this year to two days. And those of you who still would like to bid on a Christmas tree, can still do so at the silent auction, but the trees are small decorated desktop ones.

Also, this year, patrons at the silent auction can buy the item they are bidding on if they meet a certain market price for that item — which is generally 25 percent off the retail price. This means if you really want the item you are bidding on at the silent auction, instead of bidding on it, you can buy it for less than what you would pay for retail.

The silent auction will have gift certificates, art, gift packages and gift baskets among many other items.

"You name it, we have it," Barraw said.

The silent auction will be from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., Dec. 5 and from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Dec. 6 at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

As part of the silent auction, the hospital will also be hosting an "Elf School" for kids at 11 a.m., 12 p.m. and 1 p.m., Dec. 6 at the hospital. In the Elf School, children can learn to be elves for Santa and even get a diploma. There are only 60 openings for the school.

For more information, call 547-8685.

There is also a preview dinner from 6 to 9 p.m., Nov. 30 at the Charlevoix Country Club. Call the club at 237-0644 to make reservations.

The proceeds from this year's Holly Daze will be used to buy a gamma probe that will detect cancer, as well as three defibrillators and $13,000 worth of equipment for the Jordan Valley Rehab Center.

Around $115,000 was raised last year.

At around 6 p.m. Santa traveled from the North Pole to East Park where he hit the breaker and lit the tree.

Town goes dark.... again

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

High winds wreaked havoc on the city of Charlevoix again:

Charlevoix kicked off the lunch hour on the first day of December in the dark when the lights went out across the city.

Just after noon on Monday a poplar tree behind Vidosh Landscaping on the north side of town couldn't hold out anymore. The wind blew the tree onto the lower conductor of a Consumer's Energy primary distribution power line.

According to Tim Pietryga, spokesman for Consumer's Energy, the downed tree cut off the service to the whole city. He said townships were not affected.

Consumer's had power up and running again at 1:17 p.m.

But after hanging out in the dark for over an hour, some students and workers had gone home.

Commissioners upset with council

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

City council's decision to not schedule a public hearing to discuss proposed amendments to the city's zoning ordinance has the planning commission hot under the collar.

"They didn't even give the people a public hearing," planning commission chair Dennis Kusina said. "This was a slap in the face of the planning commission after doing all that work."

The commission has been working on the amendment since early March when Diane Gillette, owner of Sunnybank Retirement Community in Petoskey, approached them with a plan to bring a similar facility to Charlevoix's north side.

The commission found there is no provision in the ordinance to handle this type of development and got to work to recommend an amendment to the ordinance to city council.

After being sent back to the drawing board twice by council, they eventually came up with a proposal to permit assisted living facilities in the R-1 and R-2 single family residential districts with a special use permit.

But on Nov. 17 when it came time for council to set a public hearing in the matter all systems were not go.

Some city residents, three council members and mayor Gabe Campbell said this commercial use does not belong in the single family residential district. They were adamant that its place is in the R-4 residential district where apartment buildings are allowed or the commercial district.

Third ward council person Shirley Gibson who voted against setting the hearing said she knew what the final outcome would be, the issue didn't have the votes to pass muster so why set a hearing.

This decision had third ward councilman Sherm Chamberlain angry. He said this issue that the commission had worked on for over seven months deserved a

Armed intruder call leads to investigation

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office was dispatched to a complaint of an "Armed Intruder" at a residence on the East Jordan - Ellsworth road in South Arm Township.

The call was a third party call received by the Charlevoix Central Dispatch shortly after eight p.m. on Wednesday evening. The original call came from a person in Traverse City.

Shortly after arrival by the officers, it was determined that a civil matter had turned sour with the parties making threats towards each other. One person threatened the other person with a shotgun after being threatened with a large flashlight.

During the investigation, officers discovered suspected narcotics and drug paraphernalia. The incident further revealed a minor at the residence had consumed alcohol while at the home.

No charges have been filed at this time as the investigation continues. The minor was released to a family member.

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office was assisted at the scene by the East Jordan Police Department, Michigan State Police, Straits Area Narcotics Team and East Jordan EMS.

Sheriff George T. Lasater was both pleased and grateful for the response of the assisting agencies.

Work begins on May Street development

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

People seeking an affordable place to live will have another option by spring.

After over a decade of planning and some major road blocks, construction has started on May Street Apartments. Work at the site started the end of September and is expected to be complete by the end of June with units ready for occupancy in late May.

The $1.8 million project being developed by the Boyne City based company LeDay Inc. and its owner Bob Brooks is located at 1007 May Street.

"Market studies show there is a need for this type of housing in Charlevoix, Boyne City and in Petoskey," Brooks said. "Myself and MSHDA (Michigan State Housing Development Authority) would not have done this project if we didn't feel there was a demand."

Funding for the development is coming from four sources, a $963,000 mortgage through MSHDA, a $381,000 home loan mortgage through the federal government, $421,664 from the sale of tax credits to a syndicate and $63,156 out of Brooks' pocket.

The loan from the state has to be repaid first, then the federal loan has to be tackled. While Brooks is paying off the state loan the federal loan does not collect interest.

The Charlevoix complex sits on 2.4 acres that Brooks owns. The development will include 12 one-bedroom apartments and 12 two-bedroom apartments. They will all have central air, dishwashers and washers and dryers. The property itself will be heavily landscaped before the project is complete.

Residents will have to apply to live there and Brooks will make eligibility and rent decisions based on federal and state income guidelines and the number of family members. He estimated rent falling between $221 and $575.

While city council has recognized a need for affordable housing in the city, in 1999 their vote against the May Street development was one of the things that held the project up.

Initially, Brooks had designed the development as a rural development housing complex. But then funding to that state department was cut to where they were only doing about two projects in the state each year.

So, he decided to work with the development authority. But then opposition from city residents and ultimately city council put the breaks on.

The property was rezoned from R-1, single family residential, to R-4, multiple family residential, in 1991. The development plan for the 24 unit complex was also approved at that time.

Then, in 1999, the city changed its tune and denied the development application claiming that because almost eight years had gone by, the property had reverted back to R-1.

"They down zoned it. They took away the zoning classification and said we can't build the apartments," Brooks said.

So Brooks sued the city. In August of 2001, 33rd Circuit Court Judge Richard Pajtas sided with Brooks.

While Brooks did not seek big money in the lawsuit he did get a needed tax break out of the deal.

To do the project, Brooks needed a payment in lieu of taxes (PILOT) designation. In the lawsuit settlement the city agreed to provide Brooks with the PILOT, so LeDay will now pay the city a percentage of the rent they collect each year instead of a percentage of the property's taxable value.

Brooks said the savings isn't money that will line his pockets though.

"Any savings you get you pass along to the tenants and lower rents," he said.

Brooks said come spring it is likely that a variety of people from different backgrounds will be taking advantage of the affordable accommodations May Street Apartments will offer including, young families, singles and the elderly.

LeDay manages 96 apartment units in Boyne City called Parkview Apartments that complex is full and over 40 percent of its residents are elderly with the other 60 percent split between families and singles.

Enjoy life now, you cannot foresee the future

Jeremy McBain

'Just a thought'

You just never know when life is going to make things more interesting.

I have always thought this was good advice for anyone. Basically, it means you should live life to its fullest every day. You just never know when it is going to be your last.

I had a cousin who lived by this code and it was something she passed on to me before she died from cancer in her early 20s four years ago. So, from that moment, and to now, I always thought, "Live."

But, it was always easier to say, never easy to do. Therefore I always found myself living a life filled with stress — especially as the editor of a small town newspaper.

Little did I know I was going to find out how misguided this was.

It started late last summer as I trained for the final highland games of the season. I noticed something was wrong. I was going to the bathroom more. I thought it was just a little bug or something from the training, but it continued. So, I went to see a doctor.

We didn't find anything to worry about. So, my doctor and I decided to just keep an eye on the situation.

Then the blood started to show up from a place it shouldn't come from and a lot of it. And then, the abdominal pain started. Also I was losing a lot of weight. In fact, I had lost about 30 pounds in a month. Now we had a problem.

But, I am young. So, I continued to train, but the blood continued to show its red scary face and the pain continued to worsen.

Soon after my final highland games competition — I took second in the caber toss, by the way — I found myself in Charlevoix Area Hospital undergoing a series of tests that I thought I would never have to bother with until I was much older.

It was when those results came back that I started to worry. I discovered at the age of 28 I had an incurable disease called Crohn's Disease. Just a month before, I was throwing heavy weights around a field in a kilt and now I could barely eat, was bleeding out of my rear and was just told I had a disease with no cure.

The news hit me a little hard.

Crohn's Disease is considered a "prime of life" disease, because it hits in the teens and 20s. It is a non-fatal disease, where your intestines are attacked by your own body. The inflammation from this causes diarrhea, abdominal pain, bleeding and weight loss, as well as depression. There is no cure or any known cause, but food, stress and genetics are believed to play a role.

The disease tends to have flare-up periods and periods of remission. Remission can last anywhere from a couple of days to years. As for the effects of the disease, everyone is different.

My doctors, bless their hearts, tried to ease my fears. They told me not to worry, the medicine I would be taking for the rest of my life would ease the trouble. I would be able to live a normal life, but probably have to watch what I eat. In the meantime, they sent me to a specialist in Petoskey.

But, depression still sunk in for the next few weeks as my mind tried to wrap around the idea that I have a chronic disease.

I worried, "What will this do to my life? What kind of life will I have? Will I be in pain forever? Will I ever be as strong as I once was?"

But then I remembered my cousin and her code of living. This gave me courage to face my disease.

It was also at this time that I learned a good friend had a similar disease, Ulcerative Colitis. And then I discovered a fellow highland athlete had the disease, as well as a cousin by marriage. You would have never known they had it.

Through them and my specialist, I learned more about the disease. Drugs help, watching what you eat helps and many people with this disease live a normal life.

Before I knew it, the bleeding had slowed down, my appetite came back and I am back in training for the next highland games in May. I will beat this disease. I will live a normal life.

Why am I telling you, the readers, this? I grappled with this quite some time. I really don't like sharing very personal things with the public. But, I thought this could be a lesson for others out there and maybe provide some hope to anyone who has this disorder.

I am still learning to live with this, but I know things will get better. Life can get interesting and challenging in many ways, but always remember to live every day, you never know what will happen next.

Heck, it could always be worse, so why not take advantage of what you have now?

'Ear to the ground'

What goes around comes around!

Many years ago my neighbors' children used to ring my doorbell and I would offer them freshly baked cookies. It was a ritual that they still talk about when we get together. So it was a big surprise last week, when my doorbell rang and five attractive high school girls stood at my front door with a holiday container filled with their own home baked brownies, lemon bars and cookies for me!

Letters to the editor

No to Wal-Mart

Editor:

I have been reading the opinions on Wal-Mart over the last several months with interest on both sides. This letter does not focus on the traffic, the impact on nature, local businesses or jobs. While these are all extremely important, this letter focuses on Wal-Mart itself.

I just read a shocking article called, "The Wal-Mart You Don't Know (Why Low Prices Have a High Cost)." Visit www.fastcompany.com and check out the December 2003 issue. Talk about things we don't know about Wal-Mart. I don't have a lot of room here to include many quotes, so definitely read it yourself.

"...there is no question that the chain is helping accelerate the loss of American jobs to low-wage countries such as China. Wal-Mart, which in the late 1980s and early 1990s trumpeted its claim to 'Buy American,' has doubled its imports from China in the past five years alone."

"Wal-Mart has lulled shoppers into ignoring the difference between the price of something and the cost...even cheaper prices have consequences..."

"...there is nothing genial about the process by which Wal-Mart gets its suppliers to provide (merchandise) at every day low prices."

"How can it be bad for things to come into the U.S. cheaply? How can it be bad to have a bargain at Wal-Mart?...It's held inflation down...but, you can't buy anything if you're not employed. We are shopping ourselves out of jobs."

"You won't hear anything negative (about Wal-Mart) from most people...it would be committing suicide. If Wal-Mart takes something the wrong way, it's like Saddam Hussein. You just don't want to piss them off."

Some of the biggest names in the United States, Vlasic, Huffy, Levi's, Lovable's, Masterlock, Nabisco, and others. have Wal-Mart horror stories.

Yes, I realize that Wal-Mart is not the only importer or corporation with a monopoly in the USA. They are not the only reason our economy and people are suffering. I shop Wal-Mart (which in Petoskey is close enough) but have never considered the impact my purchases are having, good or bad, on our economy. I know saving money is a big issue in our family, as with many in the area.

But, does this article make me know I don't want Wal-Mart in Charlevoix? Yes. Do we really want Wal-Mart telling us how it's going to be in our little hometown? Please consider the impact a Wal-Mart could have on Charlevoix.

As a fourth generation family in Charlevoix, I know we need to preserve the character of our area, which is slowly slipping away. I am not against controlled progress and improvement, but is that what this will really be in the overall picture?

Attention all Charlevoix area veterans. Please come to the Charlevoix County Building and check out the new office for veterans affairs, it's in the janitor's closet.

Our V.A. director even has a slop sink that the custodians are still using.

Isn't that great? It might be handy if you were to get sick there.

Sure was nice of our county commissioners to give our director this 2 by 4 office.

Petrie was part of a Community Outreach Program sponsored by Charlevoix High School. Its goal is to promote citizenship, to give back to the community and to help students reach outside beyond their own little world.

This team decided to visit people who live alone to bring us a little Thanksgiving cheer.

The Outreach Program meets twice a week and the group stays together for all four years. It is a small community within the school and all high school teachers are involved. The team that visited me is led by teacher Brian Certa — who regularly teaches construction technology — and as most people know, his classes build houses that are readily sold when completed.

Certa told me that some of the service projects past volunteer groups have completed are raking leaves and running errands for the elderly, picking up bags and bags of garbage from the highway, supporting "Christmas Coats for Kids Program," doing landscaping for school and last year they raised a lot of money for the Trimper family.

His next proposed assignment is to support an International Service Project called ABC, which stands for Abandoned Baby Center, located in Kenya. For $9 a month the group can support an abandoned child that will be adopted and cared for.

At the end of four years, Charlevoix youngsters receive a Reflection Certificate that tells all they have done for their service projects.

When I asked Lindi Edger what she thought of this program, she told me that she thought it was "cool" and a lot of fun to see how much everyone appreciated what the team is doing.

Right on!

Undoubtedly this is the beginning of a lifelong and satisfying passion to serve the community.

Anniversaries

William and Donna Stevens

Mr. and Mrs. William Stevens of Charlevoix celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary Nov. 28, 2003.

Bill and Donna Stevens were married in 1953 in Ellsworth by the Rev. Herbert Diller. They were born and raised in this area and have lived here all their lives, with the exception of 13 years they spent in Grand Rapids.

Thomas and Janet Louiselle

Thomas W. Louiselle and Janet M. Webster celebrated 60 years of marriage on Oct. 2.

Thomas and Janet M. Webster were married by Rev. W.D. Wood on Oct. 2, 1943 at the Church of God parsonage on Hurlbut Street in Charlevoix.

Clarence and Hazel Murry were their only attendants.

Also six grandchildren: Nancy Ann of North Pole, Alaska, Scott A. Bradford, Andrew Louiselle, Karl and Kevin Balch, all of Charlevoix.

Tom served in World War II in the Philippines Pacific area and in the Japan Occupation.

They farmed in Hayes Township, then moved to Oscoda working in paving the airport there and also in Mount Clemens.

They returned to Charlevoix to operate their farm in Eveline Township where Tom also operated Louiselle Trucking until 1985.

Engagement

Ellis — Goss

Elizabeth Louise Ellis of Austin, Texas and Maxwell James Goss of Charlevoix are engaged to be married.

The wedding has been scheduled to take place on Jan. 10, 2004 at St. Mary's Cathedral in Austin, Texas.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Ellis of Lubbock, Texas. The groom is the son of Mrs. Edward (Beverly) White, of Charlevoix, and Mr. James M. Goss of Troy.

The bride-to-be is a graduate of Lubbock High School. She received her B.A. at Wichita State University and is currently a graduate student at the University of Texas.

The groom-to-be is a graduate of Charlevoix High School. He received his B.A. and Masters Degrees from Western Michigan University and is currently a Ph.D. candidate at the University of Texas.

Max and Liz are both currently employed by the University of Texas Department of Philosophy.

Beaver Island Community School offers scholarship

Beaver Island Community School has announced plans for a Twenty-first Century Learning Scholarship.

Last June, the Beaver Island Board of Education and the Charlevoix County Community Foundation formalized plans to establish a college scholarship fund to benefit graduates of the island's high school.

According to Linda McDonough, school board secretary and driving force behind the establishment of the scholarship fund, this scholarship fund is essential as college costs rise and more and more Island graduates head off to school.

The idea builds on the success of the Gullahorn Family Foundation scholarship that currently provides some graduates with financial support. All graduates will be eligible to apply for the Twenty-first Century Learning Scholarship and selection will be based upon the degree to which the student can show that they meet the school's graduate profile.

The graduate profile was adopted by the Board of Education as a culmination of the district's strategic planning process.

Forty members of the community spent nearly two years learning about education and defining a plan for education on Beaver Island.

The final document, Twenty-first Century Learning on Beaver Island, has become very much a part of school decision-making since its publication in the summer of 2000.

Applicants for the scholarship will be expected to demonstrate competence in all five of the areas listed:

1) Have strong personal qualities and values.

2) Use their minds well.

3) Have positive work habits.

4) Make positive contributions to society.

5) Use technology fluently.

A three-person selection committee made up of off-island educators and professionals will interview the applicants.

The new Twenty-first Century Learning Scholarship fund joins 49 other scholarship funds held by the Charlevoix County Community Foundation. Organizers of the effort to build the scholarship fund indicate a desire to generate an initial amount of $10,000, which would allow a scholarship to be granted as early as the fall 2004 semester.

Likely donors to the fund would be persons who have a connection to Beaver Island, visitors, summer and year-round residents and of course alumni of the school who realize the importance of post-high school education.

To find out more about this fund and how you can help build the perpetual endowment, you can attend the "afternoon tea" at 2:00 on Dec. 10 at Kevin and Linda McDonough's house, 26140 Pine Street, on Beaver Island.

Charlevoix County Community Foundation President Bob Tambellini will be at the tea to present information about scholarship funds in general and about tax benefits for donations to the newly established scholarship fund.

Donations to the fund can be in any amount.

More information about the fund is available by calling or writing the Beaver Island Community School (231-448-2744), 37895 King's Highway, Beaver Island, Michigan, 49782 or the Charlevoix County Community Foundation (231-547-2440), P.O. Box 718, East Jordan, Michigan, 49727.

HOW TO KILL A BUSINESS...in ten easy steps

1. Don't Advertise
Just pretend everybody knows what you have to offer.
2. Don't Advertise
Tell yourself you just don't have time to spend thinking about promoting your business.
3. Don't Advertise
Just assume everybody knows what you sell.
4. Don't Advertise
Convince yourself that you've been in business so long customers will automatically come to you.
5. Don't Advertise
Forget that there are new potential customers who would do business with you if they were reminded.
6. Don't Advertise
Forget that you have competition trying to attract your customers away from you.
7. Don't Advertise
Tell yourself it costs too much to advertise and that you don't get enough out of it.
8. Don't Advertise
Overlook the fact that advertising is an investment in selling ... not an expense.
9. Don't Advertise
Be sure not to provide an adequate advertising budget for your business.
10. Don't Advertise
Forget that you have to keep reminding your established customers that you appreciate their business.

Obituaries

Pearl L. Pearl: April 29, 1905 - Nov. 22, 2003

Pearl L. Pearl died Nov. 22, 2003.

She was born April 29, 1905 in Mancelona, the daughter of Edward and Julia (Denzel) Lakies.

She married Harold J. Pearl in Detroit on Aug. 25, 1922.

She was employed at Hudson's before they moved to Charlevoix in 1929. She had the USONA Lodge on Michigan Avenue for over 25 years with longtime summer guests.

They spent several winters in California, Arizona, Texas and Florida.

Their last residence was in Zephyrhills, Fla. They enjoyed western square dancing and card games. She also enjoyed bingo, crafts and knitting.

Her husband, Harold, preceded her in death on July 14, 1985 in Zephyrhills, Fla., after 63 years of marriage. A grandson preceded them both, her parents, three brothers and one sister.

She is survived by her daughter, Betty June (Lawrence) Zipp of Charlevoix, by her sisters, Marguerite Mason and Ella Ingalls, a sister-in-law, Mary Lakies and several nieces and nephews.

A memorial service will take place in Florida at a later date.

In the quiet of the natural area, the worlds of bugs, beetles and birds can be observed under the grandeur of birch, hemlock and cedar. Deer often pause here and occasionally, a fox silently trots by.

Given to the Conservancy by the First Congregational United Church of Christ, the Phila Shanahan Preserve is an example of the natural birch and cedar woodlands lying inland around Lake Michigan.

Cara Hochhalter, former director of Christian Education of the church said, "this little piece of land is like a small natural sanctuary in the midst of a developing area; a great place to reflect on the miracles of the Creation."

The Phila A. Shanahan Preserve is located on Waller Road in Charlevoix Township. For more information call the Charlevoix County Land Conservancy at (231)237-9335 or e-mail us at cclc@freeway.net.

Charlevoix downtown to have open house

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Charlevoix shoppers and merchants will kick off the holiday season this weekend with a shopping celebration.

"It's a holiday thing, it's an economic thing and it's a fun thing, too. It's a little bit of everything," Charlevoix Downtown Coordinator Amy Lalewicz said.

The upcoming event is the annual Christmas Open House hosted by local merchants. It will take place from noon to 6 p.m. Dec. 6 with many stores offering extended hours, deals and refreshments.

At stores marked with green and red "Shop Charlevoix" signs, shoppers 18 and older can enter to win gift certificates good for purchases at stores around town. Registration for the certificate give away will run now through Dec. 21 with drawings taking place Dec. 6, 15 and 22.

While parents make purchases at Charlevoix shops and cross off items on those long wish lists the day of the open house, kids can relay their holiday hopes to the man in red himself. Santa will arrive via fire truck at noon in East Park.

From noon to 2 p.m., while shoppers hit the pavement and kids visit with the big, red, bearded wonder, WCZW 107.9 FM will broadcast Christmas carols live from the park.

> "It's a holiday thing, it's an economic thing and it's a fun thing, too. It's a little bit of everything."

After the traditional photo op in the park with Charlevoix's featured guest from the north pole, children are invited to attend holiday movies, Johnny English and Ice Age, which are scheduled to begin at 1 p.m. at Charlevoix Cinema III off Antrim Street.

Entrance to the shows is a donation of a canned food to be given to the local food pantry.

Sundays at Four Festival of Carols

The Sundays at Four concert series presents its annual "Festival of Carols" at 4 p.m., Dec. 7 at the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix.

The sounds of Christmas will be ringing from the walls of the sanctuary as the Pilgrim Handbells Ensemble joins the Charlevoix Men's Chorus and the Charlevoix Area Community Chorale as they present a program of wonderful songs of the season.

The audience will be an important part of the celebration in song as it will be singing many of the well-loved carols.

The singers and ringers come from our whole northern area including Petoskey, Charlevoix, Boyne City and East Jordan to take part in this afternoon of song.

The Charlevoix Men's Chorus is directed by Terry Isenbarger, the Pilgrim Handbell Ensemble by Roger Waters and the Charlevoix Area Community Chorale by Ellen Addington. The accompanists are Elizabeth Humphrey and Don Neidert.

The public is cordially invited to this program and although there is no charge a donation will be gratefully accepted. All are invited to a reception in the Fellowship Hall following the program.

Coats available for children in need

Free winter coats for kids are available through the Family Independence Agency.

Those in need can pick up a coat or other cold weather wear from 10 a.m. to noon the first Monday of the month and from 5 to 7 p.m. the third Monday of the month at Trinity Fellowship Church, located at 401 State Street in Boyne City.

From 9:30 a.m. to noon on Thursdays at the Seventh Day Adventist Church, located at 326 Park Street, in Boyne City.

From 10 a.m. to noon on Mondays and Wednesdays, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Tuesdays and from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m. on Thursdays at the Friends and Neighbors Seventh Day Adventist Church, located at 1404 South Howard Street, in Petoskey.

If those locations are inconvenient, the FIA is willing to use its office at 2229 Summit Park Drive, in Petoskey, as a distribution site.

For more information contact Jennifer Vollmer, the community resource coordinator for the FIA, at 348-1600.

It doesn't take all day when you shop here at home

When you shop in the big city, you risk life and limb on the highway ... have to fight heavy traffic, so you're tired before you even get started.

Then come parking problems, elbowing your way through crowds of people in a hurry, try to find a place for lunch, gulp it down, and back into the fray.

Then after trying to deal with harassed and impatient salespeople, you drag yourself back into the car, hoping you won't get run over crossing the busy parking lots, and battle your way back home again.

Wouldn't it have been easier to shop here at home?

Your friendly home-town merchants probably had just what you wanted anyway ... and often cheaper than bigger city stores. Certainly shopping at home is easier and quicker, giving you time for other more important "chores!"

Health Department: Throw out ipecac syrup

Parents should dispose of ipecac syrup.

For years, health care providers have promoted ipecac in their "poison danger" discussions with parents of babies and toddlers. Now, their advice is for parents to dig the ipecac out of the medicine cabinets and flush it down the toilet.

"Instead of having ipecac on hand, parents should keep handy the new universal telephone number for poison control: (800) 222-1222," said Joshua Meyerson, M.D., M.P.H., Medical Director of the Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency, the local health department that serves Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego Counties.

He said stickers to post by the telephone with the toll free number are available at the health department offices in Bellaire, Mancelona, Charlevoix, Harbor Springs and Gaylord.

The American Academy of Pediatrics' revised policy, "Poison Treatment in the Home," was prompted by several factors, including the dramatic drop in poisoning deaths over the past 50 years.

It is common for children to ingest potentially poisonous substances, with 1.2 million cases of children under age six reported by the American Association of Poison Control Centers.

But the number of fatal poisonings has dropped dramatically since the first poison control center opened 50 years ago. Then, about 500 fatal poisonings occurred per year. In 1997, the last year data is available, 25 people died from poison.

"The drop in fatal poisonings can be attributed to safer medications and to child-resistent packaging,"Meyerson said. "It's a real success story".

In the early days of poison control, ipecac often was the first line of defense at home and in the emergency room. Besides being convenient, ipecac, which is made from the dried root of the Brazilian ipecacuanha plant, is easy to give, tastes good, and is effective in making people throw up.

But in the late 1980s, most emergency departments moved away from using ipecac in favor of activated charcoal because of questions over whether ipecac worked for everyone.

"It's hard to justify the use of ipecac when activated charcoal is the best thing and often the only thing you need to do when a child has taken an overdose of some type," Meyerson said.

The Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency is the local health department serving Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego Counties. Its staff is dedicated to preventing disease and injury and promoting healthy communities.

For additional information about ipecac and poison prevention and treatment, see your child's health care provider or visit www.aap.org.

How to get your event news into the Charlevoix Courier

If you have a news item you think would be perfect for the Charlevoix Courier, feel free to call 547-6558, e-mail charlevoixcourier@charlevoixcourier.com or visit the Courier office located at 112 Mason Street in downtown Charlevoix.

News items include events sponsored by non-profit organizations. Please inform us of your event at least two weeks in advance.

Our coverage area is the city of Charlevoix and its immediately surrounding areas, including Beaver Island.

Because of space limitations in the newspaper, we generally try to avoid publishing "check-handing" pictures or "ribbon-cutting" pictures. However, we will work with your organization to get a picture that reflects the event and is visually interesting to our readers.

Due to time constraints on the staff, we cannot attend every event we are notified of. If you have a picture of your event, we will gladly consider it for publication. But, please, contact us before your event.

It should be noted, each story and picture is dealt with on its individual merits. Any policies outlined above may be suspended by the editor or general manager of the Charlevoix Courier if necessary.

Longtime city employee, Parton, to retire

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

> "I've seen these kids grow up. People that are having babies now were little kids that would come in with their parents when I started here."
> Bea Parton,
> Retiring city employee

After the new year, frequent visitors to city hall will notice something is missing and it won't be holiday decorations or office supplies.

It will be the friendly greeting you get from deputy clerk and deputy treasurer, Bea Parton, when you walk through the door. Parton is retiring.

"I'm ready. It's time for new blood — with the way the economy is, there are people out there looking for work; why should I hog it?" she said.

Parton, 54, is a Charlevoix native that has worked at city hall since 1974. She started in utility billing and worked her way to the deputy positions. Her job now includes a laundry list of tasks including filling in at city council meetings, assisting in elections, doing accounts payable and receivable, keeping cemetery records and filling out workman's compensation paperwork.

During her years with the city she has worked about 7,800 days and 50 elections under eight city managers, 10 mayors and 41 different council members. She has given 200 oaths of office to council and commission members and has seen nine clerks and five treasurers come and go.

She said she has stuck with it this long because of the job security and her love of her work.

"I like working with the people," she said. "I'll miss that. I've seen these kids grow up. People that are having babies now were little kids that would come in with their parents when I started here."

Parton's last day is Jan. 2, 2004. Her retirement won't just mean a change for users of city hall and city staff, it will also mean big changes for her and her husband Bill, who is semi-retired from a career in maintenance. The couple plan to leave Charlevoix.

Their home off Upright Street is for sale. The two plan to move six hours away, to the non-resort town of Sturgis, which is about three times the size of Charlevoix and is located near the Michigan and Indiana border.

Not a whole lot is calling them there. They don't have family in that area, but they are looking forward to the lower cost of living and new surroundings.

They plan to buy and renovate a large Victorian home where they can each have a "play room." One for her computer and treadmill and one for his trains and hand radios.

"It's hard to leave, but I'm ready for a change. We'll come back to visit, I have two sisters here, we're not saying good-bye forever," she said.

The Partons also plan on traveling. Their son Bill and his wife, Holly, live just outside of San Francisco in Morgan Hill, Calif. and her son Tom Harris lives in Germany.

Trip to memorial ceremony offered to vets

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

> "There were more casualties in World War II than there have been any time since. It's a momentous thing to honor those casualties — I didn't know how they would do it. For Vietnam they could put the names up, but for World War II, it would cover all of Washington,."
> Kenneth Staley,
> Charlevoix resident and World War II vet

Nearly 59 years after the end of World War II, Northern Michigan veterans will make the trek to Washington D.C. for the long awaited World War II Memorial dedication.

Del Corner, a Traverse City resident and the World War II Memorial dedication coordinator for northern Michigan and the Upper Peninsula, has coordinated a special trip to bring all the area World War II veterans together.

The $67.5 million memorial is being built in Washington D.C. at the Rainbow Pool in between the Lincoln Memorial and the Washington Monument.

It will honor the 16 million who served in the armed forces during the war and the more than 400,000 who died.

The memorial will be dedicated on May 29, 2004, the Saturday of Memorial Day Weekend.

Corner spoke with area veterans on Veterans Day and asked if they planned to attend the dedication. He said they were interested, but many are aging and the trip was just too far to make alone.

So he rallied support from the Traverse City based company Brown Lumber who have agreed to sponsor buses and lodging for the trip.

"This is unbelievable. It is something this area can be proud of," Corner said.

Co-owner of the company Ted Shaw said, "This is probably the last time the veterans will be able to assemble at one time before they leave this earth."

Because the veterans are aging, Shaw said he felt the timing was right to say thank you.

The veterans group will leave Traverse City on May 28, attend the dedication the next day and return on May 30.

Those interested in making the bus trip area asked to sign up by the end of this week. Corner said to call Colette Pierce at North Village Travel at (800) 462-0501. The $220 cost will be reimbursed.

Corner said that so far about two bus loads of veterans have signed on.

That list will likely include the name Kenneth Staley.

Staley is a Charlevoix resident and a marine who served in the South Pacific during World War II. He said the memorial has been a long time coming.

"I think many veterans had given up thinking that (a memorial) would be done," he said.

But he and other veterans understand that the huge number of casualties made the memorial a tough task to tackle.

"There were more casualties in World War II than there have been any time since. It's a momentous thing to honor those casualties — I didn't know how they would do it. For Vietnam they could put the names up, but for World War II, it would cover all of Washington," Staley said.

Island's Irish tale heading for the little screen

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

A trip to Ireland by several residents of Beaver Island has caught the interest of documentary makers on the Emerald Isle.

In March 2003, over 48 residents and former residents of Beaver Island traveled to Arranmore Island in the northwestern part of Ireland, off the coast of Donegal, for a twinning ceremony. This ceremony was unique in that is was between residents of two islands who were also distant relatives.

"The twinning ceremony which took place in March represents the culmination of a journey that began over a century and a half ago in 1851," said documentary maker Shane Brennan of Moondance Productions in Ireland.

In 1851, 163 residents of Arranmore were expelled from the island by their British landlord. In Donegal, they boarded coffin ships which took them to Canada. According to Brennan, the evicties were mostly illiterate and spoke only the Irish language. Gaelic, but they remained together as a group and worked for several railroads.

"By chance, one of their number came upon Beaver Island, 30 miles offshore in Lake Michigan. The island was relatively uninhabited, rich in game, woodland and fishing. After a time, the majority of the original evictees made their way to the island were they established a miniature Arranmore in exile," Brennan said.

A few years ago, a group from Arranmore Island visited their distant relatives on Beaver Island and had a twinning ceremony — a kind of "sister city" celebration. That ceremony was finalized with the March 2003 trip by island residents to Ireland.

It was this story that intrigued Brennan and his crew.

Brennan was talking with a Irish pilot and learned about Beaver Island. While researching the island on the internet, he discovered the tale of immigration and the twinning ceremony that was being planned.

Three Irish documentary makers visit island

"The story was of particular interest to me. Not only had ever heard of Beaver Island, but neither did I know of Arranmore Island. We decided to arrange for a crew to film the twinning celebration from the (Beaver Island group's) arrival at Dublin airport, the twinning ceremony and departure from Ireland," Brennan said. "This is a circular story of immigration and eventual homecoming. What sets this story apart from the countless other immigration stories is the notion of the island. The original evictees, consciously or otherwise, left one isolated island community and sought out another."

The story is also about the ideas of community and a community that was ripped apart in 1851, established again on Beaver Island and welcomed back to the original community in 2003, he added.

Brennan and his crew made a seven minute pilot tape from six hours of recordings from the Irish ceremony. This tape was sent to networks in Ireland, Europe and the United States.

"There was indeed a very positive feedback from various networks. This story received much interest from many television chiefs, who like us knew nothing of the story originally," he said.

With this interest in his mind, Brennan and two others from Moondance Productions decided to travel to Beaver Island to film the rest of their documentary. With the help of several islanders, Brennan and his crew members Tom Burke and Aaron Gallagher filmed various historical scenes and interviews from Nov. 7 until Nov. 14 on Beaver Island.

Brennan said the crew started filming around 8 a.m. and continued until 7 p.m.

"We filmed a broad rang of interviews of all ages from all walks of life. We filmed in many locations around the island, such as the town, school, church, lakes and music celebration," he said. "We also filmed re-enactments of a family arriving on the island, the homestead, a funeral scene and a period lighthouse keeper, which will be used in the historical part of this film documentary."

According to a couple of islanders, these re-enactments were wonderfully close to the real thing.

Cindy Gillespie-Cushman, an island resident who helped the crew set up the reenactment scenes, said, "It was kind of eerie standing there. If a person was in the right mind, you would swear they were getting right off the boats."

Gillespie-Cushman said the crew used island residents who they thought "looked the part" for all of the reenactment scenes.

"We did the best we could with what we could," she said. "The weather couldn't have been better for these re-enactments for dramatic purposes."

Robert Cole, an island resident and member of the Beaver Island Historical Society, said, "It was a galvanizing experience for those of us here on Beaver Island who have roots in Arranmore."

He added, "I think it certainly turned out better than they anticipated."

Costumes for the actors were donated for the movie by the Great Lakes Shipwreck Museum and the Irish-American Heritage Center in Chicago, Ill.

Brennan said the crew will be finishing filming on Arranmore Island in the next few weeks and then start editing. From 30 hours of footage, Brennan will need to cut it down to a one hour documentary.

He said it will hopefully be completed near the end of January 2004. The dates the documentary will be shown on network television are not known at this time.

As for their trip to America, Brennan said this was the first time he and his crew visited the states. But, he said they loved their visit.

"Our stay on the island was indeed memorial. From the moment we arrived, the islanders made us feel at home. The had arranged our accommodations, means of transport and meals. They are the most accommodating group of people we have had the pleasure to work with," he said.

And as for Brennan and the crew, Cole said the islanders were very happy with them.

"I thought they were a very talented and imaginative group of young filmmakers. I give (Brennan) specifically a lot of credit for having the instincts to pick up on an interesting story several months ago," he said.

Cole further added he believes Brennan and his crew were the perfect filmmakers to take on the story of Beaver Island's Irish.

"They understand the importance of the story," he said.

Brennan said he hopes to return to the island for the documentary's premier.

"We would return, not as a television crew, but as friends to the islanders," he said.

Boyne Area Hockey skates into new season

The Boyne Area Midget (age 15-18) Hockey team is off to a good start with its first four games under its belt.

The team opened the season hosting St. Ignace on Nov. 13 at its home rink for this season, the Polar Bear in Petoskey.

The game seesawed until the last three minutes when Boyne scored three unanswered goals to take a 6-4 win. Justin Conklin, Josh Aown, Evan Keller, Gabe Korthase, Troy Scarbrough and Eli Barsy scored for Boyne. Assists were given by Barsy, Conklin, Darren Looze, Brit King, Cody Webster and Russell Williams.

Nick Ferree was between the pipes.

On Nov. 20 the two teams met again, and Boyne took this game 3-1.

Scarbrough netted two goals and Williams the other. Assists came from Barsy (with two) and Stephen Cahoon. Bobby Courtright was the netminder.

On Saturday, Nov. 22, the team hosted Newberry to a 3-2 victory.

Looze scored two and King one. Keller gave two assists and Scarhrough the other. Goalie Bobby Courtright gave a solid performance.

On Sunday, Nov. 23 the team traveled to Cheboygan and dominated the game, taking it 7-1.

In front of goalie Ferree, Barsy notched a hat trick with three goals, Webster and King each scored two, and Looze added the other. Wester, Looze, Barsy, Troy Searbrough and William Brown tallied the assists.

"We've had balanced scoring, great defense, and we're outshooting our opponents. These boys love to play this game," said head coach Al Aown.

Some veterans not happy with new office

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Due to new computer equipment being installed in the Charlevoix County Building, the Veteran's Affairs Department has moved to a new office — a former small janitor's room, complete with a working slop sink.

Veteran Affairs Director Bob Drebenstedt said, "I like my location. I like my cozy office. It's easy to access and easy to find."

But, Drebenstedt said there are some major drawbacks to the small office, such as lack of privacy, no room for veterans to move around, no room for wheelchairs, no room for all of the necessary file cabinets and no room for the Michigan Trust Fund — another veterans' organization that Drebenstedt shares his office with.

Sometimes Drebenstedt said he even has to talk to people in the hallway outside of his office because there is not enough room.

"When I am talking to you about your medical problems that are embarrassing, you are telling me something very confidential....I have vets coming in who lost their jobs, have a financial emergency; they don't want the whole world to know about this," he said.

On top of that, Drebenstedt said janitors have interrupted his interviews with veterans to fill their slop buckets from the slop sink in the office.

"Give a little respect to the veterans. Allow them a comfortable place to be interviewed and room to move around," he said.

Charlevoix veteran Bob Ernst agrees that the current Veteran's Affairs office is not working.

"He definitely needs more room. He needs a good environment. He (Drebenstedt) has been a great help and a real good man," Ernst said.

Before being moved to its new location, the Veteran's Affair's Office and the Michigan Trust Fund shared a large space on the first floor of the county building by the mail room. However, these two offices were moved when the county decided it needed the space for new computer equipment that was being installed.

According to Charlevoix County Commission and member of the Building and Grounds Committee that decided on the move Vic Patrick, the old Veteran's Affairs Office was the only place that computer equipment could have gone.

Patrick also said the decision to move the Veteran's Affairs Office was discussed with Drebenstedt and the Veteran's Affairs Board before the final decision and they all agreed to it.

"The veterans' people were well aware of what is going on. They were in favor of it," he said.

Patrick added this move is only temporary anyway.

"If we can find something bigger, we will do it," he said.

Drebenstedt said that new office needs to be somewhere that is handicap accessible and he stressed it cannot been in the basement of the county building.

Besides it being hard to get a wheelchair into the basement, Drebenstedt said it is not good for some of the mental troubles some veterans suffer.

"You take someone that was in a prison camp and put them in the basement, they come unglued," Ernst said.

As for the slop sink, Patrick said that was supposed to be moved to a bathroom on the first floor.

Making the perfect ornament

Cara Wynne, 10, of Chicago, Ill. decorated ornaments at the North Pole, Color Wear, for the huge evergreen that serves as the community Christmas tree in East Park. The Charlevoix Children's House donated the materials for the ornaments and staffed the decorating station. The community gathered around the tree that was lit on Nov. 28.

Sheriff warns of Nigerian scam

Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater warns citizens the traditional "Nigerian Bank Scam" is still going strong and in fact con artists have devised a new on-line variation of the old scam.

In the original scam, the potential victim receives an unsolicited letter, fax or e-mail proposal in which an offer is made to transfer millions of dollars into the victim's bank account.

Numerous official looking documents are sent to the victim who is asked to provide bank account numbers and other identifying information. Eventually, the victim is asked to provide upfont or advanced fees to cover taxes, attorney fees, transaction fees, etc. and is often encouraged to travel overseas to complete the transaction.

In a more recent version of the scam, the con artist will set up a fake online bank and deposit funds into a bogus account. The con artist "buyer" e-mails the seller to express interest in an item, offering to pay with U.S. bank cashier's check.

Once the offer is accepted the "buyer" makes some excuse for sending a cashier's check that is several thousand dollars more than the cost of the item and wants the seller to send excess money.

Reasons for sending the excess money vary.

They include: covering transportation costs for the purchased good, because the buyer's secretary made a mistake and put the wrong check in the envelope. They want this money sent with the product to a third party to cover an existing debt.

Credibility is added when the "buyer" insists that the money only be sent after the cashier's check clears. The cashier's check is counterfeit and it takes longer than normal to discover the fake.

The seller thinks they received a good check and send the goods and the "extra" cash.

Eventually, the seller is contacted by their bank and is notified the cashier's check is counterfeit and removes the check amount from he seller's account. The seller has lost both the goods and the cash.

If you or someone you know believe that you have been a victim of any form of the Nigerian scam, contact the United States Secret Service, the lead agency fighting this fraud at (202) 406-5572 or contact the local sheriff's office at 547-4461.

Commissioners threaten to resign over council action

COMMISSION

public hearing where both sides could have a chance to be heard.

Planning commission chair Dennis Kusina said the decision left the same bad taste in his mouth and those of his fellow commissioners, over half of whom he said were prepared to resign.

"What teed me off and everyone on the planning commission was if they knew they were going to rule like that, why have us do all that work," he said. "I would have at least liked to have seen a public hearing, then take a vote."

At the commission's meeting scheduled to take place at 6 p.m., Dec. 8 in the Coast Guard training room located at 109 Bridge Park Drive, Kusina said the group will discuss council's decision and try to find a way to "at least" have a public hearing.

The only issue on the agenda that night is discussion of council's action.

PEOPLE SERVICE IS OUR BUSINESS

At RDI PhoneGuide® every effort has been made to produce an errorless directory. However, mistakes undoubtedly have been included. If your residential listing is not correct, or has been omitted, please fill out this form and we will correct it in the next edition of PhoneGuide®.

PLEASE REMEMBER TO ALSO NOTIFY YOUR PHONE SERVICE PROVIDER (SBC Ameritech, Century, Verizon, Island, Pigeon or Upper Peninsula Telephone Co.) as they provide our White Page Listings each year. If you don't make the same correction with them, your listing will be incorrect in the PhoneGuide® the following year as we don't maintain our own database and keep corrections for only one year.

CHARLEVOIX BRIEFS

Area events

Christmas cantata

The community Christmas cantata, "Because of Bethlehem," by Keith Ferguson and Bruce Greer, will be presented by a 50-member choir at 7 p.m., Dec. 13 and at 6 p.m., Dec. 14 at the Community Reformed Church located at the corner of Meech Street and US-31 in Charlevoix.

Featured soloists from the choir are Kristen Herriman, Terry Dohm, Dianna Schull, Byron Wright, Don Heeres, Rick Torres and Sharon Batdorff.

Open house

The Charlevoix Historical Society will host its annual open house from noon to 4 p.m. Dec. 6 at the Harsha House located at 103 State Street in Charlevoix. Refreshments will be available. The Harsha House has many gifts available including the Bob Miles' Charlevoix II book, Christmas ornaments, lighthouse replicas, a historic photos calendar, note cards, children's books and Depot t-shirts. For more information call the society at 547-0373.

Singles celebration

A celebration of the Christmas season for singles will take place Dec. 13 at the Charlevoix Congregational Church. Scam reported in the area

Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater would like to advise citizens to the possibility of a scam in which telemarketers dishonestly represent themselves as being affiliated with AARP.

Seventy-five percent of all Americans targeted for these types of scams are seniors.

Lasater has some tips on how you can avoid being defrauded.

Resist high pressure sales tactics. Legitimate businesses respect the fact that you are not interested.

Take your time, ask for written information about the product, service, investment opportunity or charity that is the subject of the call.

Before you respond to phone solicitations, talk to a friend, family member or financial adviser. Be wary if you are told by a caller not to tell your children or not to advise your local bank regarding the transaction.

The sheriff's office has investigated a complaint when a local senior citizen was contacted in person by a salesperson advising her he was representing AARP, which he was not. Prior to having her sign a financial and biding contract, he advised her not to tell her children or her bank.

This was a red flag for the senior and she immediately contacted the sheriff's office.

Keep information about your bank account and credit card to yourself, unless you know who you are dealing with.

Don't send money, cash, check or money order by courier, overnight delivery or wire to anyone who insists on immediate payment.

Be wary of requests to support police or firefighters. Contact your local police or fire department to find out if the request is legitimate.

If you suspect you've been victimized by a telephone scam, call the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Office at (517) 373-1140 or the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office at 547-4461.

Charlevoix County Building were told to go home, expecting it to take another two hours before the lights and heat would be up and running. Some left before the power came back on, but most were still there and operations continued at the county building throughout the afternoon.

Business at city hall continued as customers came in and out of the dark building, paying utility bills and going about their business with city staff.

Middle School principal Keith Haske said he is fortunate to be in a building with so many windows that bring in natural light. The only concern was the heat. He said students wore jackets and did jumping jacks to keep their blood warm when needed.

In spite of dark stores, government buildings, schools and stop lights, Charlevoix operated like business as usual.

It could be that residents are used to long power outages in the middle of the work day.

"We seem to be getting more than our fair share," city engineer Don Swem said.

On Oct. 30 an outage wiped out the city's power for most of the morning and then on Nov. 12 a wind storm, similar to what city residents experienced this week, rolled in and caused major damage that kept the city's electric department hopping.

Swem said this wind storm didn't require the grueling work effort by the city electric department that the mid-November storm did. But the crew was out looking for the problem when the lights initially went out.

Assisted living debate on

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Charlevoix's City Council said no, but the planning commission said yes.

At the commission's meeting Dec. 8 the majority of its members voted in favor of setting a public hearing to explore Sunnybank Retirement Community's request for a special use permit.

Planning commission chairman Dennis Kusina said, "There is a public hearing coming up on this project. These people will have their day."

If the commission approves the request at the Jan. 12 hearing, it will issue them a permit to build a single-story, assisted living facility spanning 36,000 square feet on a 2-acre parcel. The land, owned by Charlevoix resident and Realtor Ed Amick, fronts on Petoskey Avenue on Charlevoix's north side and is zoned R-2.

This decision comes after council's Nov. 17 decision that shot down a zoning amendment that would open the door for this same special use in the R-1 and R-2 single family residential districts.

Council members who voted against the amendment said assisted living belongs in the multiple family, R-4 district or the commercial district. Their vote was in support of the residents near the Amick property who said the project would negatively impact them.

The commission's decision was a major blow to those residents.

"All our arguments have flown out the window because of this nonsense," Charlevoix resident An-

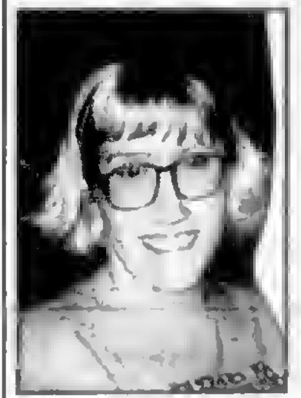
Search on for missing Ellsworth woman

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Police, family and friends are conducting a state-wide search for Alice Michelle Tyner, 27, of Ellsworth, following her disappearance Dec. 4.



Alice Michelle Tyner

According to Antrim County Sheriff Terry Johnson, Alice was last seen dropping her three young children off at a daycare on Garfield Avenue in Charlevoix around 11 a.m. on Dec. 4. Since then, her family, friends and area police have been looking for her.

Johnson said Alice told the daycare worker that she was planning on doing some shopping in Cadillac.

Alice's husband, Eric, said when he arrived home from work on Dec. 4, he noticed his wife and children were not there. He waited for them until around 2 a.m. on Dec. 5 when he received a call from his Charlevoix daycare provider asking him to come pick up his children.

Johnson said his department has been looking for Alice since that

Correction

In an article that ran on page 17 in the Nov. 5 edition of the Charlevoix Courier, Charlie Butcher was incorrectly identified as the commander of the American Legion and VFW; he is no longer the commander of the American Legion.

Clarification

In an article about the new Veterans Affairs office on page 25 of last week's edition of the Charlevoix Courier, it stated janitors have interrupted interviews to fill slop buckets. County janitors have not interrupted interviews, however, workers helping them clean the building have, according to Director Bob Drebenstedt.

Police investigate bomb threat at county building

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

The Charlevoix County Clerk's office was the target of a bomb threat last week.

Just after noon on Thursday, Dec. 4, Alena Hendrickson, the accounts payable clerk at the clerk's office, received a phone call.

The male caller then made a terrifying threat.

"He said there is a bomb placed on the inside and outside of the building and due to our neglect of Muslims we would all die, praise Allah. And then he hung up," she said. "It was pretty weird."

Hendrickson said the call made her blood run cold and she immediately called 911 and then the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department.

The Sheriff's Department called the city police and then both of the agencies responded. Once on scene, they immediately evacuated the building and locked it down. Then they did a floor by floor search looking for anything suspicious.

City police chief Dennis Halverson said they didn't find anything, but to exercise extreme caution he called in the state police bomb sniffing dogs from Gaylord. The dogs also found nothing and the building was reopened at 3 p.m.

Hendrickson said while the call wasn't linked to a real bomb, since the terrorist attacks that occurred on September 11, 2001 she takes them even more seriously.

"You have to (take the calls seriously) nowadays. The main reason I think he mentioned Muslims because he knew how to get people's attention," she said.

Halverson said he also believes the religious mention was used as a scare tactic and is most likely not associated with the caller due to the area's low-Muslim population.

Since the Sept. 11, 2001 terrorist attacks the county sheriff's department has responded to one bomb threat that occurred at East Jordan Middle School. Halverson said the city police department has not responded to any he can remember.

"They are rare, unusual events that happen typically in schools and occasionally in government offices," Halverson said.

Hendrickson was hired by the county into the accounts payable position in July. She said the recent event hasn't scared her off from working at the county building. But, she said since the incident last week, when the phone rings after noon she is hesitant to pick it up.

The city is still investigating the threat and Halverson said they have a few leads.

"We treat incidents like this very seriously. We will work this one until hopefully we have a successful arrest and prosecution," he said.

First time offenders who call in a false bomb threat are committing a felony punishable by four years in prison or a $2,000 fine. Habitual offenders who commit the violation a second time are subject to a penalty of 10 years in prison.

County humane society selling 2004 calendars to raise money

The Charlevoix County Humane Society is proud to offer its 2004 Community Events Calendar.

Each month showcases a Charlevoix County Resident and their pets. The community events calendar lists many of the major events occurring year-round in Charlevoix County.

The cost is $10 and may be purchased at the following locations: in Charlevoix — Citizens Bank, Gruler's, Juillerets' and Bullfrog Candle Factory; in Boyne City — Pet Haus, Huntington Bank, Boyne County Books and Citizens Bank; in East Jordan — Charlevoix State Bank, Huntington Bank and Busy Bridge Antiques; in Walloon Village — Walloon Lake Library and Walloon Lake General Store.

Community events calendars are also available at the shelter, 614 Beardsley, Boyne City or call 582-6774 for further information.

All proceeds from the sale of these calendars will benefit the Charlevoix County Humane Society.

Give local stores a chance this Christmas

EDITORIAL

The Christmas season is in full bloom in Charlevoix and the rest of the nation.

People with cheerful looks in their eyes can be seen all over the area, as they shop, pick out Christmas trees, decorate their homes and enjoy the company of their families. And according to the latest economic numbers, perhaps retailers can smile a little more this season as people spend a little more on presents.

Here is the problem though. It seems that many people like to spend their money at businesses outside of Charlevoix when shopping for presents. You hear about it every day, people driving north to Petoskey, east to Gaylord or south to Traverse City to get gifts for their families.

While this spending of money is great for the economy as a whole, it is especially great for those communities outside of Charlevoix. In the meantime, Charlevoix merchants are left wondering if they will make enough to stay in business for next Christmas.

Perhaps we should start looking more at our local businesses for Christmas presents. By shopping locally, we are helping out our own economy and thus our own community. By shopping locally, we are helping our neighbors put food on their tables this Christmas and presents under the tree.

Sure, some of these bigger towns may have more items to choose from in one location or they may have better deals. But, perhaps if you actually took a look at what Charlevoix merchants have to offer, you would find they also have many gift ideas to pick from for your family and may have a better deal to offer, especially if you factor in the gas you will save.

We encourage all of our readers to take some time to see what the local merchants have to offer this holiday season. You may be surprised in the deals and quality you get, plus, chances are good the merchant will actually know your name.

Letters Policy

Readers are encouraged to write letters to the editor addressing pertinent topics of community interest.

The Courier editor reserves the right to edit letters for length, correct grammar and libelous statements. We do not publish letters we judge are a personal attack.

Letters to the editor must be signed by the author, and the name of the author will appear with published letters.

We do not publish unsigned letters. Letters should be typed, double-spaced, and not exceed 450 words.

Writer shares holiday memories and fruitcakes

Roger Knutson

'Ear to the ground'

The holiday season in my childhood home lasted almost six weeks, and in my memory centered around cakes and cookies.

My father's birthday was Dec. 16 (he would have been 102 this year) and was the beginning of the season. My younger sister was born on Dec. 25 and complained each year about how she was cheated out of a "real" birthday.

Christmas was very big, and only a week later was supplemented by my parents' wedding anniversary on Jan. 1. My birthday was Jan. 3 and my mother's on Jan. 27. The food and fun lasted all that time. What may to some seem an overlong Christmas observance seems to me only nostalgia.

Last week I began our Christmas season as it has begun since we moved here. I made the holiday fruitcakes.

I know how most people feel about fruitcake, but bear with me. The recipe is one that came from my mother-in-law, and had a long history in her family. She certainly had more friends and relatives than we do, because even though I make only half the recipe each year, it tends to linger with us.

There is something soothing about mixing and measuring that in my case leads to botanical thoughts. I can't chop up figs without thinking about how difficult it was for people in the long past to explain them. They seemed almost magical and were used as symbols of fertility because of the large number of seeds.

While there may have been arguments about just what was the purpose of the flowers, it had been clear for centuries that flowers preceded the development of seeds and fruit.

Figs didn't fit that pattern. They apparently produced fruits without flowers, at least not flowers that anyone could see. The completely enclosed flowers are almost microscopic, and are pollinated by tiny wasps, at least one of which must remain inside each ripe fig.

If you already didn't do fruitcake, you now have a fine reason. I have never been able to find any of the wasps (they are too small), but the presence of fig seeds says they must be there and I could tell you stories about dates and citron that you wouldn't believe.

Mother-in-law Helen's recipe also features a cup of strong, cold coffee and something more than seven pounds of dried fruit and nuts. I am willing to modify most recipes, but I don't alter this one in any way, except to reduce it in overall size.

Five fruitcakes is enough for a family to have to deal with. The old, yellowed three by five card the recipe and directions are written on has some of the character of a sacred text.

Storage and preservation are no problem. A wrapping of cheesecloth and repeated painting with inexpensive bourbon preserves these little treasures for as long as anyone might desire. Bourbon and fruitcake were made for each other.

With one of Helen's fruitcakes in hand, Christmas can be celebrated until July at least. It is well to be reminded next May or June that Christmas happened, and for me nothing does that as well as a bit of aged and tender fruitcake.

Good job Hayes

Editor:

Kudos to Hayes Township for good long range planning. The true restoration of the Big Rock site to green field condition — creating a protected state park — will be a treasure for generations as well as an economic plus for this region. This project will also be an international landmark for Consumers Power Company.

The ad hoc committee to preserve the Big Rock site in a natural condition has been meeting for more than three years. We are working with a broad spectrum of local interests to put together funding sources so we may offer Consumers Power and our community an alternative to another massive development. Members of this committee recognize that the natural resources of this area are its greatest economic asset. Far better to set aside some land, than to develop every available inch of northern Michigan. Nothing makes better sense than to save this land which is more than 70 percent wetland and home to a number of endangered species.

Members of the ad hoc committee include leaders of both the Charlevoix Area Conservancy and the Little Traverse Conservancy, representatives of local government, including Hayes Township, Charlevoix Township and the county board of commissioners. Others include representatives of the Little Traverse Bay Bands of Odawa, the chamber of commerce and realtors. Already, the committee has received indications of support from several state officials.

Consumers Power Company has been a good friend and neighbor to the citizens of Charlevoix County for almost 40 years. Their goal, to restore Big Rock to a green field fits the goal of the community to make the 580 acre site a state park. Our hope is that Consumers will join us in our goal to keep the restored Big Rock site green.

Wal-Mart will hurt Stover

Editor:

I recently moved to the area to work for the protection of northern Michigan's water and wetland resources — the health of which serve not only our summer tourist economy, but also many local families, sportsmen and nature enthusiasts. Because of my desire to protect one of these treasures, Stover Creek and its associated wetlands, I am opposed to a Wal-Mart supercenter in Charlevoix.

Stover Creek is one of the major tributaries of Lake Charlevoix and its cold water supports native Brook Trout as well as spawning runs of other trout and salmon. The creek also provides wildlife habitat and functions as an important wildlife travel corridor. For those who haven't walked along Stover Creek lately, I highly recommend it.

In an informal, preliminary site plan given to Charlevoix Township, no doubt modeled after hundreds of supercenters they have opened elsewhere, Wal-Mart proposed to divert Stover Creek — an idea they have since reconsidered. Further, they haven't even bothered to flag the portions of the site containing wetlands. This "one-size-fits-all" attitude should ring alarm bells for those Charlevoix residents who care about Stover Creek and indeed the character of the community as a whole.

This past summer the Charlevoix County Drain Commissioner, Friends of the Stover Creek and Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council surveyed a stretch of the creek, just downstream of the proposed Wal-Mart site (along the Brookside Cemetery). The survey identified 25 problem sites consisting of road surface runoff, eroding streambanks, stream channel obstructions and loss of streambank vegetation.

These problems are probably largely due to human activities in the watershed and are likely to only get worse with the addition of an enormous area of impervious surfaces (roof and parking lot) from a Wal-Mart supercenter. Rain and snowmelt that would otherwise filter through the soil will instead quickly carry sediments and pollutants directly into the creek. The large volume of water entering the creek will likely further erode streambanks and the pollutants and sediments carried by the runoff will harm the creek's ability to support fish and other aquatic life.

As with anything, there are costs and benefits associated with a new Wal-Mart and I encourage everyone to make their own informed analysis. In my ledger, the impacts on the beautiful Stover Creek are yet another check in the costs column.

Charlevoix was the host for American Red Cross Blood Drives on Nov. 13 and Nov. 20.

The blood drive on Nov. 13 was at Bethany Lutheran Church specifically for persons with type "O" blood.

The blood drive on Nov. 20 was at the Community Reformed Church with fantastic results also! The Red Cross welcomed 83 donors, collecting 70 pints of blood. Six of the pints came from first time donors!

Volunteers are heroes because they make the blood drives possible. The donors are heroes because they can affect as many as three lives with each pint of donated blood!

I want to thank the churches for their generosity. Thank you to all of my volunteers including the Charlevoix Lions Club and Charlevoix City Electric and Water Department. I'm grateful for each and every blood donor.

The next community blood drive for the American Red Cross is from noon until 5:45 p.m. on Jan. 22, 2004 at the Community Reformed Church in Charlevoix.

Happy Holidays to everyone!

Fight Wal-Mart

Editor:

Some joyous news! Do not be discouraged as I have been.

I attended This Is Our Town meeting on Dec. 2 and I'm inspired. This town group discussed what can be done to discourage Wal-Mart from building here.

I'm sure you have thought as I have. There goes our town and nothing can be done to stop them. Well, there is.

We all know Wal-Mart destroys a small town like Charlevoix, but we are helpless.

Maybe, just maybe, we can open the eyes of those who are in a position to change them moving into our town.

We have to look beyond the cheap prices to see what a price we will have to pay. It is tempting to shop there but, think what will happen to our community.

If you have a news item you think would be perfect for the Charlevoix Courier, feel free to call 547-6558, e-mail charlevoixcourier@charlevoixcourier.com or visit the Courier office located at 112 Mason Street in downtown Charlevoix.

News items include events sponsored by non-profit organizations. Please inform us of your event at least two weeks in advance.

Our coverage area is the city of Charlevoix and its immediately surrounding areas, including Beaver Island.

Because of space limitations in the newspaper, we generally try to avoid publishing "check-handing" pictures or "ribbon-cutting" pictures. However, we will work with your organization to get a picture that reflects the event and is visually interesting to our readers.

Due to time constraints on the staff, we cannot attend every event we are notified of. If you have a picture of your event, we will gladly consider it for publication. But, please, contact us before your event.

It should be noted, each story and picture is dealt with on its individual merits. Any policies outlined above may be suspended by the editor or general manager of the Charlevoix Courier if necessary.

Wedding

Campaigne — Hayes

Lauren Kendall Campaigne and Roy Charles Hayes III, both of Charlevoix, were married Sept. 27, 2003 at Resurrection Catholic Church in Destin, Fla.

Lauren is the daughter of Jameson and Caroline Campaigne of Ottawa, Ill. Roy is the son of Roy and Jackie Hayes of Charlevoix.

The Father Roy C. Marign performed the double ring rites.

The bride wore a white satin strapless dress with platinum beading on the bodice and scattered on the skirts. She had a dropped waist and cathedral train. Her veil was z-tiered and elbow length, edged with white satin. Her bouquet was an assortment of pink and white roses and stargazer.

Hunter Campaigne was the maid of honor. Mandy Chardoul was the matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Kate Campaigne and Amy McNamara.

They wore two piece strapless turquoise, shantung, silk gowns and carried bouquets of hot pink hydrangeas.

A reception was given at the Beachwalk Cafe in Destin, Fla.

The couple went to San Pedro, Belize on a wedding trip. They are making Charlevoix their home.

Miller — Drayer

Karianne Miller, of Charlevoix, and Patrick Drayer, of Traverse City, were married on Oct. 4, 2003 at St. Mary's Church in Charlevoix.

Karianne is the daughter of Nora Miller of Charlevoix. Patrick is the son of Marcia and Lonnie Drayer of Plant City, Fla.

The Father Thomas Neis performed the double ring rites in front of 150 guests. The bride was escorted down the aisle by her brother, David Miller.

The flower girls were Adrianne and Lily Miller, the bride's nieces.

The groom is stationed in Washington D.C. as an officer in the Coast Guard. The bride will be continuing her schooling in respiratory therapy.

The differences between Godly, Wordly wisdom

By FR. JIM GUNN
Christ Episcopal Church

Beacons of Blessing

Recently I was sharing a very important distinction with my congregation.

It is a distinction that every Christian should have clear in this day and age — the distinction between Worldly wisdom and Godly wisdom. A very obvious but significant thing to say about Godly wisdom is that it starts with God!

Look at Proverbs 9:10 — "The fear of the LORD is the beginning of wisdom, and knowledge of the Holy One is understanding."

We also need to realize that Godly wisdom is often not recognized or understood by those who are of the world. Let me just list a few Scriptures that you might look at: 1 Corinthians 1:17-25; John 3:3; Ephesians 1:18-19 and 1 Corinthians 2:11-14. The summary of what all of those passages are saying is that you must have the Spirit of God in order to understand the things of God.

With Godly wisdom, it is not a question of "Seeing is believing" so much as it is a question of "Believing is seeing." In other words, you cannot see the hand of God at work around you if the hand of God is not at work in you!

How then can you share the things of God with those around you? It is especially difficult with those who have little knowledge of or belief in the words of Holy Scripture. We start by asking God for the wisdom to know what to say. (See James 1:5) Then we remember that the end result is in the hands of God.

In 1 Corinthians 3:6, Paul says, "I planted the seed, Apollos watered it, but God made it grow." Many people may have a part in bringing the Good News of New Life in Jesus Christ to someone, but it is God Himself who awakens belief in the person.

As I thought and prayed about this subject, I believe that God gave me the following words as a possible definition of Godly wisdom: Godly wisdom is that part of the ministry of the Holy Spirit that informs, shapes and directs our Christian life. Godly wisdom is peaceable and draws us closer to Jesus. Worldly wisdom leads us to focus on ourselves. In fact, it seems to me that the following pairs of statements clearly illustrate the difference between Worldly wisdom and Godly wisdom.

Worldly wisdom says, "Show me!"

Godly wisdom says, "Teach me."

Worldly wisdom says, "I hesitate."

Godly wisdom says, "I trust."

Worldly wisdom says, "I doubt."

Godly wisdom says, "I believe."

Worldly wisdom says, "Make me powerful!"

Godly wisdom says, "Make me holy."

Worldly wisdom says, "Make me god!"

Godly wisdom says, "Make me ... God."

Let us always seek to have our lives filled with Godly wisdom. The apostle Paul put it well in Ephesians 5:15-17, when he said, "Be very careful, then, how you live — not as unwise but as wise, making the most of every opportunity, because the days are evil. Therefore do not be foolish, but understand what the Lord's will is."

Obituaries

Mary V. McDermott: Died Dec. 8, 2003

Mary V. "Vickie" McDermott, 81, of Charlevoix, and formerly of Beaver Island, died Monday, Dec. 8, 2003, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

A Mass of the Resurrection will be 11 a.m., Saturday, Dec. 13, at Holy Cross Catholic Church on Beaver Island.

The Rev. Patrick Cawley will officiate and burial will be in Holy Cross Cemetery. A complete obituary will follow. Winchester Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

Danielle L. White: May 30, 1968 - Dec. 2, 2003

Danielle L. White, 35, of Traverse City, went to be with her Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, Dec. 2, 2003.

She was at home surrounded by loved ones at the end of a long battle with cancer.

Born Danielle L. Johnson on May 30, 1968, in Lansing, she lived most of her life in northern Michigan.

A graduate of Charlevoix High School, she went on to receive her associate degree at Northwestern Michigan College and was continuing studies for her B.A. through Ferris State University.

Danielle married Thomas C. White of Traverse City in 1987, and they have one daughter, Madelaine, 7.

Danielle and Tom have been active in the community. They owned and managed the Great Lakes Submarine Company restaurants. They also were a host family for several high school foreign exchange students. They were active at Bay Pointe Community Church, where Danielle was part of the drama team.

Danielle and Tom were short-term missionary Bible teachers in India.

Danielle performed with the Old Town Playhouse, with leading roles in "Glass Menagerie" and "The Philadelphia Story." She enjoyed many activities such as gardening, cooking, traveling and horseback riding (dressage). Her love of reading led her to her last employment at Horizon Book Store.

Surviving are her beloved daughter and husband; her parents, Karen and Bob Reid of Lansing; her maternal grandparents, Helen and Louis Piland of Holt; her mother-in-law, Nancy White of Traverse City; her sister and family, Meagan and Kurt Smith, Alex, Emma, Isaac, of Lansing; her uncles, Dr. Lanny Johnson of Okemos and Gregg Piland of Harbor Springs; her aunts, Mary Ann Johnson of East Lansing and Diana Piland of Harbor Springs; her cousins, Dr. Charlotte Heideman (Carl) of Holland, Autumn Johnson of Okemos, Kristen Juilleret (Jason) of Harbor Springs, and Marine Lance Corporal Joshua Piland of Harbor Springs.

A Celebration of Life memorial service was Saturday, Dec. 6, at the First Congregational Church in Traverse City, with a gathering of family and friends one hour prior to the service.

In lieu of flowers, memorials may be directed to either the Norris Elementary School Library or to the family for an education fund for daughter Madelaine.

Norwalk Virus cause of recent Charlevoix sickness

Health department officials confirmed that last week's outbreak of gastro-intestinal symptoms in the Charlevoix area was caused by the highly contagious Norwalk Virus, not by food poisoning.

Nurses and sanitarians from the Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency quickly determined the source of the outbreak was an open house event with a large turnout in Charlevoix County.

They interviewed over 100 people who attended the event and a majority of them were experiencing symptoms such as low-grade fever, nausea, vomiting, stomach cramps and diarrhea. The health department's investigation indicated the source of the outbreak was not a foodborne parasite and this was confirmed when lab analysis of stool samples identified the Norwalk Virus.

"We're very grateful to members of the Charlevoix community for their assistance in identifying the Norwalk Virus," said Joshua Meyerson, M.D., medical director for the Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency, the health department which serves Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego Counties. "Many people took their symptoms, where they'd been and what they ate over the past few days. Also, many brought in stool samples for us to have analyzed at the lab."

The virus is spread when hands, surfaces or foods are contaminated with fecal material containing the virus and then a person ingests the virus by eating contaminated food.

With holiday gatherings upon us, the best way to prevent getting ill is thorough hand washing said Meyerson.

Always wash hands thoroughly before working with ready-to-eat foods, after using the bathroom, using a handkerchief, touching any soiled object or surface, handling raw food (especially poultry and meat), eating, smoking and touching or scratching any area of the body including ears, mouth, nose or hair.

Washing up before handling any foods is especially important to prevent spreading the disease to others. Other important measures are thorough cleaning of counter tops, preparing and storing food properly, and minimizing handling foods with bare hands by using serving utensils.

If you do become ill, there are some simple measures to take.

The illness is generally self-limited and requires no specific medications. Like all viruses, antibiotics are not effective. Drinking plenty of clear liquids to prevent dehydration is the most important measure.

The illness generally subsides in a day or two.

If you or a family member cannot hold down anything and are showing signs of dehydration (such as dry mouth, decreased urine output, sunken eyes and skin, rapid heart rate) or are having severe stomach pain, then you should contact your physician.

If you are ill, you should practice meticulous hand washing and avoid serving food to others to prevent spread of the disease.

The Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency is the local health department serving Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego counties. Its staff is dedicated to preventing disease and injury and promoting healthy communities.

For additional information about the Norwalk Virus, contact your physician or local office of the health department.

HEALTH

Laser dentistry is another option for your teeth

Harry Suckert, D.D.S

'Your health'

Lasers are now part of our lives in many ways.

They are in our computer printers and compact disc players, they record prices at the supermarket checkout, they light up rock concerts, they guide weapons and measure distances between planets. Lasers have revolutionized many surgical procedures, minimizing bleeding, swelling, scarring and pain. And now they're beginning to blaze a new trail in dentistry.

Suppose someone told you that your next dental visit would be completely unlike any you've ever had before. Imagine if you could leave the dental office with a brand new filling but without the annoying numb lip. And during the appointment you didn't even have to hear that ear-splitting drill noise. Would you believe it? Thanks to high-tech dental lasers, this can really be true.

Laser theory can be traced back to Albert Einstein. The first laser study on dental hard tissue (teeth) was reported by Goldman, et.al. in 1964, testing the effects of lasers on dental decay. Since then, the development of lasers and the materials used is progressing at a fast rate with new materials appearing constantly.

A simplification of how lasers work would be to imagine bouncing a beam of light back and forth between optical mirrors and lenses, amplifying the strength with each cycle. When the beam is powerful enough it is released, almost as if opening a gate, in a short pulse of energy. This burst of energy causes a carefully controlled reaction. The color and energy of this new light (laser) depends upon in what type of material the light was being stimulated. Each laser can be tuned, much like a musical instrument.

This space-age technology is fast becoming more common in dentistry. Laser Dentists are now using a combination of precise laser energy and water to safely remove decay and infection from their patient's mouths. The Waterlase Dental Laser manufactured by BIOLASE Technology, Inc. is the only laser in the world that is FDA approved for safety and effectiveness for treatment of teeth (fillings), gums (gingivectomy and recountouring of gums, non-surgical release of tongue-tie, periodontal treatment, canker sores, etc.) and bone.

The Waterlase accomplishes this by the interaction of laser energy with water creating the unique and ultimately very useful phenomenon called "hydrokinetics." Hydrokinetics allows the dentist to cut hard and soft tissue without vibration and with almost no heat transfer, sometimes even cooling the target tissue.

The Waterlase Dental Laser has several benefits to the patient including the following: it does not produce vibration or heat normally present with standard dental drills, thus reducing the risk of cracking the tooth structure (micro-fractures), which may lead to broken teeth and root canals; there is less sensitivity afterwards because of not overheating the tooth when decay is removed; in most cases, numbing (Novocain shots) isn't necessary: the dreaded high-pitched whine of a drill is instead replaced with a gentle popping sound.

Another important benefit of the Waterlase Dental Laser is that it sterilizes the tooth as it removes decay. Because of bacterial contamination, many of you have to have old fillings replaced with either new fillings, or in many cases, with crowns, and sometimes even root canals. The recurrence of decay under fillings is a primary reason so many root canals are needed. Since the new laser sterilizes the tooth as it removes decay, and since many dentists now use "bonded" filling materials enriched with fluoride, the chances of ever having recurrent decay under that new filling are much lower.

Laser treatment of the tooth surface has also been shown to increase hardness and acid resistance of tooth structure. This results in over 50% more resistance to tooth decay. The laser can be set at a very low power setting, allowing total removal of all debris without loss of healthy enamel, resulting in smaller, more conservative fillings.

Maybe you've been told that you need gum treatment. With the Waterlase, treating your gums is simple, easy, more effective and painless.

Lasers can also be used for diagnosing decay; I have had this type of laser in my practice since 1999. This laser uses light energy to reflect off the tooth decay, which is then given a digital rating to show how severe it is.

Dentists undergo special training to become proficient in the skills necessary to use a laser and to learn the various ways they can match the laser's capabilities to the patient's needs. Currently there are very few hydrokinetic dental lasers operating in the U.S.

After undergoing extensive laser training I am proud to be the first dentist in Charlevoix and the Northern Michigan area to offer the benefits of the new Waterlase Dental Laser to my patients and their families.

Dr. Harry Suckert can be contacted at his office by calling (231) 547-4347 or visit www.nopaindentistry.com or www.biolase.com on the web for more information on lasers in dentistry.

Aesop's fable still holds true

Bigger isn't always better -

The best shopping is here at home.

The fable: Aesop, a famous fable teller is remembered for his story about the dog trotting home with a prize bone. On the way he saw what looked like a much larger one in the reflection of a stream...but, in grabbing for it, lost the bone he already had.

The fact: Many of us today are still risking and losing some of the good things we have by reaching for a tempting offer outside our own community.

By shopping elsewhere for the bigger bone, we seriously undermine the economic structure that supports our schools, churches, businesses and everything else that makes our home town a great place to live and work.

This community could enjoy greater prosperity and many more social and civic facilities if out-of-town spending were kept in our local economic bloodstream. Shop at home. Don't be a victim of a 1300-year-old fable.

Bond for new library building to be determined

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

The wrinkles in the funding question for the over $7 million, new Charlevoix Public Library project are being ironed out.

The feasibility study, which is the first step in the fund-raising campaign, is wrapping up this week. The study is being done by Monaghan Associates of Grand Rapids and is aimed at gauging community support for the project.

Meyerson said results from the study will be in at the end of December.

Then, in January, Paul Stauder of Stauder-Barch in Ann Arbor, the library's financial advisor for the bond, will use the study information to calculate the size of the bond the library will need to ask voters to approve to fund the project.

Stauder's review will start at this week's board of trustees meeting which will take place at 4 p.m., tomorrow, Dec. 11, in the basement of the library located off Clinton Street.

At the board's November meeting the bond election was set for June 14, 2004. Meyerson said this is a regular Charlevoix Public Schools election, which makes it easy for the library to piggy back on the ballot because the district runs library elections.

Once the bond amount has been established, Tom Colis, the library's bond attorney with Miller Canfield in the Detroit area, will write the ballot language.

This language then has to be approved by the Charlevoix County Clerk's office in March.

In the meantime, the library's millage committee, which includes Rick Brandi, Carla Spencer, Marilyn Hall, Al Ranger, Betty Henne, Yvonne Wendt, Traver Wood and Meyerson, is making future library project presentations to nonprofit and service groups in Charlevoix.

Meyerson said that so far the library has not started to ask for donations, but has already received $30,000. Charlevoix residents Don and Kay Heise pledged $25,000 and the Friends of the Library pledged $5,000.

"That is really exciting," she said of the donations.

Meyerson is also hard at work writing grant requests to different library construction funding agencies.

But this quiet time will end in March when the capital campaign with requests for donations will start. This is expected to run through early summer.

Community fund-raisers, like dinners, auctions and other events, will follow in the summer and fall of 2004.

Right now, at the future site, the former Charlevoix Middle School off Grant Street, the library and property owner the city of Charlevoix, are working to shut the building down. The library has not yet bought 10 of the 13 lots from the city. Meyerson said the library will purchase the site after the election if the vote passes.

Other issues which will be on the ballot include renewal of the school's non-homestead tax and open board seats.

The new library proposal looks to renovate and add on to the existing school. The proposed brick facility is about 24,000 square feet, with all its main functions on the first floor.

This primary floor will include small additions, totaling just under 4,000 square feet of space — one will house the program room and the other, a children's activity room. The facility will offer a adult, children's and teen collections as well as a popular reading room, plenty of quiet reading areas, a self check out, a the staffed circulation desk and outdoor landscaped plazas.

If the library comes up with the money to give the project the green light, the board is hoping to break ground in the spring of 2005 with about 14 months of construction to follow and a grand opening in the summer of 2006.

After the library moves in, it will sell its current site and will use proceeds from that sale to pay off the bond.

If it's not in the newspaper, how will the public notice?

Zoning changes. Tax increases. Legislative proposals. These are just a few topics where government actions can affect your life and community. Imagine if government no longer had the legal obligation to publish this information in your newspaper. How would public notices get noticed? In our democratic society your newspaper fulfills an essential role in serving your right to know. It should not be your responsibility to know how to look, where to look, when to look or even to know what you're looking for to be informed. Local country group to compete in band battle

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

All that five local musicians want for Christmas is a Battle of the Bands title that could put them on the country music who's who list.

The recently formed Charlevoix band, Concrete Country, will take to the big stage Dec. 19 at the Leelanau Sands Casino in Suttons Bay.

"This is our chance to go down there and do something that's real," band co-founder, Nick Himebauch, said.

Two years ago, Himebauch started playing music with his co-worker and friend Tom Zipp. The two played low key country music gigs around the area as the duo "Ropes in the Wind," with Zipp on guitar and Himebauch carrying the vocals.

Over the past two years, they built up a list of original songs. Then, this fall they found the perfect place to make sure those songs were heard. Himebauch heard a commercial on a local country station on the casino's Battle of the Bands blowout and knew their time had arrived.

They worked together to create a CD and entered it into a sea of 50 others sent in by bands wanting the same chance to compete.

The two later found out they were one of nine to qualify.

"We kind of expected to make it, but not really," Himebauch said.

They were excited about the competition, but Himebauch said there was just one problem. "We thought, 'Oh my God we need a band,'" he said.

Zipp's brother Dan was a shoe-in on the drums and their co-worker Dan Gillespie was a perfect fit to round out the group's sound playing acoustic guitar.

The only question was who would complete the rhythm section on bass.

A call was made to Steve Gauthier, the bass player for the local classic rock band Miss Conduct and he agreed to come aboard.

"I'm geeked they called me. This is something unique and I feel real lucky to play," Gauthier said.

With four of the five members employed at the local cement manufacturer Cemex, Inc., a friend of Himebauch's suggested the band name Concrete Country. At first blush Himebauch thought the name was a little cheesy, but it grew on him.

"It kind of tells a story. It's fate that we got together," Himebauch said.

Even though the country music outfit was pieced together in September, they practiced for a month and stole the show at the qualifying competition in late October beating out two established bands.

Himebauch said, "We went down there and they treated us like kings. They really took care of us— it was amazing. We were wide eyed by it."

He said playing on the big stage in front of over 500 people with professional sound technicians and support staff was a rush.

And next week's final competition offers the band even more.

They plan to perform a 25 minute set with four originals and two covers for a group of country fans and judges including record executives and two Nashville, Tenn. big wigs.

If they steal the title from two other bands who will also be competing, they'll bring $1,000 back to Charlevoix and the chance for radio spots and a recording contract.

But regardless of who wins the battle in Suttons Bay, Himebauch said Concrete Country is here to stay.

"There's going to be some kind of future that will be fun and bright," he said.

Charlevoix Floral replants in new location

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Charlevoix Floral owners Lori and Pat Mitchell pulled up their store's roots and replanted it this week.

"We just keep growing, it's amazing," Lori said.

The couple bought the business in 1997 from Lori's mom, Dorothy Trost. They started out with two small flower coolers. Over the years the operation has blossomed to include those same two coolers and a huge walk-in cooler.

The business has been in the family for about 20 years.

The additional cool space was needed to accommodate new customers and options in the industry. Lori said that when she started, traditional flowers like carnations, daisies and roses were all the rage. Now, exotics and different greenery and fillers have made their way onto the scene.

This physical growth maxed out their floor space at the old location between Charlevoix Camera and Oma's Breakfast Club in the Oleson's Plaza.

"We needed more space, it was just too crowded in there," Lori said.

Because of the overcrowding, in October, they made the decision to move the operation to the former Frisbey GMAC real estate office near the grocery store also in the Oleson's plaza.

The new digs will provide more showroom space and Lori said will also allow the staff at Charlevoix Floral to better serve customers.

After some renovations and a three-day major move across the parking lot, the Mitchells, members of the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors and loyal customers and friends celebrated their grand opening at that new location Monday, Dec. 8.

While Charlevoix Floral is operating things at a new store site, Lori said it will be business as usual and Charlevoix Floral will continue to serve the community's floral needs.

They will celebrate the opening of the new store from 4 to 6 p.m. this Saturday, Dec. 13 at the store.

There were winners in all three divisions.

In the men's division, locals Clint Druckenmiller and James Higbee tied for first place. Due to the great participation of some 30 area businesses, both were awarded prizes of equal value. Second place went to Traverse City resident, Ken Korson. Another local, Daniel Cox, took third place.

All four hunters bagged either an eight-point or 10-point buck.

The youth division had nice representation.

First place winner, Jason Rewold from Rochester Hills, shot a nine-point in the Ellsworth area. Second place winner, Quentin Kauska of Elmira bagged a seven-point in the Jordan Valley.

LUCKY HUNT

Charlevoix area residents reported much success in the woods during this year's hunting season. Four of those hunters sent in photos of themselves and the deer, or in one case a reindeer, that they successfully bagged. (Left) This local hunter shows off his reindeer that he recently shot. (Right) Jim Wilson, of Charlevoix, and the eight point buck that he killed south of Charlevoix in November. (bottom right) Tyler Essenberg, 12, of Ellsworth, and the four point duck he killed on family property in Marion Township on Oct. 11. (bottom left) Scott Sladek, 16, of Charlevoix, and the seven-point buck he killed in the early season hunt.

Wrestling team starts off season with win

Charlevoix took Onaway by a score of 60-24. The pins were as follows: Jacob Wimmer, Nathaniel Sotuyo, Jed Daman, Chris Aeplebacher and Jeff Golovich. Zach Sharenbroch also got a pin in his exhibition match.

Going against the Mancelona Ironmen, the final team score was 45 - 24, with pins by: Tony Kiernan, Sotuyo, Daman, Travis Burke, Jeff Golovich with an exhibition pin for Robert Gretsch. Wins for the Rayders include: Jaimen Waha and Shannon Gillespie.

Second year coach Craig Golovich was pretty excited with the teams openers.

"This is a good start for such a young team," he said. "If these kids keep hitting it this hard, who knows how far they can go!"

The Charlevoix Rayders wrestling team participated in the Mancelona invitational on Saturday, Dec. 6 and competed against Cheboygan, Petoskey, Pine River, Mio and Frankfurt.

Winners for the Rayders include: Kiernan, Sotuyo and Jeff Golovich, each with three pins and one win, Wimmer and Scott Sladek each with three pins, Daman, Waha and Gresch, each with two pins and one win, Sharenbroch and Patrick Russell, each with two pins, Gillespie with one pin and one win, Matt Novotny and Aeplebacher each with two wins and Nick Gotshall with one win.

Golovich noted that the young Rayders were bracketed with the larger schools.

"We held our own ground today," he said.

Attorney finds loophole in Charlevoix law

DEBATE

drea Lane said. "The majority of this board (the planning commission) is not interested in what the public wants."

The public hearing was set based on a loophole found by Ed Engstrom, an attorney with Barron and Golski representing Sunnybank owners Diane Gillette and Ruth Bellisimo.

He told the commission the current ordinance allows for professional offices as a special use in the R-2. However, what professional offices includes is not defined in the ordinance. So Engstrom looked to what is permitted in the professional office district and this includes nursing homes.

His application for the special use permit lists the proposed use as assisted living/nursing home.

"This is a project we need and there is no reason it shouldn't be built on this site," Engstrom told the commission. "We feel the definition of nursing home fits this assisted living facility to a tee."

Planning commissioner John Dobulis said he agrees with Engstrom's opinion that there is a need, but questioned his approach.

"This is not the way to do it. You are trying to get in the back door," Dobulis said.

He instead suggested that city staff and the zoning board of appeals review the application and offer their take on the request.

But Engstrom urged the commission not to put the issue off.

He said, "It's a very important project and it's been delayed and delayed and delayed. We don't need another delay."

Dobulis and commissioners Gina Whitney and Barbara Fels all supported the motion to hold off, but the other five commission members shot it down.

Commissioner John Campbell then made the motion to set the hearing. He was supported by Kusina and commissioners Francis "Brownie" Flanders, Richard Hodgson and Steve Bennett.

Campbell said, "(We granted the hearing) Because they asked for it. Nothing in the zoning ordinance says a public hearing can't be held."

The commission's decision prompted discussion from city attorney Jim Young who asked, "Do you understand the implications of what you are doing?"

He said there is an interpretation issue as to what is meant by professional office in the R-2 and that should be cleared up.

In spite of Young's warning, the motion was not withdrawn and it passed.

The commission's decision sparked a fire inside third ward council member Shirley Gibson and mayor Gabe Campbell who both attended the meeting.

Gibson said, "They are trying to get in the back door. The planning commission is trying to circumvent government — they are a recommending body."

Mayor Campbell said their decision was a slap in the face of residents and a pat on the back of the developer, Sunnybank.

Both sides, the developer and its supporters and the opposition will be heard at the Jan. 12 hearing. One issue that will likely be a topic of debate is the unit size of the proposed 32 efficiency and 22 one-bedroom apartments which are smaller than what the ordinance requires. Sunnybank's application was also missing sign information, which Engstrom said will be available at the hearing.

Lane is not optimistic about the hearing.

She said, "It doesn't matter if every person in this room stands up and says we don't want it, they'll approve it."

The commission's decision to host the hearing may be a topic of discussion at council's meeting scheduled to take place at 7 p.m., Dec. 15 in the Coast Guard training room.

Council will likely also discuss Dobulis' suggestion that the proposed amendment to the zoning ordinance to clearly allow assisted living in the R-1 and R-2 with a special use permit be on the November 2004 presidential election ballot so city residents can make the final call.

Charlevoix like other cities on assisted living issue

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Charlevoix City Council's majority opinion that assisted living doesn't belong in the single family residential district follows suit with surrounding communities, but makes life hard for those who want to develop a facility in the city.

Zoning ordinances in Boyne City, East Jordan, Petoskey and Harbor Springs only allow assisted living facilities with over 12 units in their commercial and multiple family residential districts.

In Boyne City, assisted living facilities that cater to 20 or more residents are only allowed in the city's commercial district. Zoning administrator and city planner Scott McPherson said the facilities are not allowed in any of the city's residential areas.

Charlevoix city planner Gerry Harsch thinks Boyne City's take on assisted living is a little off.

"The concept of saying a senior assisted living facility is a commercial facility I find a bit strange. It's really a residential use," he said.

East Jordan's city administrator Dave White said assisted living facilities that have over six units would be allowed in the city's multiple family district as a special use. He said the facility would be treated as apartments.

This same take on assisted living is shared in Petoskey and Harbor Springs where the facilities are allowed as special uses in the multiple family residential district.

On Nov. 17, three council members and mayor Gabe Campbell voted against setting a public hearing to consider the Charlevoix Planning Commission's recommendation to amend the city's ordinance to allow the facilities in the R-1 and R-2 single family residential district with a special use permit.

They claim that the proper places for this type of facility are in the R-4 like in Petoskey, Harbor Springs and East Jordan or the commercial district as is allowed in Boyne City.

Harsch said that under the current ordinance assisted living developments are only allowed in the multiple family, R-4 district. But he said the problem is there is no R-4 land left in the city.

"Property would have to be rezoned for that purpose," he said. "At this time there is no multiply

Alice was born on March 23, 1976. She is 5 feet, 8 inches in height and weighs 160 pounds. Her hair is blond, with highlights.

The vehicle's registration is RXW030.

Alice, whose maiden last name is Holm, graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1994. She has been married for six years and has a 2-year-old son, a 4-year-old daughter and a 5-year-old daughter.

Johnson said his department has received several tips since the story of Alice's disappearance first started being reported in local media. But, according to those tips, Alice could be anywhere in the state.

"Our detectives are working quite hard on it," he said.

Multiple living area location in many cities

This means potential developers would have the difficult task of jumping through hoops to get a parcel rezoned to R-4.

In March, the planning commission was approached by Diane Gillette and Ruth Bellisimo, owners of Sunnybank Retirement Community in Petoskey. Their plan was to develop a similar assisted living facility on a parcel owned by Charlevoix resident and Realtor, Ed Amick, located on Charlevoix's north side. The property is currently zoned R-2.

But council's decision sent Sunnybank packing and it doesn't look as though Gillette and Bellisimo will encourage Amick to go for the R-4 rezone.

"If they wouldn't do a special use (in the R-2), I don't think they'll rezone the property to R-4 ," she said.

According to the city's master plan this property should be used for medium density development of four to six units per acre.

Gillette added that their plans for locating a facility in Charlevoix are on hold.

Northwest bands to perform Dec. 11

The Northwest Academy Intermediate band, beginning band and choir will be presenting their annual Holiday concert on Thursday, Dec. 11, 2003, at the Northwest Academy North Building at 7 p.m.

The choir has been in existence for two years and will warm your hearts with their beautiful harmonies and holiday spirit.

The beginning band is made up of fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grade students that are just beginning their instrumental understanding. This is their first public performance.

The intermediate band is made up of seventh and eighth grade students and some of these students have now been playing for three years. They will perform a wide range of music for the season.

Convince yourself that you've been in business so long customers will automatically come to you.
5. Don't Advertise
Forget that there are new potential customers who would do business with you if they were reminded.
6. Don't Advertise
Forget that you have competition trying to attract your customers away from you.
7. Don't Advertise
Tell yourself it costs too much to advertise and that you don't get enough out of it.
8. Don't Advertise
Overlook the fact that advertising is an investment in selling ... not an expense.
9. Don't Advertise
Be sure not to provide an adequate advertising budget for your business.
10. Don't Advertise
Forget that you have to keep reminding your established customers that you appreciate their business.

SCRAPBOOK

The year 1970 was a busy one for Charlevoix

Marilyn Boss

'Days gone by'

The year of 1970 was a good one for Charlevoix, even though the national economy was in the doldrums. I always enjoy reminiscing through the old newspapers, and trust you will also enjoy the news of the year 1970.

Some new businesses opened in town, while others shut down for good. There were more tourists in town during the summer, but businessmen said they didn't leave as much money behind as was hoped for, figuring it might be due to the big move to trailers and campers.

The selection of juries by lottery began in the county in January. Ray and Joan Petitt had a grand opening at Wal-Mar Beauty Salon. Brad Carey was named to Alma College's Varsity basketball team. Robert Ostrum went to Vietnam. Charlevoix Township turned down annexation to the city of Charlevoix by a vote of 147 to 81. Paul Parrish, 20, of Lockport, Ill., formerly of Charlevoix, was injured in a snowmobile accident. Mrs. Ingma Pontius was promoted to auditor at the Charlevoix County State Bank. Deborah Jean Potter made the dean's list at Northwestern Michigan College with a four point scholastic average.

Charlevoix School Superintendent Rex Milligan announced his resignation to return to teaching. Robert Hoffman was elected president of the Emmet-Charlevoix Bar Association. Roger Westenbroek was appointed to fill a vacancy on the city council created by the resignation of Thomas G. Hanna. Hanna resigned to become city superintendent. The emergency outpatient station began at the Charlevoix Hospital. Robert E. Albright was promoted to lieutenant commander in the U.S. Navy.

On Feb. 6, Lynn Fiedorek won the "Good Citizen" award offered by the Daughters of the American Revolution. The Lions Club had its winter picnic at Ferry Avenue Beach. Mercia Carolho of Recife, Brazil, came to live with the Margaret Gengle family. George Schultz was promoted to electrical foreman by Medusa. The Rev. E. Wayne Olinghouse became the pastor of the Community Church of God. Forty persons attended the first meeting of the John Birch Society in Charlevoix. Gary Balch took over Jay Ferguson's barbershop. Charles Elzinga, Farm Bureau insurance representative, was honored for sales in 1969. Neil S. Cross and Dana E. Arvilla made the honor roll at Michigan State University.

In March, rites were given for William R. (Bill) Zeitler, 29, manager of the Charlevoix Secretary of State's office. Hamilton and Son Boatyard filed suit charging the city had abandoned the foot of Alice Street, from Belvedere to Round Lake. A fire damaged boats at Brow Marina, followed a few days later by a roof collapse. Marilyn Marshall opened a tax service in town. School teachers, Mrs. Frank Novotny and Mrs. Paul Connelly submitted resignations to the board. The Kiwanis Club sponsored the "Ink Spots" who will appear here. The Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District board OK'd a budget of $324,115. Staff Sgt. Terry Stewart was awarded the Bronze star with "V" for valor in ceremonies at the Marine Corps headquarters in Washington D.C. The city council received plans for a boat launching ramp at Ferry Beach. The sheriff's office installed radar speed control equipment.

In April, Charlevoix Township asked 2.7 mills for roads and boat ramps. The state license bureau moved to Oleson's Shopping center. The council approved a 50 homesite development on the south side. P.F.C. Eugene Farkas arrived in Vietnam. Robert L. Miller of Hartland was hired as school superintendent. Lynn De Fiedorek and Sharon Kay Boss were named valedictorian and salutatorian respectively. City employees charge that the city deprives them of their union rights. The south side fought proposed construction of boat ramps at Ferry Beach.

In May, the school announced that they need 2.29 more mills to operate. William Welke was named sheriff's deputy on Beaver Island. Anita Potter and Leon Bolhuis won the Farm Bureau essay contest awards. Last rites were given for Mrs. John (Daisy) Harsha of Birmingham and Boulder Park. The city council OK'd a six percent pay hike for city employees. Gordon Freedman was honored as "Small Businessman of the Year" in connection with Michigan Week.

In June, Mrs. Robert Lieberman, Donald W. Brown, Richard Way and Clement J. Wagner were candidates for the school board. The Charlevoix Agency bought the Max Novak Agency. Josh Barnes of Lexalite took part in a trade mission to Europe. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bennett celebrated their golden anniversary. Services were given for Miss Mary A. (Mame) Orlowski, 92. Mrs. Robert Lieberman and Clem Wagner were elected to the school board. Charlevoix Township officials called a meeting to discuss "hippie" invasion. Dr. James Roberts, former Charlevoix graduate was the commencement speaker. Rites were given for Capt. Alfred Brow. Kids and adults locked horns at a "hippie" meeting at the VFW hall. Richard Hodgson, 30, bought Walker Marina. The L.E. Block house on Michigan Avenue was donated to the Charlevoix Hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ostrike were hired to run the chamber of commerce office, succeeding Wally Loder. Rites were given for Martin Bottema, 60, of Charlevoix, and J. Lawrence Malloy, 77 of St. James. C.E. Belfy was named skipper of the Steelhead.

Basketball team ready for a successful season

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The Charlevoix High School varsity basketball team may have the skills to go all the way this year.

"We are going with the 'No Limit' theme from two years ago. This could be a team that could do pretty well," coach Keith Haske said.

Haske said the team is very solid with six seniors rounding out a 15 player squad.

"We are pretty balanced. We have a good inside game and we are hoping we are pretty hard to defend," he said. "So far our key guys are working real hard. I am pretty pleased with the work ethic."

The seniors are Scott Friske, Bryce Daly, Ryan DeYoung, John DiMartino, Matt Burtt and Kyle Kramer.

Haske said Friske had an outstanding year last year. This year he is even stronger and should do very well.

Daly is the great point guard and a good leader for the team. DeYoung saw a lot of time on the court last year and Haske expects him to pick up his game this year.

DiMartino is also playing well and Burtt has been shooting the ball well in scrimmages, Haske said.

As for Kramer, Haske said he has been injured, but when he gets healthy he should be a nice addition to the team.

Juniors on the team are Jake Teuscher, Mike Wojan, Sparky Nitchman, Phil Steen, Chris Golski, Eric Grossman and Jared Hunt. Haske said there is some real potential in these players.

"I think that by mid-January, these guys are really going to be good varsity players," Haske said.

In addition to the juniors, Haske also has two sophomores on the team with varsity experience — Cody Crain and Ben Bergmann.

"They bring a lot of experience for what they went through last year," Haske said.

He added, "I have a good feeling about the team as a whole. These kids seem to like each other and get along."

Haske will need all these tools when it comes to their goal of a successful season though, as Charlevoix faces some tough competition in both its league and outside of the league.

Petoskey is going to be a tough non-league opponent this year, Haske said. Traverse City St. Francis and Elk Rapids will be the ones to look out for in the league.

"Our league from top to bottom, this is the best since I have been here," he said. "There are no real weak teams. Every night we are going to have to come and play a good game to be successful."

Varsity volleyball team seeking the league title

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Liz Grunch is excited about this year's Charlevoix High School varsity volleyball team.

"We are going to be very competitive. We have a lot of talent on the team," Grunch, who is coach of the team, said.

"The girls have worked really hard in the off season to improve their skills and it showed the first week of practice."

Grunch has nine players on the team, of those, five are returning seniors. She has seven returning players total.

"We are really only missing one true starter from last year," Grunch said. "These seven returners were all a big contribution to last year's district win."

The returning players are: Andrea Ruhlman, Kari Way, Denise Barta, Theresa Martin, Jessica Pettis, Becca Kanine and Shayna Drost.

Kanine will be the main setter, Ruhlman is a middle hitter and Way and Martin are power hitters. The back row specialist is Drost and the "ready, set, play" is Pettis.

Grunch said the team's attacking skills are strong this year.

"They have really increased their power in spikes," she said. "We have always been pretty consistent with serving."

But, the weakness is its defense from serve to receive and off the attack.

"We are working on it in practice. I am trying to get them into game situations. They will come along, it will just be a lot of work," Grunch said.

Grunch added the strong teams the Rayders will face are Harbor Springs and Traverse City St. Francis. But, she has high hopes for this year's team.

"We haven't won the league in God knows how long. Winning the league would be a huge stepping stone for Charlevoix volleyball," she said.

Ski team shooting for another shot at finals

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The Charlevoix/East Jordan High Schools' varsity ski team may be young this year, but they are experienced on the slopes.

"They are pretty good. We have a lot of returners and they should be pretty strong," coach Sue Miller said. "We have the talent and the experience. We need more confidence."

There are 25 total skiers on the boys' and girls' teams both from Charlevoix and East Jordan high schools. This is the second year the two schools have combined their ski teams.

Last year the girls' team went to the state finals. Of that team, three skiers are returning: Margaux Rowley, Katie Diller and Kelsey Poineau.

On the boys' team, returners are York Smith, Taylor Fisher, Patrick Teske, Chad Johnson, Mike DePuis and Andrew Mallory.

Miller said both teams are pretty even in the skills with the giant slalom and the slalom.

"The giant slalom has always been our strongest point. We do need to step it up in finishing the slalom races," she said. "We tend to get a few disqualifications that might hurt us in points."

Miller added, "We need strong finishes."

Charlevoix will definitely need some strong finishes as it faces another year filled with tough competition.

Harbor Springs is expected to be very strong this year, especially the girls' team. And Boyne City's boys' and girls' teams could be a challenge for the Rayders.

But, Miller has high hopes.

"Based on past years experience with strong results we've had, we have a good chance of going all the way," she said. "It will be tough to beat Harbor; they will give us a run for our money."

GOOD LUCK!

Wrestling team young but ready to compete

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The Charlevoix High School wrestling team may be young, but these Rayders are ready to compete.

Coach Craig Golovich said there are 22 wrestlers on the team. Most of them are ninth and tenth graders, with only four eleventh graders — who have no previous wrestling experience — and no seniors.

But, this doesn't really worry Golovich.

"Our whole tenth grade group are a tough bunch of kids. They play off each other. They all get along good as a group and they hang out together," he said.

Golovich added most of the wrestlers on the team have trained under him in his elementary and middle school programs. Plus, since the team is young, this spells good things for the future of wrestling in Charlevoix.

"It's all good," he said.

Adding to the base Golovich has in building a strong wrestling team is this is the first year in a long time that so many students have come out for the team.

Golovich said he actually has students challenging each other for varsity spots in various weight classes. In the past, Golovich was lucky to have a student in every weight class, but now he has up to four wrestlers competing with each other in various weight classes to compete on the varsity team.

"This is the first time in years that we are crowded, which is a good thing," Golovich said.

The only real concern Golovich said he has is when he sends a freshman out on the mat to wrestle against a senior in some of the tournaments. He said, win or loose, he doesn't want that student to get injured on the mat.

Because of this, Golovich said he is excited to have his team compete in a couple of junior varsity matches this year in Houghton Lake and Alpena.

"I really hope we do well. They should," he said. "Hopefully, maybe, we can bring a trophy home."

One thing Golovich said he doesn't have to worry about when one of his Rayders competes is that he will show the school in a negative light.

"Our team are great sportsmen. I think that's where it should start. Most of the come off the mat, win or loose, pretty good," he said.

HAVE A GREAT SEASON!

Mayor: You're fired!

City Planning Commissioners in hot water

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

The seats of five Charlevoix Planning Commissioners are in Mayor Gabe Campbell's line of fire.

At Monday night's city council meeting Mayor Campbell added a last minute agenda item to discuss appointments and removals from city commissions.

Then, just after council approved the minutes from the last meeting and checks paid out for the month, he announced he is firing five planning commissioners. They are commission chairman Dennis Kusina and commissioners John Campbell, Francis "Brownie" Flanders, Richard Hodgson and Steve Bennett.

None of the five he plans to oust were forewarned.

Bennett said, "How dare he do something without the courtesy of even telling me."

Commissioner John Dobulis agrees. He said, "I think common courtesy was to give a person private warning — not to hit them in the back at a public meeting."

> "It was a hard thing for me to do. I can't have people on commissions running it whichever way they feel instead of by the bylaws."
> Gabe Campbell, Charlevoix City Mayor

But the mayor said he put a lot of thought into his decision.

"It was a hard thing for me to do," he said. "I can't have people on commissions, running it whichever way they feel instead of by the bylaws."

He explained that on Dec. 8, when the commission set a public hearing for Jan. 12 to hear the merits of a special use permit request for an assisted living facility called Sunnybank Retirement Community, it acted illegally.

"They decided to push through a public hearing. I know they have strong feelings on that, hut that is no reason not to follow proper procedure," Mayor

Stroud resigns after over 30 years as township supervisor

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Politics in Charlevoix Township won't be the same without Oscar Stroud, who recently resigned from his post as township supervisor.

"It was a pretty tough decision to make. I've been working on it since May. It was health more than anything, I can't walk without help and I can't last forever," he said.

Stroud, 91, started his stint in township government in 1966 as a trustee. He stayed in the trustee's position for three years before being elected supervisor in 1969.

Thinking back, he said, "I was just a young guy, raring to go."

During his over 30 years of service, Stroud said he has had his fair share of headaches and lived through numerous rowdy political disputes. But the good far outweighed the bad.

He laughed before he jokingly commented that he stuck with the joh for the money. And when asked what really kept him coming to meetings and planning major projects, he got serious and said he cares about Charlevoix, his home town.

Stroud's roots were set here as a member of one of Charlevoix County's pioneer families. He and his wife Margaret then raised their girls, Linda and Beverly, here. And now, he said he has no plans of moving.

His allegiance to the area made Stroud strive to make big things happen here. He was the driving force behind several major projects including the township owned water and sewer systems, the township fire department, the Shanahan Field recreation area, the construction of the township hall called Stroud Hall and the township's paved road system.

Stroud said the township's growth is a testament to the desirable place that has been created by these projects and others in the area. He said it grew by close to 400 residents last year.

As an active part of township politics for over three decades, Stroud may still be part of the crowd at coming meetings, but his seat at the board table has heen filled.

At last week's meeting, hoard trustee Dale Glass was appointed by the board to replace Stroud. Glass has been on the Police, dogs sweep through high school

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Charlevoix High School students found themselves under a basic lock-down Friday afternoon as drug dogs swept the halls only to find no sign of drug use in the school.

According to Charlevoix Schools Superintendent John Sturock, the dogs hit on a couple of lockers, but they didn't even find drug paraphernalia — like a marijuana pipe — much less drugs.

"We feel we have good kids and this supported that," Sturock said of no drugs being found in the school.

But, he said this does not mean all of the students are drug-free. Because of that, he said the school will continue to take measures making sure drugs are not on campus.

"If there is a need to do this again, we will do it again," he said.

Sturock said he contacted the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office based on some concerns relayed to him and the school board by parents about potential drug use at the school. He said several sheriff's deputies and drug dogs entered the school at 1 p.m. on Friday to sweep the lockers for drugs or paraphernalia.

"We wanted to ensure a clean building," he said.

Charlevoix High School Principal Gary Grundman said during this time the students were not allowed to leave their classrooms and everyone was kept out of the hallways. He added students could leave the building if they had a doctor's appointment or other previously arranged reason.

Grundman added this action did disrupt classes. However, he said this action taken by the school district was worth it.

"It sends a message," he said.

Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater said the school district requested the search based on rumors in the community of drug use at the school.

He said these searches have been offered to school districts in the whole county and have taken place before. Lasater added, other searches have not been to the depth that the recent Charlevoix search was.

Ten officers took part in the search, as well as three search dogs from the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office, Antrim County Sheriff's Office and Tuscarora Township Police Department.

Lasater added because the school district invited the officers in and there is no expectation of privacy in a school locker, he did not need a search warrant.

How to get event news in the Courier

If you have a news item you think would be perfect for the Charlevoix Courier, feel free to call 547-6558, e-mail charlevoixcourier@charlevoixcourier.com or visit the Courier office located at 112 Mason Street in downtown Charlevoix.

News items include events sponsored by non-profit organizations. Please inform us of your event at least two weeks in advance.

Our coverage area is the city of Charlevoix and its immediately surrounding areas, including Beaver Island.

Because of space limitations in the newspaper, we generally try to avoid publishing "check-handing" pictures or "ribbon-cutting" pictures. However, we will work with your organization to get a picture that reflects the event and is visually interesting to our readers.

Due to time constraints on the staff, we cannot attend every event we are notified of. If you have a picture of your event, we will gladly consider it for publication. But, please, contact us before your event.

It should be noted, each story and picture is dealt with on its individual merits. Any policies outlined above may be suspended by the editor or general manager of the Charlevoix Courier if necessary.

Drive sober and stay alive for the holidays

EDITORIAL

This week you may have noticed our focus on drunk driving in the community.

We did this experiment and package of stories to highlight the dangers of drinking and driving and show how easy it is to become legally intoxicated.

Why now? Well, the holidays are a known as time when many people take part in family or work celebrations. It could be an office party, a quiet dinner out with friends or that raging New Year's Eve celebration with lots of booze.

Either way, it is this time of the year when people who normally do not imbibe let down their hair and have a little more fun. While there is nothing wrong with this occasional wildness, it becomes a problem if that person decides it is OK to drive home.

It doesn't take much alcohol to impair your ability to drive. And in the rush to have some fun and enjoy your night out with friends and family you may not realize just how much alcohol you are drinking.

The consequences of this are dire. If you are caught by the police, you will be spending the night in jail, you will receive plenty of fines and you will most likely be doing community service, in addition to seeing your name in our On the Record section on page two.

Or you could find yourself in a hospital, struggling to live or watching a friend suffer from your choice to drive them home after you drank too much. Or you could find yourself in prison, for many, many years, because you killed someone on the road.

Or your family could be picking out your casket and planning your funeral.

We urge all of our readers to think before they drink. If you are going to celebrate the holiday season with alcohol, please have a designated driver or make other arrangements.

Please have a safe and happy holiday season.

Charlevoix family starts tasty new local business

Edith Gilbert

'Behind the news'

Courtesy photo

American enterprise is alive and well in Charlevoix!

Check out this new business venture started by Laureen Gerber, who, with the help of her three children, makes delicious candies using an old family recipe. I discovered her sitting in Don's IGA, wearing her pink dress and little lace cap, passing out samples of chocolate covered cashew crunch, coconut mounds, peanut butter clusters, maple clusters and mints.

As a confirmed chocoaholic I found them irresistible.

The Gerber family lives on 18 acres north of Charlevoix. They belong to the Grace Fellowship Mennonite Church located on the Boyne City Road. Mennonites are similar to the Amish — who don't watch TV, but do drive cars. They use the computer, but do not subscribe to the internet.

Founded 475 years ago during the Reformation, there are over one million members worldwide. Mennonites are known for their peace stand and choose not to participate in military service or politics and do not vote.

The Gerber children, twin girls, Serena and Sovina,17, were home-schooled and have graduated high school. Son, Samuel, 15, is also being home-schooled.

Their father, Jerry, is a greeter at Wal-Mart in Petoskey. As an accomplished handyman, he completely refurbished a second-hand mobile home with new linoleum and a three partitioned sink that has passed inspection by the health department for the sole use of an off-premises candy kitchen.

Laureen, who just started the business last November, uses only the best quality ingredients in her candies. She packages them in cellophane bags and had to buy a computer scale that with the push of a button, prints bar coding labels, listing the ingredients, weight and price.

The three children help Laureen make hand-dipped candy during the week wearing hairnets and gloves. By law they are not allowed to sell from the trailer kitchen, but they do deliver to outlets and are looking for more places besides Don's IGA and Olesons.

It is Laureen's hope that in the future this family business will grow to support the whole family. If she succeeds she won't be the first in our area to make a go of such a venture.

Kilwin's, Murdick's Fudge and American Spoon come to mind — just to name a few local businesses that have succeeded in offering tasty temptations.

Let's hope the Gerber's Homemade Sweets will succeed as well. In the meantime, give her candy a try and judge for yourself.

Letters to the editor

Need computer programming

Editor:

The Charlevoix community should be very proud of the new high school building.

It is a wonderful building and the kids love it. The teachers are top notch, and I see all of our children doing very well with their education from the Charlevoix schools.

Although I see our children doing well, I do see that the curriculum is lacking in one area — computer technology! The school has all the up-to-date computer labs and no computer technology teacher to use them.

The computer-programming teacher left two years ago and was not replaced due to budget considerations. This area of learning is so important to our kids.

Computer system assembly, diagnostics and troubleshooting are just some of the subjects they should be learning to compete effectively in the current job market. The information technology field is one of the top areas of job growth and earning potential in our state.

Let's do all we can to help our kids get the education they deserve from such a great school! If you have any suggestions or have concerns that this class is not available to your child, please let our school administration know.

Call one of our board of education members, the high school counseling office or the superintendent's office to express your views.

Economic woes

Editor:

Good old American Joe, who recently lost his job at General Electric Company, when they moved his job to China, wakes up to his alarm clock imported from China.

Joe wakes his wife and they notice the bulb is burned out in the night light. Joe says, "We'll have to get some new bulbs today."

Joe starts shaving with his electric razor that's imported from Taiwan and his wife makes coffee with their Black and Decker coffee maker that's imported from China. Joe, meanwhile, puts on his shirt that's made in Brazil, his pants from the Philippines, his socks from Vietnam and his shoes that came from Mexico.

His wife is cooking good old American eggs and bacon in their new frying pan they bought at Kmart and it was imported from China. His wife then puts her homemade bread in their Black and Decker toaster that came from China and serves the bacon, eggs and toast on their dishes that came from France.

They eat their breakfast and Joe gets in his car, that is imported from Japan, and goes looking for a job. Joe's wife puts a batch of dough in her Toastmaster Bread Maker, that's made in China and leaves in her car, that was made in Canada, and goes shopping.

Joe has no luck finding a job and stops at Kmart to buy light bulbs, he finds bulbs from General Electric, that he won't buy and picks a package of two bulbs made by Westinghouse. He buys them for $1.57 and goes home and turns on his Panasonic T.V. that's made in China and wonders why he can't find a good paying job.

His wife comes home with a package of four light bulbs, that she bought at the Dollar Store for $1 and says to Joe "what a good buy she got." Joe says, "I'll bet they are made in China." They looked at the ones he bought, they also were made in China by Westinghouse.

And that's the way it is. So, what do you suppose is wrong with our economy?

We need assisted living

Editor:

I have been attending Charlevoix Planning Commission meetings recently because I am concerned about the lack of assisted living facilities for senior citizens in our community. I have been amazed to see the political "bickering" that has basically made our city government inefficient and unproductive.

Last May my mother had a near-fatal heart attack while visiting us from Indiana. We were thrilled to find out that an assisted living facility might be built in our own neighborhood. I hope that other Charlevoix residents have visited these kinds of facilities. If they have, then they would know how quiet and lovely these residences are — and should be thought of as homes really, not institutions.

Unfortunately, a couple of weeks ago, my mother suffered another heart attack, the day before Thanksgiving. I wish that the mayor and members of city council could have seen the look on her face when I had to tell her there would be no assisted living in Charlevoix next spring.

"But why?" she asked.

"Well mom they are fighting about zoning," I told her.

"I see, 'not in my backyard, right?'" she said. She knew right away what the problem was.

Are we telling our seniors that they are not welcome in our neighborhoods?

While we continue with "Charlevoix politics as usual," the issue of assisted living is being lost in the shuffle.

It's time for our community to work together for a change and help this town get something that is not only desperately needed, but would be an asset to our community and its families.

Engagement

Sanders — Shapton

Amber Dawn Sanders and Trevor Lee Shapton, of Tennessee, are engaged to be married.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Ervin Sanders and the late Nell Sanders of Huntingdon, Tenn. and Mr. and Mrs. James Greer of Oakdale, Tenn.

Amber will be attending Trevecea Nazarene University in Nashville to continue work toward a degree as a Physicians Assistant.

The groom-elect is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kiteley of Charlevoix and Ralph Shapton and the late Rena Belle Shapton, also of Charlevoix.

Trevor currently works as a landscaper in Franklin, Tenn. where the couple will reside.

Amber and Trevor will marry on Saturday, Dec. 27 at the First United Methodist Church in Huntingdon, Tenn. A reception will follow the ceremony at the National Guard Armory.

All friends and family are invited to attend.

Big Rock steam drum arrives in Utah

The 41-foot long, 200,000 pound steam drum was shipped from Big Rock Point Nov. 5 by heavy hauler to a railhead in Petoskey where it was transferred onto a railcar.

The steam drum's rail trip to the licensed disposal facility in Utah took 13 days, covered approximately 1,800 miles, and passed through seven states.

"The steam drum was the last large piece of contaminated equipment that we will have to ship out," said Kurt Haas, Big Rock Point site general manager. "The earlier disposal of the reactor vessel and now the steam drum has cleared the way for the methodical dismantlement of the buildings on our site."

Big Rock Point was the world's first high power-density boiling water reactor and an important research site for the nuclear power industry. The plant was shut down on Aug. 29, 1997, after 35 years of service, making it the nation's longest running nuclear plant.

Due to its many contributions to the nuclear and medical communities, Big Rock Point was named a Nuclear Historic Landmark by the American Nuclear Society.

Consumers Energy, the principal subsidiary of CMS Energy, provides natural gas and electricity to more than six million of Michigan's nearly 10 million residents in all 68 Lower Peninsula counties.

Foundation challenges residents with grant

The Charlevoix County Community Foundation has awarded $2,500 to Big Brothers Big Sisters of Northwestern Michigan to serve as a challenge to the people of Charlevoix County.

The grant will be used to enlist support of individuals and business and service organizations to garner pledges of $9,000 per year for the next three years. The funding will go towards making the non-profit group's case manager a year-round, full-time position.

Big Brothers Big Sisters service to children in Charlevoix and Emmet counties grew by over 100 percent in 2002 while the agency's full nine county growth registered at 38 percent.

Boyne City Schools is one of the agency's most successful school-based programs with 37 youth mentor matches at the end of the 2003 school year. For over two years, East Jordan school personnel have been asking for the program to be extended to their students.

In September, a school counselor said she felt 57 children in that school could use a mentor.

Big Brothers Big Sisters serves the emotional, social and educational needs of at-risk children ages six through 18, by facilitating professionally supported relationships with one-to-one mentors. In addition to its school-based mentor program in Charlevoix County, Big Brothers Big Sisters has 12 mentor matches in its traditional community-based program.

There are currently 14 Charlevoix County children on the agency's waiting list.

Each year, the nonprofit group surveys the mentors, parents and teachers of the children or "littles" in its program. Of teachers responding to its 2003 performance outcome evaluation, 84 percent reported an improvement in self-confidence, 70 percent reported an improved attitude toward school and 70 percent reported an increase in academic performance among the children in their classes matched with a Big Brother Big Sister mentor.

"With the pledge of ongoing commitment from the local community, we can help these kids," Big Brothers Big Sisters Board member Andy Low said.

Low is heading up the Char/Em Resource and Advocacy Task Force to build community awareness and raise funds. He is also an employee with BankOne and a Big Brother himself.

He added, "Without it, the list of kids that have asked for and continue to wait for a mentor will just get longer."

Charlevoix County residents interested in serving on the committee or making a donation are encouraged to contact Kara Rosel-Copeland, the Big Brothers Big Sisters Char/Em coordinator at 348-7570.

Toys for Tots drive

Second-graders at Charlevoix Elementary School listened attentively to a special visitor, Kenneth Staley. Staley arrived in his marine uniform to deliver a special message about the Toys for Tots campaign. The second grade collected oodles of pennies and bought a big box of toys this year to help make sure area children have a happy holiday.

Gunn celebrates 25 years serving Episcopal Church

The Rev. E. James Gunn, the Rector of Christ Episcopal Church, Charlevoix will celebrate 25 years of ordination as an Episcopal Priest on Sunday, Dec. 21.

A brunch in his honor will follow the 10 a.m. service.

"I am thankful to God for allowing me 25 years of service and I pray He allows me 25 more." Gunn said.

Gunn has led Christ Church since Nov. 15, 1999 when he moved to Charlevoix with his wife, Jan from Fitchburg, Mass.

Gunn was born and raised in the state of New York. He met his wife, Jan, when they were both seniors in high school.

Gunn joined the Navy after a year and a half of college and he and Jan were married 11 months later. The Gunns have four children — one girl and three boys.

While in the Navy, Gunn was promoted from enlisted man to commissioned officer. He received a Bachelor of Science with major in Systems Analysis from Miami University of Ohio in 1969, graduating Cum Laude and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa.

Gunn resigned his Navy commission in 1975, and started seminary at Vancouver School of Theology in Vancouver, British Columbia. He received his Master of Divinity from Vancouver School of Theology.

He was ordained a deacon on June 12, 1978 and then priest on Dec. 21, 1978.

He has served two churches in the Diocese of San Diego, one in the Diocese of Albany, one in the Diocese of Western Massachusetts, and is now Rector of Christ Church in Charlevoix.

Three of the Gunn's children are married. The Gunns have a total of eight grandchildren. As a side note, Gunn performed the wedding for all three of his married children.

Obituaries

Doris M. Farmer: Nov. 13, 1912 - Dec. 13, 2003

Doris M. Farmer, 91, of Charlevoix, died Saturday, Dec. 13, 2003, at Boulder Park Terrace Nursing Home in Charlevoix.

Doris was born Nov. 13, 1912, in Cheboygan, the daughter of Benjamin W. and Alva R. (Wells) Johnston. She married Richard J. Farmer on Dec. 31, 1976, in Petoskey.

Doris was a life member of the Order of the Eastern Star 322, Onaway. She retired as a bookkeeper from the Petoskey News-Review in 1977.

Doris loved to knit, and made sweaters, afghans, mittens and stockings for her family and friends. She is survived by her husband, Richard J. Farmer of Charlevoix; daughter Diane Tucker of Onaway; son James Larsen of Belleville; step-daughter Donna (Charles W. "Bill") Cross of Alpena; step-son Phillip Dan (Janice) Farmer of Charlevoix; sister Marion Bowles of Dayton, Ohio.

Doris was preceded in death by her daughter, Patricia Swanson; and sisters, Vivian Burkhart and Vita Belding. Memorial contributions may be made to the Charlevoix Senior Center.

Mary V. McDermott: Dec. 29, 1921 - Dec. 8, 2003

Mary V. "Vickie" McDermott, 81, of Charlevoix, and formerly of Beaver Island, died Monday, Dec. 8, 2003, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

A Mass of the Resurrection was Saturday, Dec. 13, at Holy Cross Catholic Church on Beaver Island. The Rev. Patrick Cawley officiated and burial was in Holy Cross Cemetery.

Vickie was born Dec. 29, 1921, in Saint James, Beaver Island, the daughter of Hugh and Katie (Malloy) Connaghan. She married Robert L. McDermott in Charlevoix on August 17, 1963.

Vickie is survived by her children, Rosalie Harrison of Overland Park, Kan., William (Jenny) Bennett of Stover, Mo., Charles Dudley of Peculiar, Mo., Yvette Harris of Charlevoix; brother Lester Connaghan of Montana; sisters Lila Selfridge of Charlevoix, Anna Maxwell of Wheaton, Ill., Kathryn Gatliff of Detroit, Marquite Walsh of New Jersey; many grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Vickie was preceded in death by her husband of 39 years, Robert; brothers, Raymond, John Gene and Roy; sisters, Marie, Mel, Francis and Honey.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Beaver Island Medical Center.

Waterways to fund 75 percent of marina

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

The Michigan Waterways Commission has committed to fund 75 percent of the city of Charlevoix's marina renovation project.

"We couldn't have funded the project's local share within the DDA (Downtown Development Authority) and the marina fund, with Waterways at the 50 percent level," city manager Mike Wiesner said.

On Dec. 12, Wiesner, Mayor Gabe Campbell and project engineers Peter Pollack, principal designer with Pollack Design Associates of Ann Arbor and Jim Muschell and John Schlak of United Design Associates of Cheboygan, traveled to Lansing to request project funding from the Waterways Commission.

Charlevoix resident and Waterways Commission chairman John Winn said they voted unanimously in favor of funding the project at an unusually high level.

He said this is only the second time since he has been on the commission that they have supported a project at the 75 percent level.

The total cost of renovating both the park and the marina is $10.66 million and Waterways has agreed to pay $6.8 million of that. Winn said that decision was made in spite of the high per boat slip cost to renovate the marina.

"The commission said when it's done this will probably be the best quality marina on the Great Lakes," Winn said.

This will be a welcomed change for a community Winn has described several times as having the second highest boater demand and the worst facilities on the Great Lakes.

However, the commission is operating on a tight budget since former Gov. John Engler took just under $8 million in restricted funds from them.

"The issue now is when can we physically come up with the money," Winn said.

So, he said the project will likely have to be tackled in phases. He is hoping to scrape together enough money to do the most expensive part of the project, the seawall and the 67-slip dock system, in September of 2004. The new bulkhead and dock system would then be ready for next year's boating season.

The plan is to run the new bulkhead in front of the existing one in order to minimize the disruption of contaminated soils in that area. The cost to replace the bulkhead and install the dock system is $4.8 million.

Piers in the plan extend 220 feet at the farthest point. The northernmost pier extends 186 feet with a viewing pier running perpendicular to it. The pier below that extends 195 feet from shore, the pier south of it 220 feet and the southernmost pier 175 feet. Wide, open fairways in between, open view corridors to Round Lake from shore.

"I have a feeling it won't happen until (20)05," he said

If the phased approach is taken Winn said the commission will tackle costs for the harbormaster's and boater facility in its 2006 budget period

Construction of the new marina support facility and harbormaster's office where boaters can shower, do laundry, use bathrooms and check the weather and the harbormaster can watch marina activity and coordinate boat movement will cost $1.5 million. It is designed as an underground building with glass walls located at the foot of Clinton Street.

> "We couldn't have funded the project's local share within the DDA and the marina fund with Waterways at the 50 percent level."
> Mike Weisner,
> Charlevoix City Manager

A walkout seating area and fish pond will be at this marina support facility at dock level. And a short series of stairs will walk up from Clinton to a viewing deck on the roof of the building.

After this is complete, the plan is to tear down the existing harbormaster's office and then start on the new $1.2 million performance venue to be located at the south end of the property where Antrim and Bridge streets meet.

After this is complete, the current bandshell will come down.

Winn said costs associated with bandshell demolition and construction will not be covered by Waterways.

Other costs in the project include $3 million for walkways, irrigation and lighting and $160,000 for a 60 space off-site parking lot. Any of these costs that are related to boaters will be shared by Waterways.

City Manager Mike Wiesner said the $3.86 million local cost of the project will be paid for out of the marina fund and by the DDA.

"I see no additional tax dollars needed to pay the local share of the project. After the holidays we'll talk about (DDA) bonding for the local share," Wiesner said.

A joint DDA and city council meeting will be scheduled after the holidays to discuss funding and the project. A date has not been set for this meeting.

In the meantime, Pollack, Muschell and Schlak are working together to apply for permits to the United States Army Corps of Engineers, the Land and Water Management Division of the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality and the Michigan Department of Public Health.

Superintendent gives state failing grade

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Superintendent of Charlevoix Public Schools Dr. John Sturock is giving the state's school report card grading program an F.

"People are going nuts across the state. I think the state has done a poor job — it just doesn't make sense. It's a total mess as far as I'm concerned," he said.

This is the first year the Michigan Department of Education has administered this accountability system and the reaction from many Michigan public schools and charter schools hasn't been positive.

Thomas D. Watkins, Jr., superintendent of public instruction for the State of Michigan, wrote in a recent memo, "The launch of this first model year has been anything but optimal."

The report card rating is part of the state program Education Yes and federal legislation No Child Left Behind and its Adequate Yearly Progress evaluation.

The overall grade assigned to each school is based on three scoring criteria — Michigan Education Assessment Program (MEAP) achievement status, MEAP achievement change and indicators of engagement, which looks at instructional quality and learning opportunities at each school.

Preliminary test scores that were released Oct. 20 for elementary and middle schools across the state were not what many expected and sparked a flood of 1,200 appeals lodged with the department of education. The department directed additional staff to address the large volume of appeals.

Charlevoix Elementary School is in this pool of appeals. According to the appeal letter written by elementary school principal Dick Swenor, the C the state gave his school shows the calculation methodology has some major flaws.

The C came from a failing grade the school received for its achievement "change grade," which looks at the change in MEAP test scores from one year to the next. The state is looking for steady improvement.

Swenor admitted that the school is not "acing achievement change" but they aren't failing it either. He wrote that the school has fluctuated up and down some, but hasn't experienced any major dips during the period the state reviewed.

"It is very obvious to me that over the period of time (which you chose) our school has improved significantly. And you are giving us an F, just because we had some strong years and some not so strong years in between? Something is very wrong here. From year to year you have completely different ability in classes, much like you do in athletic teams," he said.

The state's response to Swenor's appeal has not yet been completed and will not likely be made public until Jan. 30, 2004.

Last week high school preliminary grades went out and now high schools have until Dec. 23 to file their appeals. The appeals for all the schools have to be reconciled before the grades are made public.

Sturock is doubtful that the state will meet the late January deadline.

"My sense is we won't see anything until spring," he said.

He is anticipating the same volume of appeals coming from high schools across the state.

Sturock did not discuss whether Charlevoix High School plans to appeal its grade.

Retail drift is costing your community millions of dollars

DANGER
Retail Drift

Retail drift is the technical term researchers use when dollars generated in a smaller community are spent in a large community or nearby city.

A recent major university study says: "Small town residents who leave their communities to shop in big-city malls are committing a form of economic suicide." The study concludes the retail drift is so severe that it could be the death knell for some communities.

Shopping at home is the only way to stop retail drift. Keeping your dollars at home helps keep your community strong and economically healthy.

It's simple logic. Your hometown businesses provide the same or equivalent goods and services at the same or better prices with less traveling time and expense.

Women join hospital's birthing services

Pregnancy is a special time in life.

And many expectant patients — especially first-time moms — are looking for extra understanding and empathy. Now, under a "shared care" arrangement, two women who are family physicians and mothers themselves are providing prenatal care in the Charlevoix area.

Geralyn Doskoch, MD, has teamed up with OB/Gyn specialists James Jeakle, MD, and William Mosher III, MD, in the newly named Charlevoix Women's Health Care practice to offer pre- and postnatal care. And, at the Boyne Area Medical Center, Andrea Wendling, MD, will provide comprehensive prenatal and follow-up care to women in that community.

Pregnant women who receive prenatal care from either Dr. Doskoch or Wendling will deliver their babies with Drs. Jeakle or Mosher at Charlevoix Area Hospital's spacious new Birthing Center.

"This is a great addition to our area's healthcare choices," said Mary Terryberry, RN, nursing director of the hospital's Birthing Center. "Some patients prefer to have a woman physician care for them during pregnancy. Now, they can choose one of two excellent doctors who are known for their gentle, understanding manner — and do so knowing they will be able to deliver their baby here at the Birthing Center."

Wendling is at Boyne Area Medical Center Monday, Wednesday and Thursday. Patients may call the Center at (231) 582-5314 to set up an appointment.

Doskoch will see patients for prenatal care at Charlevoix Women's Health Care on Tuesday and Friday.

The phone number is (231) 547-4477.

Toss ipecac syrup

Parents should dispose of ipecac syrup.

For years, health care providers have promoted ipecac in their "poison danger" discussions with parents of babies and toddlers. Now, their advice is for parents to dig the ipecac out of the medicine cabinets and flush it down the toilet.

"Instead of having ipecac on hand, parents should keep handy the new universal telephone number for poison control: (800) 222-1222", said Joshua Meyerson, M.D., M.P.H., Medical Director of the Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency, the local health department that serves Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet, and Otsego Counties.

He said stickers to post by the telephone with the toll free number are available at the health department offices in Bellaire, Mancelona, Charlevoix, Harbor Springs, and Gaylord.

The American Academy of Pediatrics' revised policy, "Poison Treatment in the Home," was prompted by several factors, including the dramatic drop in poisoning deaths over the past 50 years.

It is common for children to ingest potentially poisonous substances, with 1.2 million cases of children under age six reported by the American Association of Poison Control Centers. But the number of fatal poisonings has dropped dramatically since the first poison control center opened 50 years ago. Then, about 500 fatal poisonings occurred per year. In 1997, the last year data is available, 25 people died from poison.

"The drop in fatal poisonings can be attributed to safer medications and to child-resistent packaging", said Meyerson. "It's a real success story".

In the early days of poison control, ipecac often was the first line of defense at home and in the emergency room. Besides being convenient, ipecac, which is made from the dried root of the Brazilian ipecacuanha plant, is easy to give, tastes good, and is effective in making people throw up. But in the late 1980s, most emergency departments moved away from using ipecac in favor of activated charcoal because of questions over whether ipecac worked for everyone. "It's hard to justify the use of ipecac when activated charcoal is the best thing and often the only thing you need to do when a child has taken an overdose of some type", said Meyerson.

The Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency is the local health department serving Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet, and Otsego Counties. Its staff is dedicated to preventing disease and injury and promoting healthy communities.

For additional information about ipecac and poison prevention and treatment, see your child's health care provider or visit www.aap.org.

How many drinks does it take?

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Red and green are the colors of the holiday season, but those who drink and drive may get a close look at the red and blue flashing lights of a patrol car.

Using editor Jeremy McBain, Charlevoix resident Derek Chowen, Petoskey News-Review staff members Beth Piehl and Kristina Hughes and officer Scott Hankins with the Charlevoix City Police Department, we set out to answer that question.

Participants in the test were required to consume alcoholic beverages over the period of about 30 minutes and subject themselves to various field sobriety tests and a breathalyzer.

To get accurate results on the tests, they drank for about 30 minutes and took a 10 minute break, then drank for another 30 minutes.

The 10 minute break in between allowed the alcohol time to get into their bloodstream.

According to Hankins, the amount of alcohol it takes for a person to reach the legal limit can vary in accordance with a number of factors like what they ate and when and how much that person weighs.

McBain is a 195 pound, 28-year-old male; Piehl is a 130 pound, 30-year-old female; Hughes is a 160 pound, 25-year-old female and Chowen is a 205 pound, 31-year-old male.

All the participants ate similar quantities of food at noon, three hours before they took their first drink.

To determine if a person is driving over the legal limit, Hankins said he has a routine he goes through. He is looking for clues from the moment he gets to the driver's window. He listens to their speech and hones in on any slurring. He watches how they handle

Driving drunk could mean jail time, court costs or death

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

While both Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater and Charlevoix City Police Chief Dennis Halverson feel drunk driving has been decreasing in the area, the danger is still out there.

"In my 26 years (as sheriff) I have had to knock on roughly 75 doors to tell someone a loved one has been killed. Out of those 75, three-fourths were alcohol related," Lasater said.

To highlight the horror of drunk driving, Lasater told a true story of two high school students who have been friends since kindergarten.

One night, the two went out and one started drinking. The other didn't. When they left the party, the one that was drinking took the wheel of the car, while the other took the passenger seat.

About a mile down the road, the driver rolled the car, Lasater said, and the passenger died.

"I see him (the driver) still. He has never gotten over this," Lasater said.

Halverson said, "There is tragedy after tragedy with drunk driving. We see daily the effects of drinking and driving in our business."

In Charlevoix County, Lasater reported 227 total drunk driving arrests in 2002. He said these numbers were spread pretty evenly across the county.

The most active months for drunk driving in Charlevoix County are July, November, December and January.

In the city of Charlevoix, Halverson reported 36 total drunk driving arrests from Jan. 1, 2003 to Dec. 1, 2003. Of those arrests three were women and 33 were men.

The average age of a person arrested for drunk driving in Charlevoix was 39 for women and 36 for men.

The average portable breath test result was .145 for women and .151 for men. The legal blood alcohol limit is .08.

But, both Halverson and Lasater said those numbers are down from past years.

"I think the public has been more informed," Lasater said.

He said education on the effects of drunk driving has proven effective. Added to this is aggressive law enforcement of drunk driving laws, low tolerance in the courts and lawsuits against tavern owners that serve to intoxicated people.

Halverson added, socially, it is becoming unacceptable to drink and drive, which can be seen in the creation of the term "designated drivers." In addition to this, overall consumption of alcohol has gone down, he said.

"I think that some positive things are happening. I think we are gaining on it, but one death is too many," Halverson added.

To further lessen the deaths from drunk driving, Lasater gave an important tip to people who see a friend about to drive after consuming too much alcohol.

"Make every effort that he doesn't put that key in that ignition," he said. "Just take the keys. That is the right thing to do."

For a first offense of operating while intoxicated (drunk driving) a person receive 93 days in jail, a fine of $100-$500, community service for 360 hours and vehicle immobilization.

The second offense can put you in jail for five days to a year, give you a fine of $200 to $1,000, give you community service for not less than 30 days and not more than 90 days and your vehicle will be immobilized.

Experiment looks at reaching the legal limit their paperwork and looks for physical signs of drunkenness, like bloodshot, watery eyes and a flushed face.

Then the person is asked to step out of the car and are asked a series of questions relevant in court. These include the last time that a person ate, the time of their first and last drink, what they drank and how much, any medical problems they may have and whether they are right or left handed, which is relevant in the field sobriety tests.

Some of the field tests include reciting the alphabet, a finger count, the heel to toe walk and the nose touch. With these tests, Hankins said he is looking to see if the driver understands and follows the instructions, is swaying or is unable to perform the requested test.

"We are not trying to trick someone, we are just looking to make sure you can operate your vehicle safely," he said.

After the field tests, Hankins asks a person to blow into a preliminary breath test (PBT) machine.

Hankins said it is possible to blow below .08 and still be arrested if a person has shown they are impaired and cannot operate the vehicle safely. However, blowing .08 or higher warrants an automatic arrest.

The results and drinks consumed for the first 30 minutes are as follows:

- McBain — three, 12 ounce Labatt's Blue beers. His PBT result was .043. He said he felt "a little fuzzy" and could not drive. He failed the nose touch test.
- Piehl — six ounces of Captain Morgan's rum — the equivalent of two one-and-a-half ounce shots in two mixed drinks. Her PBT result was .051. She said she was shocked at the result after two drinks and felt fine to drive. She passed all the field sobriety tests.
- Chowen — six ounces of Canadian Club Whiskey — which is equal to two drinks of two one-and-a-half ounce shots each with ice. His PBT result was .065. He said he would drive. He failed the nose touch test.
- Hughes — three, 12 ounce Labatt's Blue beers. Her PBT result was .041. She said she makes it a point not to drive even after a couple beers. She failed the nose touch test.

After this first test, participants drank for about another 30 minutes and stopped for another 10 minutes. After this period they were given another PBT and subjected to various field sobriety tests.

The results were:

- McBain — three, 12 ounce Labatt's Blue beers. His PBT results were .081. He said he wouldn't drive because he didn't feel "steady." He failed the nose touch test again.
- Piehl — six ounces of Captain Morgan's rum. Her PBT results were .10. She said she felt a "little bit drunk" but would be able to drive home. She passed all the field sobriety tests .
- Chowen — six ounces of Canadian Club Whiskey. His PBT results were .073. He passed all his field tests but said he just didn't feel he should be behind the wheel. He passed all the field sobriety tests.
- Hughes — three, 12 ounce Labatt's Blue beers. Her PBT results were .102. She failed two of the field sobriety tests and said she would definitely not drive. She failed the nose touch test.

McBain, Piehl and Hughes all exceeded the legal limit during this second test. McBain and Hughes had each drunk a total of six beers and Piehl drunk a total of four mixed drinks with two shots of rum in each.

Chowen, who blew below the legal limit had drank four double shots of whiskey on ice.

McBain is a self-described light drinker having one drink a weekend, while Piehl, Hughes and Chowen claimed to be moderate drinkers, indulging in about three to six drinks a night on the weekend.

Hankins said how often someone drinks doesn't make a difference in the breathalyzer, but will change their ability to function. The moderate drinkers, Piehl and Chowen, faired better in the field sobriety "function" tests than McBain and Hughes did.

However, as city police officer Matthew Umulis pointed out, all four participants had practiced these field tests a couple times throughout the night and were doing them in an environment unlike an actual street scene where nerves would likely also play a factor.

A third, 30 minute drink session followed with each of the participants beginning to slow their rate of consumption.

These final PBT results were McBain — .120, after just under nine beers; Piehl — .143, after a pint of rum; Chowen — .112 after a pint of whiskey and Hughes — .163 after eight beers. None of them said they felt capable of driving.

At the end of the experiment Hankins said he noticed the participants' speech was slurred and Piehl's face was flushed and her eyes were glassy. McBain and Hughes failed most of their field tests and all four of them would have been pinpointed as impaired by Hankins.

Had they been pulled over they would have been arrested as their blood alcohol content was well above the legal limit.

Bar owners, bar tenders wary of new state law

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Area bartenders and bar-owners seem to be in favor of the intent of the new state law lowering the legal blood alcohol content, but are skeptical it will be effective.

This fall the state of Michigan changed its drunk driving law to lower the maximum blood alcohol level a person can have while operating a vehicle from .1 to .08.

"It's a tough call. I am all for strict drunk driving laws, but if they infringe on the right of alcohol users it is not right," said Chuck Whitney, co-owner of Whitneys of Charlevoix.

Whitney said the new law will probably not bring a lot more drunk drivers in, because the people who drink and drive are usually well over .08 and he questions how the law will be enforced.

"The law is one thing, the way it is applied is another," he said.

For example, if someone is sitting in the parking lot and another car backs into them, they can go to jail if their blood alcohol level is at .08, he said. Whitney added some police seem to selectively used the law.

"As bar owners, we don't want these people (drunk drivers) driving. We are on the roads also as citizens," he said.

However, Whitney said he does not believe the new law will save any more lives than the old drunk driving law.

John Fiedoreck, owner of the Flight Deck Bar, said he just doesn't see that much significance between .08 and .1.

"In my opinion it is just a way to appease special interest groups," he said of the new law.

But, Townhouse bartender Richard Lapsley said he was all for the change.

"I think the new law is a great idea," he said. "It will reduce drunk driving."

However, he said he is not sure his patrons like the new law too much. Under it, he said people can consume about two drinks in the first hour and one drink every hour after that.

"They (patrons) aren't drinking as much," he said.

However, neither Whitney or Fiedoreck reported much change in the drinking habits of their customers.

Fiedoreck did add he believes his customers are more aware of how much they are drinking.

"I personally would like to see vehicles in my parking lot when I come to work in the morning. It makes me feel like my customers are trying to act responsible when they are drinking," he said.

Zonta Club announces annual award

Charlevoix Area Zonta Club is currently accepting applications for its annual Young Women in Public Affairs Award, which awards $500 to an outstanding young woman living in Charlevoix County and currently enrolled in a secondary school.

Applications are available at the counselor's office at all Charlevoix County High Schools or may be obtained by calling Maura A. Snabes at (231) 547-9969. The deadline for receiving applications is Feb. 1, 2004 to the Charlevoix Area Zonta Club c/o Maura A. Snabes, P.O. Box 633, Charlevoix, MI 49720.

The winner will be announced at the Zonta meeting in late February.

The recipient of the local award will also have her application forwarded to the District, which awards an additional $500 to the district winner.

Cayla Tinney from East Jordan High School was named the winner of last year's Charlevoix Area Zonta Young Women in Public Affairs Award.

The Zonta Young Women in Public Affairs Award competition is designed to encourage women to pursue decision-making positions in their communities in order to impact the policies that affect the lives of women locally and throughout the world. The Zonta Young Women in Public Affairs program looks to the young women of today who will be the leaders of tomorrow.

Zonta is a worldwide service organization of executives in business and the professions working together to advance the status of women. The Charlevoix Area Zonta Young Women in Public Affairs Award is one of the many programs for young women sponsored by Charlevoix Area Zonta.

Development planned for old Clark station

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

A new office building may be coming to Charlevoix.

The former Clark Gas Station property at the corner of US-31 and M-66 is slated for development.

Property owner Bob Kern who is the co-owner of Charlevoix's Real Estate One, said he has plans of the one-acre piece.

Kern, and a silent partner, are working to develop the Charlevoix Professional Center, a 15,600 square foot, three floor retail/office complex at the site. The building will have a number of suites inside the size of which have not yet been determined.

This will depend on what the potential occupant needs.

They are currently in the preliminary stages of the plan, but have located a real estate sign at the site with a rendering of what the development is proposed to look like. Kern said this will help the two gather information about what interest is out there.

"We have been working on it for a while, but in this economy you need to get your ducks in a line to make it work," he said.

If enough interest is detected, they plan to break ground on the project some time next spring, with tenants moving in about two years later.

Kern said, thus far, he has gauged some interest.

However, he also recognizes there is a lot of vacant property in Charlevoix right now and doesn't plan to rush the project.

"Everybody is a little cautious right now," he said.

The Clark Station closed six years ago and Kern said that since then plans for the property have come and gone, with most not working out because of the sour economy.

Woman injured in single vehicle accident Dec. 10

A 52-year-old Charlevoix woman was injured in a single vehicle rollover accident around 8 a.m., Dec. 10 on Boyne City-Charlevoix Road near Sho-Sho-Nie Beach Road in Bay Township.

According to the Charlevoix County Sheriffs' Office, the accident appears to have occurred because of a bicycle ridden on the roadway during low light conditions.

Michalene Wright, 52, of Charlevoix, was driving her 2003 GMC Yukon south on Boyne City-Charlevoix Road near Sho-Sho-Nie Beach Road. Her son, Drew Wright, 17, was her passenger.

It was raining and dark, so motorists had to use headlights. A citizen was riding his bike in the southbound lane of the road.

As the Wright vehicle got near, they suddenly saw the bike within the headlights and Mrs. Wright braked on the wet pavement to avoid hitting the biker.

She lost control of the vehicle and it went off the right side of the road and hit a utility pole. The impact of the collision cause the pole to break and the wires to come down.

The vehicle then spun around and rolled over onto the driver's side.

Drew Wright was able to exit the vehicle sustaining minor injuries. The Boyne City Fire Department had to use the Jaws of Life to extricate Michalene Wright. She was then transported to Charlevoix Area Hospital by Boyne City Ambulance.

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office was assisted at the scene by Michigan State Police, Boyne City Police Department, Boyne City Fire Department and Great Lakes Energy. The accident remains under investigation.

Police on look-out for drunk drivers

The Charlevoix City Police Department wants residents to spend their money on gifts and goodwill this holiday season - not bail and bad driver fees.

From Dec. 18 through Jan. 4, 2004, law enforcement officials from the Charlevoix City Police Department are joining with nearly 500 Michigan law enforcement agencies during national "You Drink and Drive. You Lose. Drunk driving crackdown."

"We don't want this holiday season to turn into a tragedy," Chief Dennis Halverson said. "It's OK to celebrate, just don't drive drunk. Our officers will be on the lookout for those motorists who have indulged in too much holiday cheer."

The Charlevoix City Police Department reminds motorists that Michigan's drunk driving standard is now lower — .08 blood alcohol content. In addition to court costs and fines, convicted drunk drivers will also be subject to a new additional $1,000 penalty included in a recently approved driver responsibility program. The $1,000 penalty will be imposed for two consecutive years.

"There will be no warnings; no second chances," said Chief Halverson. "If you get caught behind the wheel driving drunk, then you'll be spending the night in jail."

During last year's "You Drink and Drive. You Lose." crackdown, there were no Christmas holiday traffic fatalities and four traffic deaths during the New Year's holiday in Michigan.

In Michigan, nearly 36 percent of traffic fatalities involve alcohol and/or drugs. Although alcohol/drug-related fatalities have decreased, there were still 463 traffic deaths in 2002 where alcohol and/or drugs played a factor.

Fatal crashes involving alcohol and/or drugs accounted for 515 traffic deaths in Michigan in 2000 and 504 deaths in 2001.

Community Foundation releases annual report

It's been 11 years since a group of local citizens launched the Charlevoix County Community Foundation with a few hundred dollars and dreams of creating a dynamic, grassroots philanthropic organization.

But in little more than a decade, the foundation is well on its way to becoming a charitable fixture in this area, and its grants are making a significant impact on many community projects.

This week, the foundation released "Good People, Good Works" an annual report detailing activities for the year and recognizing the hundreds of donors whose generous gifts have helped build a permanent endowment to benefit Charlevoix County now, and for generations to come.

The report features profiles of several donors and stories about some of the projects receiving foundation grants during the year. Included in the grant mix are an innovative program that promotes fitness in area kids, a self-guided nature trail for the visually impaired, a crop-share project that brings fresh, locally produced food to those in need and a pilot program that's improving the reading skills of area students.

The foundation now manages 140 separate funds and, as of Sept. 30, net assets totaled $9.2 million.

Since then, net assets have grown to almost $9.8 million.

Most importantly, the charitable organization has distributed more than $4.2 million in grants: $621,327 in the past year alone. Community foundation grants help many of this area's nonprofit organizations, schools, civic groups and municipalities improve their services, introduce new programs and serve more people.

"When you consider our county's small size, and the relatively short time our organization has been around, these are notable achievements," said Tom Hanna, who serves as chairman of the foundation. "Very few areas can match the generosity of Charlevoix County's year-round residents and resorters. Within the community foundation, they've found a way to express their love of this area, their appreciation for what life has given them, and a channel for carrying out their own charitable ideals and all of us are the better for it."

Founded in 1992, the Charlevoix County Community Foundation is dedicated to enhancing life for all who live in the area and championing the spirit of philanthropy.

To carry out its mission, the foundation accepts donations of all sizes and for many purposes. Some donors make unrestricted annual gifts and others establish their own funds to support a specific cause.

Gifts are pooled and professionally invested to build a permanent endowment that can serve as a lasting source of charitable capital. Each year, a part of the earned income is distributed in the form of grants to support education, the environment, arts and culture, recreation, youth programs, health initiatives and various civic projects.

All gifts to the community foundation are tax-deductible and qualify for a Michigan Income Tax Credit. Certain types of planned gifts can reduce capital gains or estate taxes as well.

For more information about the community foundation or to request a copy of the 2003 annual report, please call the foundation office, (231) 536-2440, or write P.O. Box 718, East Jordan, Michigan, 49727.

THERE ARE GOOD REASONS WHY

PUBLIC NOTICE

APPEARS IN YOUR NEWSPAPER.

Currently, and historically, it is the responsibility of state and local government to publish public and legal notices here in Michigan's newspapers. This paper you're holding right now is a historical document, printed and published with a date on every page. And its pages hold your right to know what the government is doing in your community. In fact, it's law.

In our democratic society your newspaper fulfills an essential role in serving your right to know. After all, it shouldn't be your responsibility to know how to look, where to look or when to look, let alone to know what you're looking for to be informed. That is why you have, and read, your newspaper, where public notices are published with accountable circulation and presented to you on these pages in clear black and white.

Basketball team opens season with big win

By ALLEN TELGENHOF
Sports writer

The Charlevoix Rayders opened their season in impressive fashion with an 82-61 win on the road over Benzie Central.

"It was a good win for us, playing on the road against a good team in the first game," Rayder coach Keith Haske said. "I think Benzie will have a good team this year. They followed their game against us by winning a tournament last weekend at Glen Lake."

As usual, Scott Friske led Charlevoix with 28 points, 12 rebounds and three steals.

"Scott played maybe his best game," Haske observed. "He is a different player than we've seen. He was real strong in the paint."

If the thought of Friske, an all-conference and all-state player last year, improving wasn't scary enough for Rayder opponents, the Charlevoix debut of guard Jared Hunt might be.

Hunt scored 21 points, grabbed five rebounds and swiped three steals.

"Hunt really played well," said Haske. "He hit back-to-back three pointers for us early in the third quarter to help us push the lead up to 15 or 20 when they had cut it to five or six."

Ryan DeYoung scored 12 points and Cody Crain added nine. Point guard Bryce Daly dished out six assists and contributed five steals. Ben Bergmann pulled down six boards.

The night was a clean sweep for Charlevoix teams as the JV squad won 89-73, led by Eddie Waldron's 22 points and Chad Ellis with 14. The freshmen won 80-72 with Brad Cyr scoring 23, Trevor Mays, 18 and Mitchell Crandall, 17.

Volleyball team takes second in tournament

By ALLEN TELGENHOF
Sports writer

Charlevoix opened the volleyball season with an impressive second place finish in the Inland Lakes tournament.

"We played really well," coach Liz Grunch said. "We just have a lot of little things to work on including some problems executing on serving and passing."

In pool play, the Rayders defeated Johannesburg-Lewiston, 15-8, 15-4; split with Inland Lakes, 12-15, 15-11; beat Hillman, 15-9, 15-8; topped Elk Rapids, 15-9, 15-10; split with East Jordan, 15-6, 13-15; bested St. Ignace, 15-11, 15-13; and split with Boyne City, 15-9, 13-15.

Charlevoix fell to host Inland Lakes in the championship, 15-11, 14-16, 12-15.

"We had a chance to win it but didn't execute at key times," Grunch explained. "It was a good weekend for us. We got a chance to see where we are at and where we need to improve."

Theresa Martin was named the tournament MVP. Andrea Ruhlmann was tabbed as team MVP. Becca Kanine and Kari Way were named to the all-tournament team.

Kanine passed out 120 assists in the tourney. Ruhlmann had 13 blocks and 25 kills.

The Rayders' next action will be at the Alma Invitational on Saturday, Dec. 27.

Boyne City Hockey team beats Traverse City

Justin Conklin and Darren Looze scored hat tricks (3 goals); Britt King, Eli Barsy, Russell Williams, Troy Scarbrough, and Cody Webster added the others. Assists came from William Brown, Britt King, Josh Aown and Barsy; Scarbrough and Webster gave two each, and Looze and Conklin earned playmakers with three assists each.

Dylan Clark made one of the most interesting plays of the game when after losing his stick he passed the puck with his skate blade to make an assist.

In the first, Bobby Courtright earned a shutout in net in the 5-0 win. King, Ryan Fields, Scarbrough, Brown and Aown scored the goals with assists from Clark, Fields, two from Scarbrough and Williams earned a playmaker with three.

Looze scored two goals and Aown the other. Scarbrough and Looze gave the assists.

Ferree was in goal.

Some tips to keep you healthy while shoveling

Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan looked at health care claims data for five snowy days in Michigan during 2002. It showed that the average number of cardiac-related diagnoses in hospital emergency rooms per snowstorm day versus those on a non-snowstorm day increased by about 22 percent.

Who should think twice before heading out to shovel? The company suggests anyone who has: a personal or family history of heart disease, already sustained a heart attack, high blood pressure, high cholesterol levels, a history of smoking, a history of inactivity, a history of back problems or recently eaten a large meal.

But if you're healthy, active and still plan to tackle the snow, the company suggests that you follow this important checklist:

- Avoid stimulants (caffeine and nicotine) that will raise your heart rate and cause blood vessels to constrict.
- Drink water to avoid dehydration. Breathing cold air dehydrates the body.
- Dress in layers. You can always remove a layer if needed.
- Be sure to warm up and stretch your muscles before shoveling. Muscles are less likely to be injured during physical activity after a warm up.
- Pick the right shovel. A smaller shovel will lessen the load one has while moving snow.
- Bend from the knees and tighten your stomach muscles as you lift the snow.
- If the snow is too heavy to lift, push it like a snowplow.
- Remove heavy snow in two stages. Begin by skimming off the snow from the top, then remove the bottom layer. Avoid overloading the shovel.
- Try to remove snow soon after the storm. Freshly fallen, powdery snow is easier to shovel than the wet, packed-down variety.
- Take it slow. Begin shoveling slowly to avoid sudden demand on the heart. Pace yourself and take breaks as needed.
- Wear a scarf or mask. Inhaling cold air may constrict arteries, decreasing your heart's supply of oxygen.
- Stop if your body feels pain or discomfort. No one knows your body as well as you do.

FIFTH PURPLE HEART AWARD

MELVIN PLUM WOUNDED IN MEDITERRANEAN ACTION

One of Three Brothers in Navy; Five Local Service Men Now Decorated for Wounds

Melvin Plum, 21; fireman first class, United States Navy, has been decorated with the Order of the Purple Heart for wounds received in action, according to word received by his mother, Mrs. Helen Plum.

He was wounded by shrapnel in action somewhere in the Mediterranean in August, shortly after the invasion of Sicily, in which he had taken part.

After a month in an American base hospital in North Africa, Melvin was discharged only to discover that his ship had left port. Immediately he was put aboard a vessel of the English fleet and was temporarily considered a "limey" until he was able to rejoin his ship in the Mediterranean some time in October.

Although the letter telling of his decoration was written from North Africa, Mrs. Plum believes her son has since been transferred to another scene of action. His promotion to fireman first class, from fireman second class was received but a short time ago.

Melvin enlisted in the navy in August of 1942 and went overseas in April 1943. Another brother, Leroy is with the navy in the Pacific, while Calvin, youngest of the three sailor brothers, is now presumed to be in the Pacific also.

Melvin is the fifth Charlevoix man to be decorated with the Purple Heart in recent months. Others were Cpl. Frank Pop, Jr., army infantry; Sgt. Raymond J. Nowland, Jr., marine corps; John J. Woods, machinists mate first class, navy; and Carl Beattie, musician first class, navy.

C. Maxwell Novak of the U.S. Naval Reserve was promoted to lieutenant from lieutenant junior grade, on Nov. 1 in England where his ship was stationed at the time, he has notified his wife who with their two daughters, make their home here. He is the son of Mrs. Charles Novak.

A graduate of Central State College in Mount Pleasant, Mr. Novak was a member of the faculty of the Charlevoix Junior High School, when he enlisted in the Naval Reserve in July 1943, and was commissioned a lieutenant, junior grade. He received training at Cornell University in New York, Gulfport, Miss. and New Orleans, La. before going to sea with the Armed Guard of the Navy aboard a troop and cargo transport.

The present trip to England is his fourth abroad. The others were to the Azores, North Africa and Italy. While in Italy during the summer, he spent three days in Rome and with other Americans was admitted to the Vatican for audience with Pope Pius XII.

COMMUNITY CHRISTMAS TREE SATURDAY

CHRISTMAS CAROLS AND SHORT PROGRAM AT 5 O'CLOCK

Charlevoix's Needy Families Will be Provided With Baskets — Donations in Order

Plans have been arranged for a community Christmas tree in Charlevoix. Through the suggestion of Mayor Arthur Burgeon a committee composed of Charles Hamlin, Oscar Nelson and Jos. Foster have worked out details of the program and have solicited the business street for donations towards a fund to be used to provide Christmas baskets for needy families in the city.

The time for the community tree is Saturday afternoon, Dec. 24, at 5 o'clock. The place is the corner of Bridge and Clinton streets. Mayor Bergeon will open the program with a short address of welcome. Christmas carols will be sung by the united choirs of all Charlevoix churches. Rev. B.G. Mattson of the Congregational Church will give a short address on the significance of the occasion.

Immediately following the program, Santa Claus will arrive with his reindeer and sleigh load of candy and nuts for the children. A special invitation is extended to farmers and their families to attend the program. The tree will be beautifully illuminated with colored electric lights and the children will certainly want to see Santa Claus and his reindeer.

In reference to the fund for Christmas baskets to be given to Charlevoix's needy families, we might say that it has been impossible for the committee to reach everyone who might have a donation. Anyone wishing to help the cause may notify any member of the above named committee or leave their donations at the Northern Auto Company. Also if anyone knows of any needy family leave their name with the committee. What is Christmas without giving? Get in line with others and make Christmas in Charlevoix happy for everyone.

First Air WAC

Miss Betty Ross, who was sworn into the Women's Army Corps in Detroit Dec. 13, is the first young woman from Charlevoix to enter the newly-organized Air Wacs. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P.R. Ross.

Placed on a reserve list of WAC recruits, she will be sent to basic training after Jan. 1. Upon completion of basic training, she will be assigned as an Air Wac to a position in the army air forces. Miss Ross' interest in aviation led her to request assignment to his branch of service.

Graduate of Charlevoix High School, she has two brothers in service, Cpl. Lyle Ross, somewhere overseas and Franklin Ross, with the Coast Guard at Ludington.

Stroud no longer at helm of township board for 35 years.

"He should know just about everything I know," Stroud said.

Glass said while he may have a good idea about how politics work in the township he will never fill Stroud's shoes.

"He's been quite an asset. He got an awful lot done," Glass said.

Glass plans to continue to work to extend the city of Charlevoix's sewer system to the Pine Point residential area off Boyne City Road and to deal with other projects as they make it to the board's plate. He said he has no opinion of the Wal-Mart issue and the township is still waiting for the group to return with a site plan to present to the planning commission.

While township business will continue with hot political issues like Wal-Mart on the coming agenda, the longtime supervisor will not be forgotten. In January, the board is planning an open house retirement party to celebrate Stroud's years of service and township residents will continue to know June 4 as Oscar Stroud Day.

Others interested in the supervisor's seat will have a chance to win the spot in November of 2004 when voters will decide who should be supervisor. Glass said he will likely run for election to the seat at that time.

Planning Commissioners irk mayor

Campbell said.

Illegal actions he pointed out included Kusina's comment to Charlevoix resident Becky Doan, who was told she would have a chance to speak at the hearing. In the commission's bylaws mayor Campbell said the public should have an opportunity to speak at every meeting.

Dobulis feels it was up to Kusina to close the issue to public comment and he alone should be charged with this violation by Mayor Campbell.

Mayor Campbell also said some necessary information pertinent to Sunnybank's development plan was added just before the meeting, which didn't give the public and the commission enough time to properly review it before setting the hearing.

But Dobulis said they set the hearing for Jan. 12 which gave the commission and the public 33 days to review the application.

Mayor Campbell's final charge is that the commission's decision to set the hearing went against the advisement of city attorney Jim Young.

Young told the commission they had two options. He said it was within their rights to set the hearing, but suggested that instead they request an interpretation by the zoning board of appeals of what professional office includes in the R-1 district.

The five commissioners whose seats are on the chopping block chose to set the hearing.

Dobulis, whose motion to take the request to the ZBA was shot down, said while the final outcome didn't follow Young's preferred route, it was a legal decision.

Dobulis and Bennett both said what this issue really comes down to isn't the charges Mayor Campbell discussed at Monday night's council meeting, it is a power struggle.

In November, council voted against setting a public hearing to look into amending the city's zoning ordinance to allow assisted living facilities like Sunnybank as a special use in the R-1 and R-2 zoning districts. The planning commission had recommended that zoning change be made.

Dobulis said, "It's a power play. Right now he's (mayor Campbell) intimidating every volunteer commission group in the city. The historical commission, the parks commission all have to worry about Gabe firing them if they don't do what he wants and that's wrong. We (the planning commission) were created to take zoning out of the political realm and make decisions based on the best use of the land not just people who don't want it in their backyard."

Mayor Campbell said he plans to have a letter with his official charges against the commissioners in their hands by the end of the week. They then have 10 days to appeal. Each individual who opts to appeal the decision can request an open or closed hearing to discuss the issue.

Kusina was unavailable for comment. Commissioner Campbell said he plans to appeal the mayor's decision and Bennett and Hodgson said they may appeal also.

"It's easy to walk away, but I don't like being bullied. I always told my kids in school to stand up for themselves if someone bullies them," Bennett said.

In the meantime, the public hearing that was set for Jan. 12 to hear Sunnybank's special use permit request has been postponed pending an appeal by City Manager Mike Wiesner.

This appeal sends the issue of whether or not uses permitted in the city's professional office district are allowed in the R-2 residential district to the ZBA.

The ZBA will meet to address this issue at 7 p.m. Jan. 21 in the Coast Guard training room located at 109 Bridge Park Drive in Charlevoix.

Commissioners fire back

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

The city of Charlevoix's planning commission did not take the mayor's plans to oust five of its members lightly.

The commission met in special session Monday night, Dec. 22, to approve minutes from its Dec. 8 meeting when it made the controversial decision to set a public hearing to listen to a special use permit request for Sunnybank Retirement Community, an assisted living facility.

The proposed facility would be located on a two-acre parcel on Charlevoix's north side, off Petoskey Avenue, in the R-2 single family residential district.

This decision went against city council's Nov. 17 majority vote not to set a public hearing to discuss a zoning amendment to allow this type of facility as a special use in the R-1 and R-2 districts.

The commission's defiance of council sparked Mayor Gabe Campbell to take steps to remove chairman Dennis Kusina and commissioners John Campbell, Francis "Brownie" Flanders, Steve Bennett and Richard Hodgson, from their positions. All five voted in favor of setting the hearing.

On Dec. 15, Mayor Campbell cited the city code when he announced his decision at a city council meeting. The code allows the appointing authority, the mayor, to remove a commissioner with cause.

However, commissioner John Dobulis said specific steps have to be taken for the mayor to remove a commissioner. These include drafting a letter for each, spelling out the charges against them with a 10 day window that follows during which time they can appeal his decision at an open or closed hearing where findings of fact can be explored.

Mayor Campbell has yet to send out this letter, but said he plans to.

Because the letter has not been officially written and sent, Flanders said, "So it was the mayor who performed an illegal act. Perhaps we should fire him?"

While Mayor Campbell has not formally charged the commissioners in writing, he has verbalized his charges. He claims the commission's decision to set the hearing violated its bylaws in two ways. First, he alleges Chairman Kusina acted outside of the commission's bylaws

No more vaccine in area

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

An early flu bug sweeping the nation has hit Charlevoix and fearful, frenzied residents looking for a vaccination won't find one here.

"It's (the flu) definitely here," Suzette Daly, the family health supervisor for the Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency, said.

Local schools and doctors that report infection to the health department have reported a number of cases of the flu and Charlevoix Area Hospital's emergency room has seen an increase in activity due to the flu.

The flu, which generally hits Charlevoix in January and February, reared its ugly head here at the end of October and early November.

"When the flu started to show up in northern Michigan early we said, 'Wow,'" Daly said.

At Charlevoix Public Schools, the flu bug has sent some students home to recover while others continue to attend classes hoping not to be infected.

"We have our share," said the nurse for all three schools, Sue Dixon.

Dixon said some parents are calling in that their student has the flu

Tips to keep your child healthy during flu season

There are several things parents and caregivers can do to keep their children healthy and they are especially important during cold and flu season.

According to the U.S. Centers of Disease Control and Prevention, hand washing is the single most effective disease prevention measure, with the possible exception of immunization.

"Parents should make sure everyone in the family thoroughly washes their hands before preparing food, before eating and after using the bathroom," said Joshua Meyerson, MD, Medical Director for the Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency, the local heath department that serves Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego counties.

Meyerson said washing at least 10 seconds with liquid soap under warm, running water lifts germs off the skin and rinses them away.

"Also, you can teach younger children to give coughs and sneezes the 'cold shoulder' by coughing or sneezing into their shoulder. Kids hardly ever get a tissue in time and if they do, they usually contaminate their hands," Meyerson said.

Around the house, parents and caregivers should not allow children to share toys that they've put in their mouths. It is also important to make sure children do not share personal items like silverware, cups, towels or food.

First, parents and caregivers can offer healthy foods like milk, bread, fruits and vegetables every day to children.

Second, do not smoke in the presence of children — at home or in the car. And make sure children get plenty of sleep. Develop a regular routine, like a story before bedtime and set a regular bedtime and stick to it.

"No matter how well we take care of our children, sometimes they will get sick," Meyerson said.

When children are ill keep them at home. Do not send kids to daycare or school if they have these symptoms: fever 100 degrees or higher, cold-like symptoms with fever, sore throat, difficulty swallowing and swollen glands, coughing and difficulty breathing, nausea, vomiting or diarrhea, stomach ache with fever, pink eye, unusual rashes or infected skin patches, headache with stiff neck, severe itching or scratching of the scalp, body aches and pains.

For additional information about keeping kids healthy, contact your child's physician.

Students work to improve image in media

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Twenty female seniors in Annemarie Conway's government classes at Charlevoix High School are fed up with media messages they're being fed.

This past summer Conway studied media and how it impacts the way we perceive things at Harvard in Massachusetts. She brought back a project for her students who were asked to observe various media, like television and magazines, over the course of about two weeks and record what they found.

The girls concluded that in most instances women are portrayed as scantily clad idiots.

Shayna Drost, a student who worked on the project, said, "A lot of commercials use sexy women and sexual acts to sell their product."

She said these images send a message to impressionable young women that their bodies, not their minds, are their best asset.

And Conway said, "That just burned them."

Tired of just standing by and letting unrealistic images taint their world, the girls decided to send their own media message and created a T-shirt advocating women's empowerment.

The front of the T-shirt says, "A Woman's Place is in the House." And the back reads, "And in the Senate, and in the presidency and in the Supreme Court."

Brooke Blanchard, a student who worked on the project, said, "It's a healthy message."

They hope the shirts will open the eyes of other men and women.

"A lot of women complain about not being equal, but don't do anything about it. You have to be willing to change it," Blanchard said.

After the shirts were printed, Conway told the students they have a lot of power and could send their message to younger students in Charlevoix who respect them.

The high school students visited seminars at their school to talk about the project and then took their T-shirts and message to middle school girls.

Amanda Boss, a student who worked on the project, said, "We told them (the middle school girls) their bodies are not their best asset, their minds are. It's important to remember that."

Their presentation focused on pop rock icon Brittany Spears whose message and use of her body they said could negatively impact these impressionable minds.

"If we give them this heads up now, they'll be better off later," Blanchard said.

Since the shirts hit the streets a couple of weeks ago, the reaction at the high school has been mixed.

The girls said some of the male students have retorted with "the woman's place is in the kitchen" argument. However, they said most of these comments have been made in jest.

Other male and female students have bought shirts as have many teachers. They even plan to send one to Gov. Jennifer Granholm.

The girls said the project has made others aware and has made them watch TV and read different print media in a whole new way. Conway was happy to hear that.

"The overriding goal was to have the kids be discerning consumers of media. To understand the message and who is creating it," she said.

Others interested in purchasing a shirt can order one at the front office at Charlevoix High School. The navy blue T-shirts with raspberry and silver writing are $8.50. Checks should be made payable to Screenmasters. No profits are being made from the sale of the shirts.

School will reopen Jan. 5 following the holiday break on. Order forms can be picked up then.

EDITORIAL

Oscar Stroud

For over 30 years, since 1966, Oscar Stroud has been a driving force in the politics of Charlevoix Township. He was the leader of the township, a symbol of its politics and someone who truly cared about his home.

We all knew a day would come when Stroud would not be leading the board, but no one could envision a day without him. Now, it is here.

Earlier this month, Stroud resigned from his position as Charlevoix Township Supervisor — a position he has had since 1969. In his place is the equally experienced Dale Glass, who will serve until the seat goes up for election in November 2004. Glass has said he will probably run for the position. He has served on the township board for 35 years.

But, even though the seat has been filled by the experienced Glass, there will never be another Oscar Stroud in Charlevoix Township.

Love him or hate him, Stroud is Charlevoix Township. He is ingrained into its culture and its policy and his hand will be felt for many, many years.

Stroud, a member of one of Charlevoix County's pioneer families, was the driving force behind major projects like township owned water and sewer systems, the township fire department, the Shanahan Field recreation area, the construction of the township hall — now called Stroud Hall — and the township's paved road system.

With Stroud at its helm, Charlevoix Township was fiercely independent of the city. In many ways, thanks to Stroud's vision, Charlevoix Township rivaled the city of Charlevoix.

People have disagreed with Stroud's politics in the past or the way he governed, but the simple fact is Stroud gave the people of Charlevoix Township over 30 years of his time. But, to Stroud it was a labor of love for a township he loved and it was time well spent.

Things are just not going to be the same without him.

Squirrel behavior studied

Roger Knutson

'Ear to the ground'

For centuries we attempted to explain the behavior of animals in human terms.

We've thought of foxes as sly and owls as wise, even though those characteristics are clearly human. Beginning about 100 years ago, biologists began to experiment with animal behavior and to understand the animals in their own terms.

The questions asked were not whether a fox was sly, but what sorts of things did the fox do to enhance its possibilities for survival. We also once thought that animals behaved by instinct alone and that humans had intelligence and could learn. We now know that most animals can learn (even an earthworm can be taught to turn right instead of left in a simple maze). And we also know that some human behaviors are instinctive.

All this brings us to questions of squirrel behavior.

I have a front yard laboratory where way too many squirrels are behaving in fascinating ways. Most years the front yard laboratory has only two or three such residents. This year there are eight on most winter days. The attraction for them is what we euphemistically call our bird feeder. I don't mind providing food for a couple of neighborhood squirrels. This year when I first filled the feeder with birdseed, it had three squirrels hanging on it within 10 minutes and it was empty in 20.

I was certain I could make the feeder inaccessible to my flock of furry creatures.

I suspended the newly filled feeder from a woven nylon cord with the ends tied to two maple trees almost 20 feet apart. To my surprise a squirrel walked out to the feeder, balanced like a tightrope performer. I wrapped the cord in a loose cylinder of duct tape sticky side out. The first squirrel was upended by the tape and fell to the ground. I was sure my problem had been solved. At their next attempt one of the bolder raiders held on to the tape when he was upended and then ran upside down to the feeder, ignoring the sticky duct tape surface.

There are some problems that cannot be solved with duct tape. I put barriers made of foot square Styrofoam pieces on both sides of the feeder, and filled it again.

When I next looked there was a fat squirrel hanging from the feeder. I could not be certain, but he may have sat on the shoulders of another and jumped up to the feeder from the ground. Later observation revealed that the boldest of the lot had leaped to the feeder from an overhanging branch.

I cut off the branch, but he jumped again from the cut end, a distance of almost 10 feet.

I cut the branches back to the tree trunk and there was no further jumping. They did, however climb past the Styrofoam barriers. When I added further barriers of Styrofoam one of the little beast bit off the nylon cord, sending the whole feeder and its load of seeds to the ground.

During the following sleepless night, it occurred to me that I had some very strong and very thin nylon monofilament fishing line in the garage. Next day I suspended the feeder between the trees with the almost invisible line and hoped for the best. Within a half hour the best high wire performer of the group walked to the feeder balanced on that thinnest of supports and scooped out the seeds for his buddies on the ground.

The squirrels have learned to get to the feeder, I have learned a new respect for their capabilities. I get to supply the food and they get to eat it.

Now if I could only figure out why the Charlevoix squirrels try to swim across Round Lake in September and October.

No Wal-Mart

Editor:

Charlevoix is a charming small town with a host of summer visitors. For the rest of the year many of our merchants struggle to stay afloat if they choose to remain open. If Wal-Mart were to locate here it would be devastating to our businesses and economy. Wal-Mart pays low wages and offers no benefits to employees; they allow no unions.

Their income does not go through our banks; it goes directly to their own bank in Arkansas. It is a great mistake to believe a Wal-Mart here will be of any benefit to the people of this community. If they hire people from failing businesses, remember, they will be paid sub-standard wages with no benefits. (They do, however, show their employees how to apply for food stamps.) The entrance to their facility would be from Marion Center Road, causing traffic problems for the high school. The runoff from their vast parking lot would destroy Stover Creek.

Charlevoix has too many empty store fronts; we don't need more. Those who shop by price alone and care nothing about the unfair advantage Wal-Mart takes because of their size, that many items are made in foreign countries where women and children work from dawn to dusk for pennies an hour, can go to Petoskey's Wal-Mart already, it's only 20 minutes away. We don't need another Wal-Mart here.

Wal-Mart has destroyed the economy of hundreds of small

Displays of religion

Editor:

This December, I am greatly concerned about the widespread confusion over what is and is not acceptable seasonal religious expression in our community. Over the past few years, it seems that grave misunderstandings of the origin and meaning of the phrase "separation of church and state" have encouraged many government officials to embark on a mission to remove all references to religion from schools, government buildings, and public property.

The phrase "separation of church and state" doesn't even appear in the Constitution! It originated in 1802 in a private letter from Thomas Jefferson to a group of Baptist ministers in Danbury, Connecticut — 13 years after the First Amendment was passed. And the courts have consistently ruled since then that eliminating all signs of religion from the public square is just as unconstitutional as establishing a religion. So, in response to recent efforts to censor Christmas in our community, perhaps it would help to clarify the forms of religious expression that are legal under the Constitution even under today's confused case law.

1) Students are free to express their religious beliefs in school. As long as it's not materially disruptive, students may express their beliefs verbally with phrases like "Merry Christmas," through clothing that conveys religious messages with words, colors or symbols; or through written materials like school assignments, religious cards, gifts or tracts given to teachers and classmates (Lovell v. City of Griffin, 303 U.S. 444 [1938]; Westfield High School LIFE Club v. City of Westfield, 249 F. Supp. 2d 98 [D. Mass. 2003]).

2) At school, students can sing Christmas carols at concerts, teach the biblical origins of Christmas and perform the Christmas story of Mary, Joseph, Jesus and the shepherds. The Constitution does not require the exclusion of religion from public institutions. Christmas is part of our heritage and ingrained in our culture; therefore, expression of it through art and music and teaching of it as history serve both a religious and secular purpose. Provided these activities promote the "advancement of the students' knowledge of our society's cultural and religious heritage, as well as the provision of an opportunity for students to perform a full range of music, poetry, and drama that is likely to be of interest to the students and their audience," any of these activities can be conducted in public schools without creating an Establishment Clause problem (Florey v. Sioux Falls School District, 619 F. 2d 1311 [6th Cir. 1980]; Stone v. Graham, 449 U.S. 39 [1980]).

3) Nativity displays can be placed in schools, parks, and government buildings. No Supreme Court decision has ever forbidden a private citizen from setting up a nativity display in a public park, as parks, streets and sidewalks are all public forums traditionally devoted to "assembly and debate." Such displays may be also placed in public buildings provided the government has opened the property for expressive activity. The Free Exercise Clause assures religious speakers the same access to public forums given to secular speakers (Americans United for Separation of Church and State v. City of Grand Rapids, 980 F. 2d 1538 [6th Cir. 1992]). Nor can private citizens be forced to include nonreligous objects such as snowmen in their faithbased displays (West Virginia v. Barnette, 319 U.S. 624, 642 [1943]).

Furthermore, even under current decisions, city governments may include a nativity in a seasonal display provided 1) there are a sufficient number of secular objects along with religious ones, 2) the secular objects are in close proximity to the religious ones and 3) overall, the display is sufficiently secular (Lynch v. Donnelly, 465 U.S. 668, 671 [1984]).

The U.S. Constitution, laws and court decisions are all constructed to protect and permit religious expression in both public schools and government buildings. So, attempts to remove Christ from Christmas do not stem from the Constitution, but from those who simply seek to silence the Christian message. And that is a violation of the Constitution!

Thank you for this opportunity to clarify the legal position on keeping Christmas a vital part of our heritage.

Vote out Bush

Editor:

It appears the Iraqis need liberation not from Saddam, but from the American army. Iraq is now an occupied country. People are dying on all sides every day as Iraq becomes a magnet for extremists from all over the Middle East.

We have president Bush's extreme right wing knee jerk overreaction to Sept. 11, 2001 to thank for this war. We are never leaving Iraq. This administration had no intention of doing so. Bush and his thugs will decide how Iraq will be governed and will leave a permanent military base in Iraq as well. That is not liberation, that is occupation.

Spending billions of our tax dollars to feed, educate and generally rebuild Iraq is immoral, insulting, shameful and wasteful. Being in a permanent wartime economy has effectively bankrupt America. Every state is in red figures. There are shortfalls in Medicare, Medicaid and social security. The deficit is $500 billion and will easily go to $1 trillion if this administration does not stop their runaway spending on all things military.

Every day, however, brings us closer to the truth about the lies coming out of Washington about this war. I have faith in the American people to determine this truth and stand up and take back our country from this scandalous and corrupt administration. Next November, vote out the Bush administration. They are clearly taking this great nation of ours in the wrong direction.

Engagement

Casciani — Speigl

Crystal Marie Casciani and Stephen Ray Speigl, both of Charlevoix, are engaged to be married.

Stephen is the son of Steve and Reta Speigl of Charlevoix.

A wedding is being planned for June 26, 2004 with a ceremony and reception at Castle Farms in Charlevoix.

The bride-to-be is a 2000 graduate of Charlevoix High School and is now attending Central Michigan University for a degree in child development.

The groom-to-be is a 1998 graduate of Charlevoix High School and is now attending Central Michigan University for a degree in sociology with an emphasis in criminal justice. He is in the hiring process for the DNR.

Area Americorps program highlighted at conference

Char-Em ISD AmeriCorps members and the services they provide local districts throughout Charlevoix, Emmet and Antrim counties were spotlighted during the 2003 Michigan AmeriCorps Member Celebration recently.

The group set up the AmeriCorps ISD's display board during the mid-November statewide conference. The display board show pieced the Char-Em ISD AmeriCorps' goals, staff members, and services and materials they provide local schools.

The 10 members of the ISD AmeriCorps and program director Art Kirk attended conference sessions such as "Problem Kids or Problem Context: Identifying Strengths and Building Capacity Within our Kids," "Project and Event Planning," and "Volunteer Recruitment and Retention – Doing it Right the First Time."

Keynote speaker for the conference was Daniel Granholm Mulhern, First Gentleman and Chair of the Michigan Community Service Commission. Several AmeriCorps members had an opportunity to speak with Mulhern during his tour of the conference displays.

Building on ideas of service and volunteerism that had its roots in the creation of the Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) during the Great Depression of the 1930s and progressing through the development of the Peace Corps and Volunteers in Service to America (VISTA) in the 1960s, AmeriCorps was created by Congress through the National Community Service Act and came into being in 1994.

The Corporation for National Service administers AmeriCorps nationally; the Michigan Community Service Commission oversees AmeriCorps programs within Michigan.

The focus of service through AmeriCorps takes one of four tracks: support for the environment, public safety, education, and unmet human needs.

Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District received an AmeriCorps grant in 1997, resulting in the creation of an educationally focused violence prevention program. In 2003 — the sixth year of this federal grant — 10 people have been placed within local school districts, charter schools, and alternative programs throughout the ISD.

AmeriCorps members are given highly specialized training in various areas including school protocol, classroom management, cooperative learning techniques and others. They are also trained in a variety of violence reduction techniques through such programs as Teaching Students to be Peacemakers, No Bullying, Don't Laugh at Me, and Be Cool.

The members assigned to school sites are under the day-to-day direction of on-site administrative liaisons who assist in creating the unique focus of each position.

The AmeriCorps members commit to 1,700 hours of service over the course of one year. For their efforts, AmeriCorps members receive a yearly taxable living stipend of $9,900. Qualifying members can also receive free childcare reimbursement. In addition, previously awarded federally approved student loans can be deferred during the service period, and the accumulated interest paid by the federal government.

Upon successful completion of the member's term of service a $4,725 education award is granted which can be used to pay off federally approved student loans, or for education expenses such as tuition, fees, books, supplies and others.

For further information about the Char-Em ISD - AmeriCorps Program, please contact Art Kirk, Program Director, at 547-9947 or kirk@charemisd.org.

Ten things to do during the holiday break

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff writer
and By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

There are many things to do during the holidays to keep you entertained.

To help out the readers, the staff of the Charlevoix Courier has come up with 10 activities you can try, not only during the holidays, but throughout the winter.

1) Raid the kitchen and build a snowman full of yummy treats for winter friends, like acorns, nuts and seeds for birds and squirrels and a carrot nose for deer. Then, sit back and watch with a cup of hot chocolate as they come to meet your frosty creation and indulge in its treats.

2) Bundle up and take a long walk through the trails at Fisherman's Island State Park or just in your neighborhood, the fresh air will awaken your senses and help burn some of the calories collected while indulging in holiday food.

3) With new items coming in over the holidays, get rid of the rif raff. Cleaning out things you don't use and donating them to the Salvation Army or other second hand organizations like Charlevoix's Rainbow Shoppe will allow your belongings that are collecting dust to be discovered as someone else's treasure.

4) There is no better way to see Charlevoix's breathtaking countryside than in the open air by horse drawn sleigh. Cedar Valley Farms of Charlevoix offers this northern Michigan experience. Call 547-7352 to check hours and book reservations.

5) Cold snowy afternoons don't mean the family has to be stuck inside. Round everyone up and head to Paul Bunyan Lanes off US-31 to bowl a couple of frames and enjoy lunch. For hours of operation and more information contact the bowling alley at 547-2848.

6) Go sledding. Charlevoix is surrounded by plenty of sled-worthy hills to enjoy. Near the city of Charlevoix, the most popular one is located at Mount McSauba.

7) Relax with a good book. Instead of getting wrapped up in the holiday stress, take some time to relax this year. One way to do this is with a cup of hot chocolate and a good book. Jim Berlage, owner of the Bridge Street Book Shop in downtown Charlevoix suggests "Split Second," by David Baldacci; "The Secret Life of Bees;" and "Big Bad Wolf," by James Petterson.

8) Take a vacation. While it is fun to enjoy the cold weather of northern Michigan during the holidays, some people think a tan is the way to go. Carlo D'Angelo, travel consultant with Passageways Travel in Charlevoix, said travel usually increases after the first of the year, but the hot locations (pun intended) are the Caribbean, Mexico, Florida and cruises.

9) Get your taxes together. With the end of December comes the beginning of another tax year and now is the time to get ready. Bob Hoffman, Charlevoix CPA, said people should start going through their checkbooks and receipts to make sure they do not miss any deductions.

Common deductions include charitable donations and investment expenses.

Employers need to have W-2s to their employees by Jan. 31, so Hoffman usually doesn't start receiving tax documents until then. But, he said, "I think it is a great idea to start revisiting what they had last year and make a check list. Talk to your accountant and get an idea of where you are going to stand. It is not too late to make charitable contributions."

10) Make calls. The holidays are a great time to contact friends and family you may not have heard from in a long time. Doing so can be very therapeutic for you, but Charlevoix County Mental Health Services Dr. Dennis Lawrence said it can also lead to more stress.

This can happen if you are contacting someone out of a sense of obligation and not because of the holidays.

"Avoid confrontation. It is Christmas time that you are calling for, not to hash out old differences," he said.

Writer's Christmas meaning

Beacons of Blessing

By MARY WILLIS
First Congregational Church

Christmas — the presents are wonderful, yes, even the goofy ones; the music is inspiring, even if we hear it in gas stations; the food is rich and delicious, even if we overindulge; the story is utterly amazing, even if we've heard it a hundred times.

Everything about Christmas is over the top, wrapped in a layer of wonder.

From the beginning, it was almost too amazing for words. It all began with a visit by an angel named Gabriel with news of unlikely pregnancies first to a woman too old to bear a child and then one young but too unready to bear a child. Elizabeth and Mary were cousins. Elizabeth was expecting John the Baptizer and Mary was expecting Jesus the Savior.

Impossible? "…with God nothing is impossible."

Let us look back, way, way back, to that time 2003 years ago. A man, Joseph, had worked a long time in order to have the resources to marry. Now, just as he is engaged, he discovers that his young virgin bride-to-be is pregnant.

This was unheard of — even dangerous beyond the embarrassment. Yet, he stayed with her because of that amazing visit from the angel. He took the angel's words to heart and stayed with Mary, no matter what his friends thought or said and the gossip was vicious.

Then he had to travel a great distance on foot, with Mary very pregnant, to register for tax purposes in the town of his ancestors, Bethlehem.

There was no place to stay and the baby was coming! How frightening that must have been. They were desperate and took shelter in the only place offered, a stable. Who delivered the baby?

Can't you just hear the moaning and groaning along with the other sounds in the stable? And then it was all over and baby Jesus arrived and the two parents just beamed at their precious newborn, the most beautiful baby and the light of love filled the stable and radiated out to the surrounding world.

Shepherds were also the least likely. They smelled, they lived, slept and ate with sheep, day after day. Again to the lowly, appeared the mighty. To them the most gorgeous and glorious appeared, angels from the realms of glory inviting them to be the first guests of baby Jesus.

"Gloria in excelsis deo!"

Then more mystery and magnificence as magi from the East brought the finest gifts to this poor family by way of that star, that amazing star of wonder, star of royal beauty bright.

Is this Christmas story too amazing to absorb? Or is it too amazing not to absorb? Who but God could create such mystery and unpredictability, such humbleness frosted with grandeur? Only God could bring together such a cast of least likely characters and turn them into the greatest story ever told.

Only God.

Each year, as this story comes around again to renew our sagging spirits and fill us with abundant wonder, what does it mean? For you? For me? Could an angel be calling you to believe in some impossible dream that won't let you go? Is it about time to examine your life and see how you could live more simply, more humbly, more lovingly? Is there someone in your life who needs to be touched by an angel? Could that angel be you?

Take a few minutes to open up your Bible and read the Christmas story in those simple words inspired by God. Say a prayer that God will touch your heart and warm your spirit with this story so much that it also becomes your story. Invite God to reach out, to touch you and change you. To make a difference in your life and help you to make a difference in the life of another.

After all, if God could do it then, God who never changes, so God can do it now. If God cared so much about these unlikely people, surely God cares about you and me, as unlikely as we are.

Remember, "…with God nothing is impossible."

That's what the Christmas story means to me.

Obituaries

Robert W. Bogart: Died Dec. 14, 2003

Robert W. Bogart, 81, of Fernandina Beach, Fla. passed away Sunday, Dec. 14, 2003, at Baptist Medical Center.

Born in St. Paul, Minn., he moved to Florida in 1995 from Charlevoix.

He was a graduate of Michigan State University and attended Purdue University. He served in the U.S. Air Force, 397th Bomber Division, 9th Air Force, during World War II.

He owned and operated Bogart & Associates Insurance Co.

Mr. Bogart was a member of Amelia Baptist Church on Amelia Island, Fla.

Survivors include his wife, Andrea Bogart; sons, Thomas Robert Bogart of Phoenix, Ariz., Patrick Owen Schaefer of Ann Arbor, Michael Lee Bogart of Deland, and Andrew John Schaefer of Cary, N.C.; daughters, Barbara Lindsay Erickson of Kalamazoo, Judith Barclay Sluga of Parachute, Colo., and Stacey Ann Schaefer of Northville; 13 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Archie Earl Cross: Sept. 26, 1906 - Dec. 5, 2003

Archie Earl Cross, 97, passed away Friday, Dec. 5, 2003, in Camarillo, Calif.

Archie was born on Sept. 26, 1906, on Beaver Island, to Charles and Mary (Hazel) Cross.

On April 13, 1933, Archie married June Olsen in Ludington.

Archie was a commercial fisherman along with six of his brothers.

He moved his family to southern California in 1946, where he continued commercial fishing and later retired from the Pacific Dredge Co.

Archie and June built a house on the big island of Hawaii in the 1970s but later moved back to southern California.

Archie is survived by his wife, June, and a son, Archie Earl (Sue) Cross Jr.; three grandchildren; and seven great-grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by a daughter, Ardis; his parents; and by eight brothers and five sisters.

Kathleen M. Etieene: Died Dec. 19, 2003

Kathleen M. Etieene, 54, of Naples, Fla. died Friday, Dec. 19, 2003.

Kathleen had lived in Charlevoix before moving to Naples in 1995.

She was a talented and giving registered nurse for many years. She had a passion for life and it showed as she helped many people in her field.

An avid skier and golfer, she surrounded herself with good friends and was always willing to lend a helping hand to whomever was in need.

She was a loving mother to her son Neal (Amy) Housewörth of Evanston, Ill., and a loving grandmother of Mia. She is also survived by her father Joseph Etienne, Sr. Also surviving are her brothers Joe Etienne, Jr., Bob Etienne and Mike Etienne all of Naples, Fla. and a sister Jeanine Etienne of Kauai, Hi.

She was preceded in death by her mother, Katherine Etienne.

Relatives and friends are invited to attend a Memorial Mass at 10 a.m., on Saturday, Dec. 27, at St. Ann Catholic Church, Naples, Fla. Donations in her memory may be made to Hospice of Naples, Inc., 1095 Wippoorwill Lane, Naples, FL 34105.

Grange changes in face of fewer farms

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Over a century ago Charlevoix's Barnard Grange was a secret organization dedicated to the rights of farmers, but as the local agricultural community has changed, so has the Grange.

The local Grange was established in 1889 as a way for farmers to bring down transportation costs.

Barnard Grange master Charles Dhaseleer said at that time farmers in Charlevoix depended on the rail system to send produce and livestock to market. But the railroad charges were so high that they weren't making money on their product.

In retaliation, they formed the Grange, a family organization where men, women and children were welcome. Together they put pressure on the state and federal government to regulate those railroads and to improve roads.

The Grange was also instrumental in getting the rural federal delivery (RFD) mail system up and running so country living didn't mean you couldn't have direct mail service. It was also instrumental in forming agricultural colleges like Michigan State University and establishing extension services like 4-H.

But over the past century, Charlevoix's rural outskirts have melded with the more densely populated city and modern conveniences like transportation, a well-maintained network of roads and mail delivery are all a given.

As these conveniences become commonplace the landscape of the area's rural countryside has also changed. Dhaseleer said the Grange's presence as a representative of the farmers is less needed as these traditional farms continue to disappear and the Farm Bureau representing farmers' interests.

"Here farms are just so few and far between," Dhaseleer said.

He added that the Grange's current 70 person membership doesn't even include a local farming family.

With the farming connection waning locally, the Grange's focus on the agricultural community has shifted to a concentration on community service.

This month, Grange representatives visited Charlevoix Elementary School and St. Mary School and gave each third grade student a new dictionary.

Jessie Cunningham, the community service chairperson for the Barnard Grange, who coordinated the project, said her interest was piqued at the October state Grange meeting in Petoskey. At the meeting, Grangers from southern Michigan spread the word about the dictionary project they steered in their communities.

"Dictionaries are so important for spelling and the English language," Cunningham said. "They said the children responded very well."

On Dec. 15 members of the Barnard Grange visited Charlevoix Elementary School to deliver each third grade student their own dictionary. The Grange has changed its focus from the farm community to community service projects like this. Here Casey Swadling, 8, leafs through the pages of his new dictionary.

And the Charlevoix project produced similar results. The 109 students that received the reference book were instantly buried in them looking up words and learning to use it.

Elementary school principal Dick Swenor said the timing was perfect as the school's dictionaries were seeing some serious wear and tear.

The Grange plans to return next year with dictionaries for all the children in the next third grade class.

Funding for projects like this and donations to community organizations come from fund-raisers the Grange hosts including lunches and its well-known Swiss steak dinner.

Those interested in the Grange can attend meetings that take place at 7 p.m., the first Thursday of each month at the Grange hall located at the corner of Klooster and Barnard roads.

Adopt a family

The multiage classroom at Charlevoix Elementary School adopted a family from the Community Giving Project through the Family Independence Agency. They collected toys, clothes, games and food for the family of six and delivered it Dec. 19. The project was done in conjunction with the community lesson.

Watch out for ID theft

Sheriff George T. Lasater said identity theft is becoming more problematic as evidenced by the following story.

A solicitor claiming to represent MADD (Mothers Against Drunk Driving) offered magazine subscriptions with the proceeds supposedly benefiting MADD and during the course of the conversation requested the credit card number of the citizen for the purpose of. processing the subscription.

When the citizen requested more information, the caller promptly hung up.

This same scenario could be duplicated using a number of reputable charitable organizations as a foil to obtain information that could be used for identity theft.

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office and Lasater would like to warn all citizens to be extremely cautious when providing personal information, such as social security number, credit card numbers, bank account numbers and others.

Because the crime of identity theft is on the increase, it is more important than ever to protect yourself by providing personal information only to those sources that you are absolutely certain of.

This might include contacts made personally (such as door-to-door solicitations) or by phone, mail or E-mail.

Wal-Mart group hires lawyer

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The anti-Wal-Mart group This is Our Town has hired an attorney.

According to Bob Hoffman, group member, the group hired Jim Olson of the Traverse City lawfirm Olson & Bzdok. Olson is best known in Charlevoix for his work with a citizen's group that fought the construction of a new high school on Marion Center Road.

Hoffman said in the groups meeting with Olson it become apparent that there are several issues that need to be addressed before a Wal-Mart can be built on property boardering US-31 and Marion Center Road.

Hoffman questioned whether the zoning ordinance is in compliance with the Charlevoix Township Master Plan and said there were environmental issues that need to be addressed, specifically with Stover Creek.

"This (the Wal-Mart) is not a done deal," he said.

At a Charlevoix Township planning commission meeting in September, Wal-Mart officials presented a conceptual plan for a supercenter to be located on US-31 South, near Marion Center and Stover roads.

It would have 40,000 square feet of grocery space on the left side of the store and over 100,000 square feet of retail space on the right side. The store would be a total of 157,400 square feet.

There is also room for seasonal sales, such as Christmas trees and garden supplies, as well as an automotive department for tire, oil and lube changing. The supercenter will have two main entrances, not including a truck entrance on US-31. One entrance will be on US-31 and the other will be on Marion Center Road. Wal-Mart officials said they hoped to have the store open in 2005.

The next meeting of This is Our Town will be at 7 p.m., Dec. 16 at the Edgewater Hotel Conference Center on Michigan Avenue.

Leaning pole of Charlevoix

During a storm this fall, this power pole broke on Belvedere Avenue. Since then, a city truck has been keeping it up. According to a memo by Don Swem, city electrical superintendent, it was decided to redo this part of the city circuit and eventually get rid of the pole. A transformer that was needed for this arrived Friday. Work on the pole should be completed next week and it will be removed.

Decorations

Charlevoix Area Hospital held their Second Annual Department Decorating Contest, with this year's theme being Christmas carols or songs. The winner this year was the Purchasing Department with their theme Feliz Navidad. Jaime Stebe and Chris Bouters from that department are pictured. Runners up were the Medical/Surgical Nursing Unit with White Christmas and the Billing Department with Frosty the Snowman.

Obituary

Frederick W. Krell: Dec. 29, 1917 - Dec. 15, 2003

A funeral was Dec. 17 at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. The Rev. Mary Willis of the First Congregational Church in Charlevoix officiated and burial was in Greenwood Cemetery in Petoskey.

Fred was born Dec. 29, 1917, in Clare, the son of Adolph and Flossie (Howell) Krell. He graduated from Saginaw High School in 1935, and attended Interlochen Arts Academy summer program.

He was program director at WSGW radio in Saginaw, and originated early "call-in" talk shows, namely "Listen to the Misses," and "What's Your Opinion."

Fred was principle violinist in the Saginaw Symphony Orchestra. He was also a prolific writer and he loved northern Michigan where he retired to Charlevoix in 1987.

He was a member of the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club.

Memorial contributions may be made to Charlevoix County Humane Society or to the charity of choice.

Mount McSauba may get upgrades

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Major development at Mount McSauba, the city of Charlevoix's 57-acre recreation facility, could be on the horizon.

Charlevoix's City Council tabled city staff's request to study the possibility of expanding and improving the park to its Jan. 5 meeting. The decision to hold off was made because some council members said they don't support spending a sizable chunk of change to investigate issues there.

"I'm all for improvements at the mountain, but use that $20,000 for 'the plan' on those upgrades," third ward council member Shirley Gibson said.

But city manager Mike Wiesner said by developing a plan, the city is taking a broad look at the property to craft a long-term approach to projects at the site. Wiesner had suggested hiring East Park and marina renovations planner Peter Pollack, of Pollack Design Associates of Ann Arbor, to handle the study.

He said it would cost under $20,000.

Some issues the proposed study is aimed at addressing include sand erosion and managing the maturing forest. Development possibilities it would explore include creation of a snow board area, expansion of the sledding area and providing artificial snow to the sledding hill.

But Gibson said recreation director Ike Boss and McSauba manager Bo Boss are capable of addressing those issues and the city would get a bigger bang for its buck by investing that money into improvements.

Bo said expansion and improvements are needed.

"The park gets all different people involved by having sledding, snow boarding, skiing, cross country and snowshoeing. We're trying to get a little bit for everybody," he said.

He explained that over the last couple of years providing all those services has been difficult. Natural snowfall hasn't been consistent enough at the sledding hill to keep it covered for the majority of the winter and he said a snow gun there would help extend the season for users.

Bo also said parking needs to be addressed at the sledding site and the end of the run needs to be extended.

Over at the six downhill runs, Bo said business is booming and 75 percent of users are snow boarders.

"If we could get a little expansion, to separate the snowboarders from the skiers, it would really help us out," he said.

While this future project planning is being hashed out by city council, McSauba has been blowing snow for the past three weeks to prepare to open for the season last weekend, Dec. 20.

Charlevoix's Mount McSauba may see some major improvements in the future. The hill will open soon for downhill skiers and snow boarders.

DEC 2003

A Nice Christmas Story

For six years, I have been walking my dogs in the Greenwood Cemetery in Petoskey. Often times I would stop by a grassy knoll where approximately 100 babies were buried and say "Hi" to them. The area was marked by a small aluminum sign and nothing else. Even though I talked to the children, I was saddened by how lonely their burial place felt. This past August when I was talking to the babies and looking around the area at all the other markers, it dawned on me that our babies needed something to memorialize their small area of the cemetery.

So with the help and cooperation of the cemetery board and director, I put together a monument for the children with a little train set on the bottom, a little girl holding a bunny at the top and some butterflies on the other side, with their names and dates of passing, all in pink granite. Since these babies never knew their parents, never had friends, never went swimming in Lake Michigan, never walked our beaches, never had a birthday and never enjoyed a Christmas or the meaning of Christmas, I thought it only appropriate that we give them their first Christmas-to let them know that they are not forgotten and that our children are the real meaning of Christmas, and why we are here on earth.

Merry Christmas
William Schuiling

Gone But Not Forgotten

Greenwood Cemetery will be dedicating a granite monument on Christmas Day, 2003, at Greenwood Cemetery at 2:00 p.m. commemorating the babies buried in Block 106 of Greenwood Cemetery. The monument has been donated by Mr. and Mrs. William Schuiling of Charlevoix to mark the graves of these babies whose graves have been unmarked for years. The new granite monument will replace a metal sign to mark the graves placed by the Cemetery and will be landscaped by the Schuilings in the spring of 2004 and maintained by the Cemetery.

Island Airways' city contract renewed

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

A fixed base operator agreement between the city of Charlevoix and Island Airways has been reached.

The three year agreement between the two entities, in which Island Airways agrees to perform maintenance functions at Charlevoix Municipal Airport as well as provide service to Beaver Island, expired in April of this year.

The city and Island Airways had been operating under the old contract while city manager Mike Wiesner re-negotiated the agreement with Island Airways owner Paul Welke.

At the Dec. 15 city council meeting, the revised contract was reviewed and approved with only one vote against it. Recently re-elected third ward council member Shirley Gibson said she voted against it because it is a three-year contract and she thinks it should be looked at annually.

The new contract is a better deal for Island Airways, a company Wiesner said is struggling.

The contract reduces the airline's cost for equipment insurance by $1,500, runway electric costs by $2,800 and the cost of the pilot lounge phones by $650. This will save the airline $4,950 and will cost the city $3,950.

But, Wiesner told the council, it is still to the city's advantage to stick with the airline.

He said if the city were to operate as the fixed base operator it would lose $189,334 a year, which is over $60,000 more than they are estimating to lose in the 2003-2004 budget year.

Wiesner said the airport comes close to breaking even if the $107,000 that goes to paying off the debt for the parking lot and new terminal is factored in.

"We are one of only a couple (municipal airports) in the state (to come close to breaking even.) In my mind that's because of the win, win situation we have with the Island Airways operation to be able to dual use employees," he said.

Through the contract, Island Airways is given exclusive lease of the city's fuel farm system in exchange for year-round maintenance and operating services at the airport. These services include mowing, snow and ice removal, grounds work, maintenance at the terminal building and of the radio system and payment of most utilities.

The city agreed not to increase its fuel fee which is set at $.20 per gallon for the three-year contract period.

Under the contract, the city pays Island Airways $7,000 a year to provide all operating services it requests including maintaining the Unicom radio, issuing advisories and answering questions about airport and weather conditions, providing guidance and assistance in parking, filing notices to airmen, enforcing city rules pertaining to airport operations, maintaining a record of commercial landings, issuing parking permits and collecting tie down fees.

While the contract is binding for three years, it can be re-negotiated if Island Airways revenues from passenger fares, fuel or parking are down by 15 percent or more over the prior calendar year.

While the majority of council voted in favor of these contract requirements, Dave Scott, a Charlevoix resident and pilot, doesn't think it's a good deal and their action violated the city zoning ordinance.

"It couldn't be more clear. The city ordinance says any contract greater than $20,000 must be put out for bids and they didn't bid it out. What's to keep them from not bidding other things that should be bid," he said.

City airport commission formed from council

He also thinks the city would have gotten a better deal by bidding the contract.

"The city's number one objective should be to make sure they are getting the best deal. They shouldn't do a deal that is a violation of their city ordinance," Scott said.

"My feeling is the city would have absolutely ended up with a better deal if it was a sealed bid process, even if there was only one bidder."

A representative of Bear River Aviation of Pellston was at the Dec. 15 meeting and said had the FBO agreement been put out for bid, he would have bid it.

But city attorney Jim Young has maintained the FBO agreement is a lease agreement under which the city is giving Island Airways license to operate on city owned property. In return, the city takes in some money for fees the airline collects and they operate various services.

Young said this type of agreement is not subject to a bid requirement.

But Scott disagrees with this interpretation.

"The city is buying services from Island Airways — that's a contract," he said.

Further interpretation of the contract will likely be the responsibility of a city council airport committee.

At the Dec. 15 meeting, Wiesner recommended establishment of an airport committee. He said, in his view, this committee, which would include members of council, would further review the airport contract, not airport operations.

In the past, Gibson, mayor Gabe Campbell, second ward council member Karen Campbell and first ward councilman Bob Timms have been staunch advocates of establishing an airport commission to review operations there.

They have said maintenance concerns and recent violations of the hangar leasing contract by Island Airways merit the formation of a commission, separate from city staff, to look over operations at the airport and regularly report back to council.

While Gibson said she supported Wiesner's recommendation to form a committee, she thought its purpose would be more far reaching than contract review. She wants to see the committee investigate the financial situation at the airport and she said she isn't giving up.

"We need to look into how the operations out there are done. We need to look at the services and maintenance contract and see if we are getting what we are entitled to," she said.

Official Notice

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX
Ordinance No. 693 of 2003

AN ORDINANCE TO REPEAL SECTION 5.212(12), AMEND SECTION 5.212(8), AND AMEND SECTION 5.214(7) OF ARTICLE VI, CHAPTER 51 OF THE CHARLEVOIX CITY CODE.

THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS:

SECTION 1. Repeal of Section 5.212(12) of Article VI of Chapter 51.

Section 5.212(12) is hereby repealed.

SECTION 2. Amendment of Section 5.212(8) of Article VI of Chapter 51.

Section 5.212(8) is hereby amended to read in its entirety as follows:

(8) Whenever a use of an activity requiring off-street parking is created or increased in floor area, intensity of activity or number of boat berthing slips by structural alteration, or new construction, the number of off-street parking spaces shall be provided and maintained as required in this chapter for such new construction or change.

Changes in use or new uses of existing buildings or floor area shall require parking in accord with this chapter, provided however; in the central business district the requirement for additional parking due to a legal commercial use change shall be waived.

The new creation of commercial or accessory residential floor space or uses in the central business district shall require the provision for parking in accord with this chapter; provided that the planning commission and city council may approve a development plan as required by section 5.188, as amended, if the property owner pays on a one-time basis to the City of Charlevoix central business district parking improvement fund, the sum of three thousand ($3,000) dollars adjusted on an annual basis in accord with the Consumer Price Index, based on the base year 1991 for each parking place which can not be provided on site. Such funds shall be used to benefit the provision of public parking in the central business district. Parking spaces thus provided for shall be unreserved and as generally available to the public. Payments into the parking fund shall be made prior to the issuance of a land use permit for the proposed project by the Zoning Administrator.

Existing parking spaces provided on site shall be assigned to existing uses and may not be assigned to newly created floor space or uses, unless sufficient parking spaces are provided on site to meet the requirements of existing floor space and/or uses. Nothing herein shall preclude a property owner from building to the limits of their property as allowed by this Chapter provided they contribute to the parking fund to replace existing parking spaces lost as well as meet the required number of parking spaces required for new construction in accord with Section 5.214 (7).

SECTION 3. Amendment of Section 5.214(7) of Article VI of Chapter 51.

Section 5.214(7) is hereby amended to read in its entirety as follows:

(7) Certain uses in the CBD: Notwithstanding differing requirements within Section 5.214(3) and (4), non-residential and non-institutional uses within the CBD District shall provide or replace parking as follows:

SECTION 4. Effective Date.

This Ordinance shall become effective thirty (30) days after enactment.

Motion by Councilman Sherm Chamberlain and seconded by Councilman Bob Timms to adopt Ordinance No. 693 the 15th day of December, 2003.

Coast Guard: be safe on ice

The United States Coast Guard reminds all recreational ice enthusiasts to exercise caution when on the ice.

Ice is unpredictable and unforgiving. Beneath what appears to be solid ice, hides moving and frigid water. Once you enter the 30-35 degree water, the effects of hypothermia are immediate and restrict the movement of your muscles and your ability to make sound decisions.

If you choose to venture onto frozen waters, you can minimize potential accidents by following a few simple safety suggestions:

- File a float plan. Let somebody know where you leave from shore, where you will be on the ice, and when you will return. In addition, it is good to let them know what you will be wearing and what type of safety gear you will be carrying.
- Wear a personal floatation device, even on solid ice. It offers protection during accidental immersion and offers protection from low temperatures.
- Never venture out onto the ice alone — always use the buddy system.
- Dress in layers-extra layers of clothing reduces the loss of body heat.
- Always carry a two-way radio, a cell phone or some other form of communication.
- Carry a compass or GPS with the ability to point you back to shore.
- Carry ice picks, 20 penny nails work great and will fit into your pocket or tied to a string and can be run through your sleeve's of your coat for ready access.
- Pack some flares or other type of signaling equipment.
- Somebody in your group should have at least 30 feet of rope to assist in a rescue if necessary.
- Scout the area you will be using. Look for cracks in the ice and pay attention to the weather, especially the wind and water currents, which can quickly change, crack or move the ice. Remember ice is dynamic and is constantly changing under your feet.

The actual cost of these items is minimal. You probably have most of them around the house already.

- Ice Fisherman: Stay clear from navigable shipping channels. Do not set your shanty near wet spots or large cracks in the ice.
- Snowmobilers: Stay sober and transit on established paths. Go only as fast as conditions and your ability permit.
- If you fall through the ice, don't panic. Attempt to get out of the water, do not stand up but roll out and crawl away to safety. You are attempting to distribute your weight over a larger area of ice. Obviously the ice around you is weak, and if you stand up, you could break through the ice again.
- If someone with you falls in, do not approach him or her. Again, the ice around the area is weak. Instead use the rope or anything else that will allow the person to hold on and assist them out of the water. Once out of the water, seek medical attention immediately.

Rumors dental clinic will close untrue

Officials from Dental Clinics North want to assure the public that each of its 10 locations throughout Northern Michigan are open and seeing patients, despite rumors of closings due to cuts to adult Medicaid dental benefits.

Changes in Medicaid dental benefits for adults went into effect on Oct. 1, limiting coverage to emergency treatment only for pain or infection. Non-covered services are available to adults with Medicaid through a reduced fee schedule.

The cuts did not affect Medicaid benefits for children.

According to Linda Yaroch, who directs Dental Clinics North, all locations are open and seeing both children and adults.

"We've had to make some adjustments in staffing and clinic hours with the Medicaid cuts to adults, but we are absolutely committed to providing the very best dental care for people who do not have access to private dentists," she said. "Dental health is not optional health care — it is integral to general health."

New research is confirming links between chronic oral infections and heart and lung diseases, diabetes, and stroke, as well as premature births and low birth-weight babies.

"Dental Clinics North dentists have so many success stories from patients who struggled with excruciating pain from untreated dental problems, or were so embarrassed by their teeth they retreated into their homes, giving up on school or work," Yaroch said. "Dental health truly affects everything about a person — general health, family and social life, productivity at work, even the way we talk, eat, and sleep."

Dental Clinics North accepts many types of insurance coverage in addition to Medicaid, such as Healthy Kids, Healthy Kids Delta Dental (both Delta Premier and Delta Preferred Option), Nursing Home patients, Head Start, and MI-Child, Yaroch said. We also have a small grant to serve low income uninsured clients.

Dental Clinics North is a partnership of local health departments serving a 21 county region of northern Michigan. To schedule an appointment, call (231) 547-0295 or toll-free (877) 321-7070.

Do not give gifts to high school sports teams

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

A generous gift to members of the Charlevoix High School varsity football team by a local man ended up being in violation of a little understood high school sports rule in late October.

According to Charlevoix High School Athletic Director Jim Kanine, the problems started in October when Charlevoix resident Bill Schuiling — known for his contributions to the community and school — offered to buy shoes for varsity football players during an outing at the Charlevoix Cinema.

Schuiling said he told the athletes that he would buy them shoes from Carey Shoes in downtown Charlevoix if it was not against any rules. But, apparently, some of the athletes went ahead and got shoes at the store.

Kanine said according to Michigan High School Athletic Association (MHSSA) rules, no one can give any gifts — regardless of cost — to students for being members of a high school sports team. What this means is Schuiling could not give a gift of shoes to just the football players, but could give a gift of shoes to the entire school.

However, a student can receive an award that has a value up to $25. This could be a plaque or medal at a banquet, but not a gift.

Because of this, the students who received shoes could have become ineligible to play for any other sport for one full year.

"If they are done with athletics, they could probably keep the shoes," Kanine said.

Schuiling said he did not know of the rule when he offered the gift.

"It's a good rule because it starts them off early to know they can't take anything now or later," he said. "I think this rule is needed."

Kanine added, "Schuiling has been very generous to Charlevoix High School. This was not something done to hurt or harm the kids."

Kanine said as soon as he found out about the gift in early November, he and school principal Gary Grundman gathered students from both the varsity and junior varsity teams in the school gym and told them about the athletic association rule.

"At that time, we were worried that a varsity player told a junior varsity player they could get a pair of shoes," he said.

He further told them if they received shoes, they had to return them, purchase them with their own money or donate them to a charity.

Students also were to get proof that they returned the shoes, purchased them or donated them.

> "It's a good rule because it starts them off early to know they can't take anything now or later."
> Bill Schuiling,
> Contributor to the local schools

In the meantime, Kanine said he was contacted by a representative of the MHSAA about the shoe incident. He said the representative was told about the gift by an unidentified person.

After finding out what Kanine had done after he discovered the gift, Kanine said the MHSAA decided against investigating the matter any further.

John E. Roberts, MHSAA executive director, said in a letter to Kanine, "I can't think of any time where a similar problem has been handled any more promptly and professionally than this matter has been dealt with at Charlevoix High School....Because of your actions, we see no reason for this office to be further involved in this matter."

Kanine said, as far as he knows, all of the students have returned the shoes and complied with his order. No basketball players or other high school athletic teams were involved.

"The kids were good about it," he said.

He added this incident serves as a great lesson to the community on gifts to athletes.

"You can not single out a team and give them gifts. If you make it available to all the students in the school, it is not an issue," he said.

Wrestling team does well, despite illnesses

"Suffering with 7 guys out due to illness and injuries we still managed to fill all our weight classes but three. Our freshman wrestlers stepped up to fill the list and gained valuable experience battling in some very tuff rounds," Coach Craig Golovich said.

Wins by pins went to Jed Daman, Jeff Golovich, Zach Scharenbrach, Nathaniel Sotuyo, Travis Burke and Pat Russell.

The Rayders fell to Cheboygan 23-60.

Scoring pins for Charlevoix were Spencer Hankins, Troy Kiernan, Pat Russell and Zach Sharenbroch. Jed Daman and Scott Sladek tallied wins for the Rayders.

The Rayders tied Petoskey 42-42.

Pins for Charlevoix came from Jacob Wimmer, Daman, Golovich and Jaimen Waha. Wins were tallied by Nathaniel Sotuyo, Burk and Chris Aeplebacher.

Charlevoix travels to Frankfort next on Jan. 3.

Two more wins for Rayder basketball team

By ALLEN TELGENHOF
Sports Writer

Charlevoix reeled off two more basketball victories last week, one a blowout non-conference win over Suttons Bay, 74-41, the other a hard-fought Lake Michigan Conference triumph over rival Boyne City, 63-45.

The Rayders led only 19-16 after one quarter against Suttons Bay.

Ben Bergmanns six points and three straight steals by Charlevoix in a minute and a half span keyed a 18-7 second quarter for a 37-23 halftime advantage.

In the third quarter the game became a laugher as the Rayders outscored Suttons Bay, 26-7. Scott Friske scored seven, including a three-point play off a steal of an errant inbound pass. Bergmann tallied six in the stanza.

As a team, Charlevoix was a red-hot 11 for 14 in the quarter. The starters sat for most of the third quarter and all of the fourth but the crowd was electrified by the three blocks of Phil Steen who came off the bench.

Friske led a balanced Rayder effort with 17 points. Bergmann had 12 while Ryan DeYoung and Jared Hunt each tallied 10.

Against Boyne City, the fans were treated to a defensive, physical style of ball from the Ramblers. The strategy kept the game close as Charlevoix led only 13-12 after the first quarter, 26-23 at the half and 40-34 after three periods.

Eventually a 23-11 surge in the fourth quarter put the game away.

Friske had 23 points, 19 rebounds, four steals, three blocks and three assists in a standout all-around effort. Hunt scored 10 points, had four steals and three assists.

Charlevoix (3-0 overall, 1-0 conference) returns to action on Jan. 6, at home against St. Ignace.

Traveling hockey team drops two to Newberry

On Dec 20, the Boyne Area Hockey Paul Bunyan Lanes Midgets hosted a pair of games with Newberry.

Darren Looze scored the lone Boyne goal of the day with an assist from Josh Aown. Bobby Courtright was in goal both games.

Eli Barsy scored a hat trick with three goals; Looze and Justin Conklin each scored two, and Dylan Clark, Josh Aown and Ryan Fields contributed the others.

Assists were given by Britt King, William Brown, Looze and Barsy. Russell Williams, Aown, and Evan Keller gave two each.

DISPUTE

by closing the meeting to public comment and second, that all five commissioners violated the bylaws when they set the hearing without a complete application from Sunnybank.

"Firing" mayor Campbell wasn't the only retaliation talk at the meeting.

Taking legal action against him was also a topic of discussion. Kusina said that in his mind the mayor's accusations constitute slander and he plans to seek legal council to get a professional opinion on the matter.

Charlevoix resident John Hess, who has opposed Sunnybank locating at the north side location, suggested the commission meet with city council and hash the issue out instead of "wrangling it out in the press."

"Take a big gulp, stand back and talk about it," Hess said.

But Kusina said this should have been the mayor's approach out of the gate.

"He should have sat down with us before he made those accusations," Kusina said.

Ed Engstrom, an attorney with Barron and Golski of Charlevoix, representing Sunnybank owners Diane Gillette and Ruth Bellisimo, said, "It upset me when I heard you may be fired for doing your job according to the (zoning) ordinance. The real issue is does Charlevoix need assisted living? It does. Is this the right location? That was to be looked at, at the public hearing. It's supposed to be open government and open government allows for public hearings."

However, Becky Doan, a resident who was told at the Dec. 8 commission meeting she would have her chance to speak at the public hearing, said open government also allows for open discussion.

Doan also chastised the commission for suggesting amendments to the ordinance to suit a development.

"I suggest in the future that when you are talking about an amendment for the whole city, you don't have a site plan in front of you," she said.

Hodgson said that often when plans like the Sunnybank facility come before the commission they act as a catalyst for ordinance amendments, like the one the commission recommended to the council and council shot down, starting this dispute.

The public hearing the commission set for Jan. 12 to hear Sunnybank's special use permit request has been postponed pending an appeal by city manager Mike Wiesner.

This appeal sends the issue of whether or not uses permitted in the city's professional office district, like nursing homes, are allowed in the R-2 residential district to the zoning board of appeals (ZBA).

The ZBA will meet to address this issue at 7 p.m., Jan. 21 in the Coast Guard training room located at 109 Bridge Park Drive in Charlevoix.

NOTICE OF SHOW CAUSE HEARING AND JUDICIAL FORECLOSURE HEARING NON-PAYMENT OF PROPERTY TAXES

On March 1, 2003 real estate with unpaid 2001 and/or prior years property taxes was forfeited to the Charlevoix County Treasurer pursuant to the General Property Tax Act, Public Act 206 of 1893, PA 206, MCL 211.1 to 211.157, as amended.

The State of Michigan is acting as the Foreclosing Governmental Unit in proceedings to foreclose on this property for unpaid property taxes.

There are two hearings scheduled to finalize the foreclosure process. This publication is intended to provide additional notice to parties of interest in these parcels as to the nature, time, and location of these hearings.

A Show Cause Hearing is scheduled for Jan 19, 2004 - Feb 2, 2004 at 430 W Allegan, First Floor, Lansing MI 48922.
Any person with an interest in the property forfeited to the county treasurer may appear at the show cause hearing and redeem that property or show cause why absolute title to that property should not vest in the Foreclosing Governmental Unit.

A Judicial Foreclosure Hearing is scheduled for 2:15 PM, February 13, 2004 at the 33rd Circuit Court, 301 State St, Charlevoix MI 49720.
At this hearing the Foreclosing Governmental Unit shall ask that the court enter a judgment foreclosing the property as requested in the petition for foreclosure. A person claiming an interest in a parcel of property set forth in the petition for foreclosure, who desires to contest that petition, must file written objections with the clerk of the circuit court and serve those objections on the State of Michigan, the Foreclosing Governmental Unit. The docket number of the petition is 03-1940-19-CZ.

If you are a person with an interest in property being foreclosed:

- You have the right to redeem this parcel from the foreclosure process by payment of all forfeited unpaid taxes, interest, penalties, and fees prior to the expiration of the redemption period. You should contact the Charlevoix County Treasurer for the amount required to redeem.
- You may lose your interest in the property as a result of the foreclosure proceeding.
- The title to the property shall vest absolutely in the Foreclosing Governmental Unit unless all forfeited unpaid delinquent taxes, interest, penalties, and fees are paid within 21 days after judgment is entered in the foreclosure proceedings.

PLEASE NOTE :

The following list represents parties that appear to have title, lien, or other apparent rights to the parcels being foreclosed by the Foreclosing Governmental Unit.

This notice is required to be given by law, even if the party no longer claims or desires an interest if it appears they hold any undischarged, apparent, or potential title or lien right to the property.

Listing of a party does NOT necessarily indicate that they are the owner of a parcel, or that they are liable for the property taxes.

This list is NOT an offering of property for sale. These parcels are NOT being sold, auctioned, or otherwise made available by virtue of this notice.

There is no procedure for purchasing these parcels from the Foreclosing Governmental Unit at this point in the foreclosure proceedings. Those parcels that are foreclosed and not redeemed may become available at public auction in July, September, and November of 2004. These parcels remain the property of their current owner until redemption rights have expired. No party should make any attempt to inspect or enter upon these parcels assuming them to be for sale. This may constitute trespassing and subject the offender to criminal prosecution. The street address of the parcels listed is based on local records and is not guaranteed to be the actual location of the property.

The amount due listed indicates the balance which was due as of forfeiture on March 1, 2003. The current amount required to redeem must be obtained from the Charlevoix County Treasurer, as additional penalties, fees, and interest have accrued since forfeiture.

Applications available for Zonta award

The Charlevoix Area Zonta Club is currently accepting applications for its annual Young Women in Public Affairs Award, which awards $500 to an outstanding young woman living in Charlevoix County and currently enrolled in a secondary school.

Applications are available at the counselor's office at all Charlevoix County High Schools or may be obtained by calling Maura A. Snabes at (231) 547-9969. The deadline for receiving applications is Feb. 1, 2004 to the Charlevoix Area Zonta Club c/o Maura A. Snabes, P.O. Box 633, Charlevoix, MI 49720.

The winner will be announced at the Zonta meeting in late February.

The recipient of the local award will also have her application forwarded to the District, which awards an additional $500 to the district winner.

Cayla Tinney from East Jordan High School was named the winner of last year's Charlevoix Area Zonta Young Women in Public Affairs Award.

The Zonta Young Women in Public Affairs Award competition is designed to encourage women to pursue decision-making positions in their communities in order to impact the policies that affect the lives of women locally and throughout the world. The Zonta Young Women in Public Affairs program looks to the young women of today who will be the leaders of tomorrow.

Zonta is a worldwide service organization of executives in business and the professions working together to advance the status of women. The Charlevoix Area Zonta Young Women in Public Affairs Award is one of the many programs for young women sponsored by Charlevoix Area Zonta.

FLU

when symptoms include diarrhea and vomiting. But she said this is not the true blue flu, it's an indication of a gastrointestinal problem.

The real flu lasts about five to seven days and includes respiratory symptoms.

Daly is hoping that when schools let out last Friday, the over two-week holiday break will be enough to stomp out the cycle there.

But Daly said she doesn't expect instances of infection to taper off totally and is anticipating another wave to hit during its usual season, later this winter.

While some have died already this season from the bug — none locally — it generally claims lives every year and Daly said this strain is no more deadly than any other.

"The flu is the flu. It's not pleasant when you have it, that's for sure," she said.

She thinks the demand for the vaccine, which includes many people who haven't had the shot in the past, is based more on fear than on the actual threat of the problem. That fear she said, doesn't stem from the flu itself but from secondary complications like pneumonia that can result if you don't give yourself rest and time to get healthy.

However, these complications associated with the flu prompted a rush nationwide for the sought after flu vaccine.

"They're nervous about an epidemic, an outbreak or a pandemic," Daly said.

Charlevoix Area Hospital and Pine River Medical Center have tapped their flu vaccine supplies and the health agency, which has five offices throughout the county, has only enough left to fill appointments.

According to Daly, early this fall the department was giving flu shots to just about anyone who wanted one.

It is generally suggested that people get the shot in October or November. But two weeks ago, they were given orders to only vaccinate children with high risk diseases, healthy children ages six months through 23 months and high risk adults.

These groups are those that will have a tough time getting over the flu without complications.

The department tried to order more of the vaccine from its provider, Aventis, but were told there were no vaccinations available.

"It's pretty amazing. They usually throw away 80,000 doses a year and this year there isn't one extra dose," Daly said.

As the community weathers the flu season, Daly suggests people stay healthy by frequently washing your hands and steering clear of those who have the flu.

If you start to feel ill she said to drink plenty of fluids, rest and to avoid crowds and cover your face when you cough and sneeze to avoid spreading the problem.

City fight heating up

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

The battle between Mayor Gabe Campbell and five city planning commissioners is heating up as the commissioners fire back.

Talk of a slander lawsuit, rumors of recall and a possible investigation have all happened since Dec. 15 when Mayor Campbell announced at a city council meeting that he planned to remove chairman Dennis Kusina and commissioners John Campbell, Francis "Brownie" Flanders, Steve Bennett and Richard Hodgson, from the planning commission.

The mayor made this decision after the planning commission's Dec. 8 meeting, when the five members voted to set a public hearing to listen to a special use permit request for Sunnybank Retirement Community, an assisted living facility.

The proposed facility would be

New Year's resolutions, new police officer and city clerk job

What's on tap for 2004

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

As Charlevoix rings in the new year, city and township officials are looking forward to another busy 12 months.

In the city of Charlevoix, the planning commission and city council are planning to work on the master plan and zoning ordinance revisions. Other infrastructure projects will also be on the city's plate but those projects have not yet been identified.

City manager Mike Wiesner said the community will get a more clear picture of 2004 projects in about a month when the 2004-2005 budget is approved.

The city's plight to clarify its master plan and zoning ordinance will also be pursued in Eveline Township in 2004 as the planning commission works on finishing updating and rewriting the township's master plan and zoning ordinance.

Township supervisor Dan Skrzczkoski said work in 2004 will also include improvements to Ferry Road on the west side of the township.

While Eveline Township officials will be busy with township projects, they will also likely be spotted in the city of Charlevoix where the 33rd Circuit Court is located. Skrzczkoski said he is hoping the new year will mark the end of a lawsuit filed in What about flying south?

This flock of ducks was surprised to see a human face at Depot Beach and quickly flew away. While northern Michigan's winter climate is not meant for ducks, large flocks often stay.

Corrections

In a story on Island Airways receiving the maintenance contract for the municipal airport on page 22 of last week's edition of the Charlevoix Courier, it should have stated the airport contract does not bind Island Airways in any manner to provide air service to Beaver Island. The contract only applies to the services its provide the City of Charlevoix concerning the operation of the airport (plowing, mowing, fuel services & etc.). The airline portion of the business and the operation of the Charlevoix Airport under the FBO contract are two different operations and are only linked because Island Airways use personnel in dual-purpose roles. In no fashion does the city of Charlevoix contract Island Airways to provide air service to Beaver Island.

Furthermore, in a story on page 11 of last week's edition of the Courier, it should have said the anti-Wal-Mart group This is Our Town's next meeting is 7 p.m., Jan. 5.

Not many local workers on city hall

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

A small percentage of money being spent to renovate Charlevoix's city hall is staying in town.

City Mayor Gabe Campbell, who is also a member of the city hall renovation committee, said, "We probably should have done a better job insisting local contractors get the business."

The project, which is costing the city $2.067 million, is being worked on by 26 subcontractors. Of those, only one is a local outfit — Key Controls, owned by Charlevoix resident Ted Felter, who is handling the electrical needs for the project.

When the project was in the planning stages, members of city council and the renovation committee voiced their interest in keeping the project in local hands. But they didn't have the final say as to who would get the work — the general contractor, Petrie Construction, of East Jordan did.

According to Al Petrie, co-owner of Petrie Construction, before they bid the project with the city they asked for bids from subcontractors. And in most cases selected the low bidder for the project.

When they have had a problem with a company in the past, something looks wrong with the bid or they are unfamiliar with the company, they'll take another direction.

Petrie also said that while the bulk of the laborers on the project are not from Charlevoix, some other Charlevoix businesses that are not under an official contract have been used.

Swanson K & D, Inc. has done some excavating work at the site, Manthei has supplied cement for the project and Charlevoix resident and business owner Dan Gilmore is doing the tile work.

Supplies are also commonly bought in town. Petrie has an account with Wolohan Lumber where block and lumber for the job often comes from. They also have an account at ACE Hardware, where he said he is buying supplies for the project daily.

Petrie said businesses are further supported by workers who often eat and gas up in Charlevoix.

The project started in April and according to city hall project liaison Jim Shull, work is about a month behind.

City staff members who are currently working at the former post office off Mason Street were scheduled to move back over to the renovated building in

The playground that is Charlevoix politics

Jeremy McBain

What a year 2003 was! There was so much to talk about, so many issues to fill our minds and so much to laugh at. And the start of 2004 already promises to be as exciting as 2003.

To start off the new year, here are a few of my thoughts on some recent items in the news. Enjoy.

Council/Planning Commission

Talk about a grand comedy. Lately, city council and the planning commission are acting like kids on an elementary school playground, especially after Mayor Gabe Campbell said he wanted to fire several of the planning commission members.

The members incurred the wrath of Campbell when they tried to have a public hearing on a proposed assisted living facility on the north side — even though the council voted against a public hearing on a similar issue and the city attorney suggested the planning commission not take that sort of action. It almost seemed like the planning commission was a teenager sneaking out of the house at night.

So the mayor, incensed by this, said he wanted to fire the planning commissioners. The commissioners fired back by saying the mayor should be fired and one commissioner, Dennis Kusina, complained he had been slandered and threatened a lawsuit.

However, Kusina as a planning commissioner is a public figure, so getting a successful slander lawsuit is almost impossible. So it seems like Kusina is just blowing hot air, as have many people in this hilarious mess of local politics.

To make things more interesting, there has been talk in town of recalling Campbell over this.

Basically it is and was a good old fashioned power struggle — which is always fun to watch.

Now, it's time to calm down folks.

First, our public officials need to start acting like adults. This is not recess, this is real life.

Second, while this assisted living project is probably a good project for the north side, the planning commissioners should not have defied the council and the city attorney by announcing a public hearing on the matter. While it is a good project, the site it is proposed for is not zoned for it. Why do we keep rezoning things around here? Why can't developers actually find appropriately zoned land for their projects?

Third, Kusina — you are a public figure. There is no slander. If you can't deal with it, don't volunteer or work in government. Planning commission — you are not an elected body and serve as the will of the mayor, so get over it. City council — get off the power trip and learn to play nice with others who have different views than you. Mayor Campbell — firing most of the planning commission is a little harsh. Please rethink it.

Fourth, I will not support any recall of the city council or any elected official unless there is solid evidence of wrong-doing. And by wrong-doing, I mean breaking the law.

Airport

Not surprisingly, the city decided to keep Island Airways as its contractor at the Charlevoix Municipal Airport. While Island Airways has had some trouble in the past with violating some portions of its contract, it has run the airport pretty well.

Island Airways is a good local company and has been good to the airport with friendly people to help you out.

However, it seems strange to me that City Manager Mike Wiesner was so against bidding out for the services and maintenance contract. When he would argue against it, he would say the city would lose money if it performed those duties. But that is not what the argument was. The argument was, why don't we see what other companies out there would charge the city to maintain the airport instead of just dealing with Island Airways?

What was the harm in looking around for the best deal first? Wiesner never really answered that.

Heck, the best deal probably was Island Airways, but because the contract was never bid out, how would we know?

Drunk driving

You may have noticed our little investigation into drunk driving a few weeks ago. In light of the lower blood alcohol limit that was imposed this fall and the holiday season, we felt this was the perfect time to address this issue.

We hope our results showed that it is safer to not drink at all if you are going to drive. You do not know how the alcohol will affect you and it is really easy to reach the legal limit for the average person.

And yes, I did feel horrible later that night. But, I did it all for you, the readers.

Edith Gilbert

'Behind the news'

What delightful stories come to mind when old friends get together to ring in the New Year!

It was great fun to reminisce with Mike Bergeon, when he dropped by for a visit. Old-timers remember when his grandfather owned the men's clothing store on Bridge Street, which is where the Koucky Gallery is now located. Next door was the A& P grocery store, run by Charles Bleha, a fine gentleman, who served on the board of the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

As a child, Mike recalls hanging out after school in both places. His grandfather had a large safe in his store that fascinated Mike and he spent hours trying to find the right combination to open it. One day he was lucky and the door swung open. Inside the safe was a box of sales slips marked "Unpaid."

Mike asked his grandfather, "Why are you keeping these unpaid bills?" and he was told that Fred Cartier, the tailor, who did all the alterations for Mr. Bergeon, owed these bills for merchandise bought in the store.

"Fred has a stack of unpaid bills from me as well as for alterations that he made for my customers."

"Why are you two keeping these bills?" Mike asked and his grandfather replied, "Because that's the way to do business!"

Charles Bleha also had an odd way of doing business. When someone came into his grocery store and wanted to buy a can of peas, Bleha had to reach high up on a shelf to get a can down for his customer. If the can sold for 12 cents he would say, "You can have three cans for 36 cents." No one ever challenged his offer!

Now it's my turn to remind Bergeon of Charlevoix's own little Enron scandal that took place during the Great Depression.

The late Bob Bridge told me that when he was president of the Charlevoix County State Bank, there were only two banks in town. Once a year a bank inspector would come to Charlevoix and if his bank was short of cash, he would call on Archie Livingston at the Charlevoix State Savings Bank and borrow enough money to balance the books.

Gilbert shares some funny local stories

Then when the state inspector visited Archie's bank, the money would be returned and both banks were approved for another year!

And what about the bank story Mike Holmes told me that took place when he had the Appletree Gift Shop in its old location on Bridge Street? Mike needed to make a quick bank deposit, so he locked up the store and ran across the street to the bank. When he returned and unlocked the door, he found two female customers still happily browsing among the merchandise, unaware that they had been locked in the Appletree!

But the most unusual scene that I ever witnessed took place at the lovely Weathervane Restaurant which the talented late Earl Young designed in the mid 1960s

While having lunch, I heard a commotion in the kitchen and saw the chef in his big white hat, chase Earl Young clear across the length of the dining room, brandishing a large butcher knife! It seems Earl had complained to the chef that the logs hadn't been laid in the fireplace. It wasn't long thereafter Stafford Smith took over the management of the restaurant!

If you, too, have some cool local stories to share with our readers, please contact me. Happy New Year!

Letters to the editor

Thank you

Editor:

From the Charlevoix Community Christmas Project, a big thank you to all of the many groups, organizations, churches, clubs, and school children who helped make our 2003 Christmas Project a resounding success.

We hate to name names for fear of leaving someone out, but there are at least two groups who should be named and thanked individually.

First, we would especially like to thank the American Legion Post 226 for allowing us to use their building. It was roomy enough for our project and handy for people to access.

Also our gratitude to the Marines and the Toys for Tots campaign, which helped our project immensely.

We would also like to thank all of those who donated money, food, gifts, and their time to make Christmas a little merrier for 163 families and well over 200 children in the Charlevoix School District.

Sponsored by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association, this project is such a worthwhile effort and affords a wonderful Christmas for many people, as well as providing an ecumenical outreach for the members of many churches in Charlevoix and a time of fun, joy, and sharing.

We thank all of you in Charlevoix who helped with this effort in 2003 and wish you a Blessed, Peaceful, Joy-filled New Year!

Editor:

I am a fifth grade student, and my class is studying America and American history. We have been asked to write research reports on one of the states in America. I have chosen to report on Michigan.

The report will cover topics such as history, culture, geography, jobs and places of interest. The reason I am writing is to ask if you would publish my letter in your paper.

I am hoping some of your readers will write and tell me about their experiences while living in and working in Michigan. I live in Southern California and am sure many things about Michigan are different from where I live. Also, if any of your readers find time to reply, it would be great if they would enclose a copy of my published letter.

Thank you very much for taking time for my request. I appreciate any help your readers might send.

Sheriff's Office warns of the dangers of inhalants

Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater would like to educate Charlevoix County parents to the dangers of the use of inhalants among school aged children.

Inhalants are breathable chemical vapors that produce mind-altering effects. Ten or fifteen seconds of inhaling, also known as "huffing," "bagging," "sniffing" and "wanging" produces a high that lasts a few minutes or several hours if the inhalants are taken repeatedly.

Young people are likely to abuse inhalants, in part because they are readily available, inexpensive and are found in virtually any home. Common inhalants include: Spray paint, whipped cream, nail polish remover, oven cleaner, air freshener, felt-tipped pens, cooking spray, furniture polish, hair spray, butane, gasoline, glues and adhesives, rust removers, typewriter correction fluid and deodorant sprays.

Inhalants are sniffed or inhaled directly from a container or may be sprayed into a bag or an empty soft drink can and inhaled; or they may be sprayed onto a cloth or piece of clothing and inhaled deeply.

Warning signs parents may watch for include: avoidance and isolation, irritability, signs of paint or other products on the face or fingers, mood changes, decreased hygiene, headaches, nausea, vomiting, loss of appetite, sores near or in the mouth, slurred or slow speech, dizziness and chemical breath odors.

Over time, inhalants can cause serious damage such as loss of concentration, short-term memory loss, hearing loss, muscle spasms, permanent brain damage, severe damage to the heart, liver and kidneys and even death.

If you suspect your child or someone you know is and inhalant abuser, contact a local drug rehabilitation center, the National Inhalant Prevention Coalition: (800-269-4237) or www.inhalants.org or call the sheriff's office for assistance.

Ask God for help with success in the new year

Beacons of Blessing

By FR. JIM GUNN
Rector, Christ Episcopal Church

At our church we just recently started a "new year."

In liturgical churches the year starts four Sundays before Christmas Day. That is the definition of the start of the Season of Advent, which is the first season in the church year. Advent, of course, means "coming" and it is the period when we focus on the first coming of Jesus as a baby in Bethlehem. We also look forward to when he comes again in triumph and great glory to claim his church.

Considering the concept of starting a year made me think about other types of years. The so-called fiscal year usually starts on July 1 (for reasons that I have never been able to figure out). That's the time when you work out your assets and expenses and see if you are going to be able to continue to do business in the coming year.

Of course, we also have the calendar year, which starts on Jan. 1. That is undoubtedly the most well known type of year. Whatever type of year we are considering, each new beginning can make us think of a fresh start — whether it is beginning again on the story of salvation or making new business plans or just plain changing the number of the calendar year.

The fresh start of the calendar year has always generated the idea of starting over in life, too, in order to make life different (and hopefully better). That is where we hear of the whole idea of "New Years Resolutions."

Unfortunately New Years Resolutions have had a pretty bad reputation.

Successful execution of such resolutions seldom make it out of January. I believe the reason for the short life of those promises to yourself is that they are conceived and acted on with the wrong kind of attitude.

It has been my experience that people see the year coming to an end and they think about what they did and did not accomplish. Especially they think of the things they did that they judge were wrong. They then come to an intellectual conclusion to do better.

The next step is to stir up all their will power and courage and determination — and make their list of what it is that they will do right in the coming year. The trouble is that all of that is done in their own strength and, in the end result, a person's purely human strength is never truly sufficient to the task of changing yourself for the better.

I believe that a healthier way of approaching a fresh start at the beginning of any kind of year is to follow this sequence.

First, just acknowledge that there were places where you failed to do what you should. Recognize that your own strength was insufficient to make a difference and it will continue to be insufficient.

The critical element is to then turn to God and ask for His help in doing better. Having placed your life and hopes in His hands, you need to leave them there. I heard a little story about a farmer. It pointed out that his crop would not be very good if he periodically pulled up his plants to see if the roots were growing!

It is only in working with God and letting Him take the lead that we will have any kind of success in making a fresh start. Let me summarize by leaving you with a verse from Holy Scripture.

This is Colossians 3:17 - "And whatever you do, whether in word or deed, do it all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God the Father through him."

May you succeed in your New Years Resolutions because you live them out with God.

Obituaries

Betty R. Cole: May 23, 1920 - Dec. 23, 2003

A memorial service was Saturday, Dec. 27, at the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix. The Rev. Mary Willis officiated and interment will take place in Brookside Cemetery in the spring.

Betty was born May 23, 1920, in Charlevoix, the daughter of P.R. and Phoebe (Smith) Ross.

She graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1937, and attended Beauty School in Detroit. In 1943, she enlisted in the Woman's Army Air Corps to become the first woman from Charlevoix to enter the Air WACs.

She served as a link trainer operator, and also sang in army base bands. She married Rod Creede on Dec. 2, 1944, and he died on Dec. 28, 1978.

Betty's love of music led her to form different singing groups throughout the years, the latest being the Betty Cole Singers in Charlevoix in which many local vocalists performed. On November 29, 1969, Betty married David F. Cole, and he preceded her in death on Aug. 19, 1996.

Betty was a member of the first Congregational Church in Charlevoix. She enjoyed gardening and the company of her cats.

Betty is survived by her son, Michael D. Creede of Cadillac; daughter, Bensie C. (Kurt) Benghauser of Traverse City; grandchildren, Hans, Gretchen, Joshua, Alicia and Laurel; great-grandchildren, Annah, and Marcella; stepson, Duncan Cole of Saline; stepdaughter, Jennifer Ripman of Boston, Mass; step-grandchildren, Peter, Aaron, Michelle, Ben, and Seth; brother, Lyle (Barbara) Ross of Boyne City; sister, Marijane Johnston of Sanford.

.Memorial contributions may be directed to the First Congregational Church music program. The family is being served by the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

Whitefish threatened by lack of food

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Dave Clapp, manager of the local Department of Natural Resources fishery, reported that the diporeia population that whitefish feed on could drop off and endanger the native fish population.

A decline in an aquatic organism that whitefish feast on could have an economic impact in Charlevoix.

According to Dave Clapp, manager at the Department of Natural Resources Fisheries Research Station in Charlevoix, over the past three years scientists have found that the presence of diporeia, an amphipod similar to a shrimp, is declining in the Great Lakes.

While he said this decline is less prevalent in the northern part of Lake Michigan, it is a reality here too. And the loss of this little shrimp like creature could mean big problems.

Charlevoix's signature fish, the whitefish, relies on the diporeia as its main food source. Without food for the local favorite fish, the populations could bottom out, impacting restaurants across town and the local fishery John Cross Fisheries, who rely on it as a big seller.

Clapp said that so far in his work at the fishery he has not seen or heard that the local whitefish population is declining, but changes in some fish have been noted.

"The condition of a few fish hasn't been as good — they aren't as fat as normal," Clapp said.

Jackie Cross, of Cross Fisheries, said its been business as usual over there. He said anglers have not mentioned any decline in the local whitefish population and the fish that have been caught haven't been any skinnier than usual.

But it may just be a matter of time before the same effects of the diporeia shortages that have been seen in the southern part of Lake Michigan, make their way north.

"Long-term there is a concern about the impact on reproduction and future hatches of (white)fish," Clapp said.

The likely blame for the finned fiasco is the exotic species called the zebra muscle, which has a thriving population locally. Clapp said initial investigations into the drop-off of diporeia have shown zebra muscles, who were brought to the Great Lakes via ballast water in ships, are likely the problem.

Diporeia rely on phytoplankton that rains down to the lake bottom and Clapp said zebra muscles filter that phytoplankton out.

"So they're competing for the same food," he said of the zebra muscles and the diporeia.

Other species that may also suffer from the loss of diporeia include chubs and perch.

While scientists have not yet found a way to rid the lakes of the pesky zebra muscle some may wonder if finding something that eats them is the answer.

Clapp said another exotic species that has made its way into the Great Lakes via the ballast water of boats, the round goby, does eat zebra muscles. However, the goby also feasts on fish eggs of some of our native species, further threatening their stronghold in their native water.

Local fishermen may have noticed the effect of the gobys in near shore waters where Clapp said numbers of smaller, bait fish, like darters and scoulpins, have decreased. These native fish are competing with the gobys for food and nesting sites.

Clapp said that if the diporeia issue starts to have a noticeable major impact in Charlevoix, one answer to keeping a thriving whitefish population in Lake Michigan may be for the local station to stock the fish. Clapp said thus far that hasn't been necessary, because they reproduce naturally in sufficient numbers to sustain themselves.

"But in the long-term, who knows, we may have to look at doing something like that," he said.

The Courier's top 10 stories of 2004

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The year 2003 was filled with changes for the city of Charlevoix.

Readers of the Charlevoix Courier found a city and the surrounding townships facing many new and exciting issues. Every week it seemed there was something else that would greatly effect the lives of the people in this area.

From those, the Courier has compiled a top ten list of news stories in Charlevoix.

They are:

10) Eveline township recall — Arguments that started over a wind turbine generator ordinance in Eveline Township came to a head in May 2003 with a recall election. The recall proposed the removal of township supervisor Dan Skreczkoski and clerk Don Hayden.

While the recall started in part from the wind turbine ordinance that some in the township were unhappy about, supporters also said Hayden had "shown deliberate disregard for the zoning ordinance and citizens of Eveline Township" and Skreezkoski "misrepresented the township residents." They were particularly upset with Skreczkoski who they claimed suggested a proposed site for wind turbines be zoned for modular homes.

However, the people of the township were not mad enough to vote out these two officials and both Skreczkoski and Hayden retained their jobs.

9) City hall renovation — Work renovating and expanding the Charlevoix City Hall started early last summer. The $2.067 million project will be completed in four phases, the first of which was renovations to the old Charlevoix Post Office on Mason Street that is being used by city employees as a temporary city hall.

The second phase is taking place now, as an addition on the hall has been built and city offices, the basement and meeting rooms are being renovated.

Phase three of the project will include minor changes to the post office to accommodate the police and fire departments. And in phase four, police and fire personnel will move to the old post office while their quarters are renovated.

Construction is expected to be completed by June 2004.

8) Middle school bought — The city of Charlevoix bought the former Charlevoix Middle School property from Charlevoix Public Schools in November after a long debate with the community about what would come of the property.

Many people wanted to save the building which was built in the 1920s—but no use for it could be determined. The Charlevoix Public Library soon stepped forward looking for a new site. The middle school property was its first choice but later they found greater community support in renovating and expanding the old school.

The library has not yet bought the school property from the city, but are planning to pending the passing of a bond proposal in June of 2004.

7) Airport contract — Charlevoix resident Dave Scott questioned negotiations between Island Airways and the city concerning the renewal of the company's expired contract with the Charlevoix airport in late spring.

The city had been negotiating a new five year Fixed Based Operators Agreement with the airline to perform maintenance functions at the airport. Scott was upset that the city decided against bidding out the $7,000 a year contract.

In response, City Manager Mike Wiesner said by working with Island Airways the city actually saves money.

But, Scott insisted that the city should see what other operators could offer before just sticking with Island Airways. Plus, he said the city law states any project over $20,000 must be bid out.

However, City Attorney Jim Young said that is not the case.

After negotiating through most of the year on the contract, the city council voted to give the contract to Island Airways once again.

6) Planning Commission/City Council fight — A power struggle in the city of Charlevoix between the Charlevoix City Council and the Charlevoix Planning Commission came to light in November.

The struggle started over an assisted living ordinance for the city. After a series of public hearings on creating an assisted living ordinance for the R-1 district, that met a lot of resistance from residents, the Charlevoix City Council voted in November against continuing the discussion any further.

However, at the next planning commission meeting, an attorney for a proposed assisted living facility announced he had found a "loophole" in the city ordinance allowing a special use permit for assisted living in the R-1 district. The planning commission, against the advice of its attorney, voted to have a public hearing on the matter.

Because of this, Charlevoix Mayor Gabe Campbell announced in early December that he would be firing planning commissioners Dennis Kusina, John Campbell, Francis "Brownie" Flanders, Richard Hodgson and Steve Bennett. Mayor Campbell said he made this decision because he felt these commissioners had violated bylaws with their actions and the commissioners should not have gone against the advice of the city attorney.

Mayor Campbell has to write a letter with the official charges against the commissioners and then they have 10 days to appeal.

In the meantime, the planning commissioners in the hot seat have fired back at the mayor, saying he is the one violating city bylaws and should be removed. One commissioner, Kusina, has even claimed the mayor slandered him and he is threatening to sue.

5) Assisted living ordinance — An ordinance change that would allow assisted living facilities in residential districts with a special use permit caused a lot of controversy this year.

The issue started in the spring with a proposed development a facility on the north side, called Sunnybank. Residents living in this area started attending the planning commission meetings to voice their disapproval of the project, but it was determined that the city did not have wording in its zoning ordinance for assisted living facilities.

Because of this, the planning commission started having public hearings on amending the zoning ordinance to include assisted living facilities in residential areas. At those hearings, many residents spoke out against having the facilities in residential areas, saying it would be too dense.

In the meantime, residents also spoke out to city council members who, in November, voted against having a public hearing on the zoning ordinance change — effectively killing it.

However, an attorney for a proposed assisted living facility on the north side of town announced at a planning commission meeting in late November, that he had found a "loophole" in the city law that allowed the developments with a special use permit.

Therefore, the planning commission voted to open public hearings in the matter, which led to the mayor saying he was going to fire many of the commissioners.

The issue has now been sent to the Zoning Board of Appeals for a hearing.

4) Castle Farms renovated — After two years of planning and hard work, the historical site Castle Farms, on M-66, was restored to its original architectural design in early May.

Castle Farms was built in 1918 as a livestock farm for the Loeb family. As time progressed, uses of the site strayed from farming and included a concert venue, an outdoor event space and a broasted chicken vendor.

But, then the Muellers bought the property and started to return it to its original grandeur.

Now, with one season under their belts, the Muellers are ready for more. This fall they announced $3 million in further renovations at Castle Farms, including year-round covered space that can be used for conventions and conferences.

3) Appletree building to be torn down — In an announcement over the summer, the new owners of the Appletree Building, Jerry Rutter and Scott Zager, both of Elk Rapids, said they will be tearing down the old Earl Young building and replace it with a three story retail and residential structure.

But, after Charlevoix residents and visitors reacted in anger at the plan, the owners said they would give the building to whoever wanted to move it from the site. That offer was accepted by Steven and Annemarie Roby of Bloomfield Hills.

The Roby's wanted to take the current Appletree building and put it on their property located on the north side of town. However, this plan also ran into trouble when the Roby's neighbors objected to having the structure near their homes.

After several meetings on the matter, it was finally determined that the building itself could not be saved and the Roby's will simply "recreate" a portion of the building on their property. This was partly because of objections by neighbors and because it was discovered the Appletree building would not survive a move from its current location.

Until a new building is built, the owner of the Appletree business, Mike Holmes, which was located in the building, has moved to a temporary location just down the street. Holmes does not own the building and has no part in the plans to demolish it.

2) Wal-Mart — After it was first reported in June 2002 that a company with ties to Wal-Mart was looking for property in the area, Wal-Mart representatives announced their plans to build a supercenter south of town on US-31, near Marion Center Road in March 2003.

Company representatives said they wanted to build a supercenter in Charlevoix based on sales numbers at its Petoskey supercenter which indicated several Charlevoix people shopped there.

The company representatives met with Charlevoix Township representatives to present a conceptual plan in March 2003. At that meeting, township representatives objected to portions of the Wal-Mart plan which would have diverted portions of Stover Creek.

Wal-Mart representatives reworked the plans and returned to the township with another conceptual plan in September 2003. However, residents of Charlevoix and the surrounding area turned up en-mass to speak out against the project.

Residents even formed a group to fight the construction of the Wal-Mart supercenter, pointing out there is already a supercenter in Petoskey, the Wal-Mart will significantly hurt local businesses and change the character of the town and the Wal-Mart would damage the environment. The group is called "This is Our Town."

However, Wal-Mart is currently still pursuing a supercenter in Charlevoix Township. An official meeting has not yet been scheduled.

1) Marina gets 75 percent funding — In a surprise decision in December, the Michigan Waterways Commission voted to fund 75 percent of the city of Charlevoix's marina renovation project — which would equal about $6.8 million.

Usually, the commission pays for 50 percent of a project.

However, it is unknown when the commission will be able to get the money it has committed to pay, thanks to a tight budget created with $8 million that was taken away by former Governor John Engler from the commission's budget.

Because of this, the marina project will likely be done in phases. In September of 2004, construction on a new bulkhead and dock system may begin at a cost of $4.8 million — the most expensive portion of the project.

Also included in the project is a new marina support facility, harbormaster's office and a walkout seating area and fish pond, in addition to park improvements.

Thankful

Editor:

I have a lot to be thankful for this Christmas.

I live in one of the most beautiful towns in Michigan — Charlevoix. We have a good bus, the Charlevoix County Transit that helps me get around. I can also go to the Learning Lab in East Jordan and the remodeled public library in Boyne City.

I am also thankful for the food pantry, the soup kitchen and all the people in Charlevoix that support it and help with it. Most of the churches take part, including the methodist, congregationalist, community reformed, St. Mary's and other organizations. The Rainbow Shoppe is run by the various churches in town. A person can get a warm coat, a good book to read or children's clothes at the second hand shop.

The Senior Center is a good place to have a good homemade meal. Susan Mossman, Bev Boss, Ellen Zienert and Pen Pennington and Mrs. Bergman and several at St. Mary's have given several hours helping at the soup kitchen and are very good cooks. Many others have contributed their time and talents.

The Charlevoix Public Library has been helpful if I needed an interlibrary loan or to find something on the computer.

Birdies, United Methodist Church and Bible Baptist have always helped me in my time of need. Arlene Staley and others from Bible Baptist and United Methodist have always found a ride to church for me if I needed one. Small towns are like that.

Merry Christmas and Happy New Years

Donations apprechiated

Editor:

I would like to thank the members of our local Community Christmas Programs including; Ruth Witenski, Mary Helen Riggle, Ferne Finch, Kay Woehlert, Kathy Reid, Bev Boss, Ione Baum, Kay Smith, Deb Gelderblom, Ardith Hawley, Jean Rivard and Connie Roberts to name a few.

I would also like to thank Jerry Walker, Bob Nolan, and Russ Bolt whose efforts for the Toys for Tots campaign help in our crusade as well! For those that are not familiar with these programs, they include and are set up in East Jordan, Boyne City and Charlevoix and are a team of very dedicated individuals who put countless hours into ensuring that the needy families in our area are taken care of during the holiday season. They work year-round gathering toys, blankets, gifts, food and various other donations to provide a joyful Christmas to those less fortunate.

Without these teams of wonderful individuals, my job as the Charlevoix-Emmet Community Resource Coordinator would be impossible.

I would also like to extend my gratitude for those who donated coats, hats and mittens during our Coats for Kids drive. What an amazing success!

We collected over 300 coats this winter and we are still distributing to those in need. To the various other individuals who donated money to our agency to help those in need, I appreciate your generosity as well.

Among other things we were able to help are foster children receive gifts and make their seasons brighter as well!

During this season of giving and holiday joy, I felt it was most important to recognize the people who make it happen. Thank you again for your tireless effort, generous donations and kind hearts.

Happy Holiday's to you and yours.

Merchants end season about even

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Merchants in Charlevoix who were hoping for a green Christmas this year may have been a little disappointed when Santa arrived and sales were down.

But registers have been ringing in the days leading up to the new year.

Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce Director Jacqueline Merta,said the shopping season kicked of with the merchants open house Dec. 6. After talking to retailers, she said the event ended with mixed reviews, with some merchants praising the day as a total success while others said sales were flat.

Merta said she hasn't followed up with merchants now that Christmas is over, but is hoping last minute shoppers came to Charlevoix.

But according to Jackie Dipert, owner of The Clothing Company, the two days leading up to Christmas were "remarkably slow."

Mike Holmes, owner of the Appletree, realized the same drop off in sales just before Christmas day.

However, Jim Berlage, owner of the Bridge Street Book Shop, said books were on the last minute shopping list of many people. His best day of the month was Christmas Eve.

Both Holmes and Dipert attribute the lack of last minute shoppers at their stores to unusually good weather.

"People were able to travel as far away as Grand Rapids to shop — it was nice so you could go anywhere," Holmes said.

Dipert said the consistently good weather also allowed people to shop regularly, so there wasn't a need for that last minute rush.

Regardless of the last minute rush before the holiday, the consensus among most merchants is that post Christmas shoppers are out in force.

"After Christmas has been very good," Dipert said.

Merta said the New Year's holiday brings skiers and shoppers to town and both Dipert and Holmes said the markdowns many retailers are offering are bringing shoppers from in and out of town into the stores.

"It's a big week right after Christmas through New Year's," Merta said.

With the modest pre-Christmas sales and the brawny post-Christmas turnaround, many merchants said they are about even.

But a strong week and weekend this New Year's could tip the scale and make the retail community's dream of a belated green Christmas come true.

Protect your identity with these tips

Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater offers these 10 basic tips on how to avoid identity theft;

1) Guard your social security number.

The most important step is to guard your Social Security number — it's the key to your credit report and banking accounts and is the prime target for criminals. Do not print your Social Security number on your checks. When applying for a loan, credit card or rental, request that your Social Security number on the application be truncated or completely obliterated and your original credit report be shredded before your eyes or returned to you once a decision has been made.

2) Monitor your credit report.

Credit reports can alert you to activity in your financial records. A money service, such as Privacy Guard, will notify you whenever someone asks for credit in your name or checks your credit history. You can then be proactive; call the person and ask why they are checking your credit history.

3) Buy a shredder and use it.

Identity thieves may use your garbage to obtain personal information. Shred all old bank and credit card statements, as well as "junk mail" credit card offers, before trashing them.

4) Remove your name from marketing lists.

The three credit-reporting bureaus: Equifax, Experian and TransUnion all maintain marketing lists that may contain your information. Contact agencies to remove your name from the lists.

5) Watch what you carry in your wallet.

Do not keep your Social Security number in your wallet or carry extra credit cards or other important identity documents except when needed. These documents can give thieves ready access to your accounts.

6) Keep duplicate records.

Photocopy your license and credit cards so you have all the information available if your purse or wallet is stolen.

7) Mail payments from a safe location.

8) Monitor your social security activity.

Order your Social Security Earnings and Benefits statement once a year to check for fraudulent activity.

9) Monitor your credit-card activity.

Carefully examine your credit-card statements for fraudulent charges. If you don't need or use department-store or bank issued credit cards, close the accounts.

10) Know who you are talking to.

Never give your credit-card number or personal information over the phone unless you have initiated the call and trust that business.

If you or anyone you know has been a victim of identity fraud, contact the Federal Trade Commission at 877-438-4338 or by mail: Consumer Response Center (FTC), 600 Pennsylvania Ave. N.W., Washington D.C. 20580 or call your local sheriff's office.

NOTICE OF SHOW CAUSE HEARING AND JUDICIAL FORECLOSURE HEARING NON-PAYMENT OF PROPERTY TAXES

On March 1, 2003 real estate with unpaid 2001 and/or prior years property taxes was forfeited to the Charlevoix County Treasurer pursuant to the General Property Tax Act, Public Act 206 of 1893, PA 206, MCL 211.1 to 211.157, as amended.

The State of Michigan is acting as the Foreclosing Governmental Unit in proceedings to foreclose on this property for unpaid property taxes.

There are two hearings scheduled to finalize the foreclosure process. This publication is intended to provide additional notice to parties of interest in these parcels as to the nature, time, and location of these hearings.

A Show Cause Hearing is scheduled for Jan 19, 2004 - Feb 2, 2004 at 430 W Allegan, First Floor, Lansing MI 48922.
Any person with an interest in the property forfeited to the county treasurer may appear at the show cause hearing and redeem that property or show cause why absolute title to that property should not vest in the Foreclosing Govehnmental Unit.

A Judicial Foreclosure Hearing is scheduled for 2:15 PM, February 13, 2004 at the 33rd Circuit Court, 301 State St, Charlevoix MI 49720.
At this hearing the Foreclosing Governmental Unit shall ask that the court enter a judgment foreclosing the property as requested in the petition for foreclosure. A person claiming an interest in a parcel of property set forth in the petition for foreclosure, who desires to contest that petition, must file written objections with the clerk of the circuit court and serve those objections on the State of Michigan, the Foreclosing Governmental Unit. The docket number of the petition is 03-1940-19-CZ.

If you are a person with an interest in property being foreclosed:

- You have the right to redeem this parcel from the foreclosure process by payment of all forfeited unpaid taxes, interest, penalties, and fees prior to the expiration of the redemption period. You should contact the Charlevoix County Treasurer for the amount required to redeem.
- You may lose your interest in the property as a result of the foreclosure proceeding.
- The title to the property shall vest absolutely in the Foreclosing Governmental Unit unless all forfeited unpaid delinquent taxes, interest, penalties, and fees are paid within 21 days after judgment is entered in the foreclosure proceedings.

PLEASE NOTE :

The following list represents parties that appear to have title, lien, or other apparent rights to the parcels being foreclosed by the Foreclosing Governmental Unit.

This notice is required to be given by law, even if the party no longer claims or desires an interest if it appears they hold any undischarged, apparent, or potential title or lien right to the property.

Listing of a party does NOT necessarily indicate that they are the owner of a parcel, or that they are liable for the property taxes.

This list is NOT an offering of property for sale. These parcels are NOT being sold, auctioned, or otherwise made available by virtue of this notice.

There is no procedure for purchasing these parcels from the Foreclosing Governmental Unit at this point in the foreclosure proceedings. Those parcels that are foreclosed and not redeemed may become available at public auction in July, September, and November of 2004. These parcels remain the property of their current owner until redemption rights have expired. No party should make any attempt to inspect or enter upon these parcels assuming them to be for sale. This may constitute trespassing and subject the offender to criminal prosecution. The street address of the parcels listed is based on local records and is not guaranteed to be the actual location of the property.

The amount due listed indicates the balance which was due as of forfeiture on March 1, 2003. The current amount required to redeem must be obtained from the Charlevoix County Treasurer, as additional penalties, fees, and interest have accrued since forfeiture.

Charlevoix to host pageants at high school auditorium

Applications are now being accepted for the 2004 Miss Northwest Michigan USA/Miss Northwest Michigan Teen USA pageant to be on April 16-17 at the Charlevoix High School auditorium in Charlevoix.

The event is an official preliminary to the Miss Michigan USA/Miss Michigan Teen USA event, who's winners go on to the nationally televised Miss USA/Miss USA Teen and then on to Miss Universe.

The pageant is open to young women from the Northwest Lower Peninsula who are between the ages of 14-26, never married, a United States citizen and reside or attend school in Emmet, Charlevoix, Leelanau, Antrim, Benzie, Grand Traverse, Kalkaska, Manistee, Wexford, Missaukee, Mason Lake or Osceloa County.

The Teen Delegates must be at least 15 and under 19 as of Sept. 1, 2005 while Miss Delegates must be at least 18 and under 27 as of Feb. 1, 2005.

The top three in each division will receive automatic berths into the Miss Michigan USA/ Miss Michigan Teen USA pageant which will be next fall in Port Huron.

In addition to the crown and title of Miss Northwest Michigan USA and Miss Northwest Michigan Teen USA, the winners will receive full fees paid for the state event, gift certificates for clothing, and other valuable prizes.

The first and second runners-up in each division will receive a place in the state event with a portion of their fees paid and other prizes.

The contestants are judged in three equal categories consisting of personal interview, swimsuit and evening wear. Performing a talent is not a requirement.

For more information and to receive an application form, you may call the Miss Northwest Michigan USA offices at (906)22[illegible]499, visit the website at www.michiganusapageants.com or contact the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce at (231)547-2101.

Volleyball team competes in tough Alma tournament

By ALLEN TELGENHOF
Sports writer

The Charlevoix Rayders went 1-3-1 at the tough Alma Invitational this past weekend.

Rayder coach Liz Grunch indicated the tournament was a difficult one, but didn't use the difficulty as an excuse for the teams disappointing showing.

"There were some large schools with good volleyball programs that were very tough and competitive," Grunch said. "But we still didnt play to the level we want to be at."

Charlevoix lost to Haslett, 15-25, 16-25; lost to Alma, 20-25, 15-25; and split with Midland, 25-23, 14-25 in pool play.

In power pool action, the Rayders defeated Carson City, 15-25, 25-20, 16-14; and lost to Holt, 21-25, 20-25.

Finally, in single elimination play, Midland ousted Charlevoix, 15-7, 16-14.

"It was good to get out and play during the break when normally it's time we'd be off," Grunch said. "That's especially true since we open conference play right when we get back to school."

Statistically, Theresa Martin led Charlevoix offensively with 29 kills. Andrea Ruhlman added 23. Becca Kanine tallied 85 assists.

Grunch named Shayna Drost as her top defender and stated that Ruhlman had a very good tournament.

Sunny powder

Snowboarders and skiers enjoyed the sunny, but cool, temperatures that bathed Charlevoix Friday at Mount McSauba. The hill was filled with students home for the holidays wanting to enjoy some outdoor fun. Last week was the first week Mount McSauba was open this season.

Work moving along on city hall

CITY

early February. Shull said that won't likely be possible until March 1 when the police and fire department will move into the post office while their quarters are renovated.

He explained that ordering of the custom exterior stone to match the existing stone has delayed the project as has the custom window selection and ordering process.

But work is progressing. So far workers have pounded out a big chunk of the project, completing most of the demolition, installing walls, running conduit, installing coil units for heating and air conditioning, installing duct work, roofing and prepping for elevator installation.

Right now the workers are installing a boiler, finishing plumbing and piping for the heating and air conditioning units, working on the 2,200 square foot addition, installing an elevator, a chiller and the rooftop units for the air conditioning.

After that is complete, work on flooring and trim work and light fixtures will start. This last phase will also include work on the exterior stone.

"That's going to be a cold job," Shull said.

Once the project is complete in June, the basement will include a mediation office, recreation director's office, bathrooms, exercise room, record storage, titillates, evidence and crime scene processing room.

The first floor will house the administrative offices including billing and also the treasurer's office, city engineer's office and a conference room.

On the second floor will be fire department bathrooms, the city manager's office, planning and zoning, a work room, a conference room and city council chambers.

Educators attend workshop to improve area literacy rates

Educators from throughout the region recently attended the final of a three-part literacy workshop to deepen their understanding of strategies to work with struggling readers.

Sponsored by Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District, the workshops are part of professional development courses offered throughout the year to educators on a variety of topics ranging from literacy to use of technology in the classroom, and from curriculum to school improvement.

The first two days of professional development focusing on literacy included effective instruction in fluency and how it is key to teaching vocabulary and application of comprehensive strategies. The final day emphasized how students connect their reading to their background knowledge, create sensory images, ask questions, draw influences, determine what's important, synthesize ideas, and solve problems.

Area schools sent a team of three or more staff members to the sessions, which were Sept. 30, Oct. 20 and Dec. 5. Attending each presentation were approximately 85 educators from Charlevoix, Harbor Springs, Pellston, East Jordan, St. Francis Xavier, Concord-Boyne City, Ellsworth, Boyne City, Boyne Falls, St. Mary, Petoskey, Central Lake, Littlefield, Char-Em ISD and Traverse Bay Area ISD.

Timothy Rasinski, professor of education in the Department of Teaching, Leadership and Curriculum Studies at Kent State, taught the first two sessions. Rasinski, who teaches classes at all levels of literacy education, has interest in working with children who find reading difficult, phonics and reading fluency instruction, and teacher development in literacy education.

The Dec. 5 session was instructed by Susan Zimmermann, co-founder and former executive director of the Public Education and Business Coalition. During her 10 years with the coalition, Zimmermann initiated numerous programs to improve the quality of public schools, including the Reading Project, which has been implemented in more than 30 Colorado schools.

Zimmermann explained to the audience that good readers use the following 7 Keys to unlock meaning (from her book "7 Keys to Comprehension: How to Help Your Kids Read It and Get It!"):

1) Create mental images: Good readers create a wide range of visual, auditory, and other sensory images as they read, and they become emotionally involved with what they read.

2) Use background knowledge: Good readers use their relevant prior knowledge before, during, and after reading to enhance their understanding of what they're reading.

3) Ask questions: Good readers generate questions before, during, and after reading to clarify meaning, make predictions, and focus their attention on what's important.

4) Make inferences: Good readers use their prior knowledge and information from what they read to make predictions, seek answers to questions, draw conclusions, and create interpretations that deepen their understanding of the text.

5) Determine the most important ideas or themes: Good readers identify key ideas or themes as they read, and they can distinguish between important and unimportant information.

6) Synthesize information: Good readers track their thinking as it evolves during reading, to get the overall meaning.

7) Use "fix-up" strategies: Good readers are aware of when they understand and when they don't. If they have trouble understanding specific words, phrases, or longer passages, they use a wide range of problem-solving strategies including skipping ahead, rereading, asking questions, using a dictionary, and reading the passage aloud.

CHARLEVOIX BRIEFS

New Year's swing

The Blissfest music organization is presenting a gala New Years Eve dance from 8 p.m. to 12:30 a.m., Dec. 31, featuring the 18 piece Up-North Big Band, at the North Central Michigan College Student Center, in Petoskey. Singles and couples are encouraged to join in the fun. Dance instructors will be on hand.

Future dances will be on Saturdays of Jan. 17, and Feb. 14 — a Valentines Day Dance. All dances are $8 at the door. Refreshments are available. For more information call Karl at (231) 547-6271 or Blissfest at (231) 348-7047.

Historical New Year

Dancing and art films will ring in the New Year during the Charlevoix Historical Society's annual New Year's Eve Party.

The evening begins with a showing of an art film at the Charlevoix Cinema at 7:30 p.m. Following the show, the entertainment will feature dancing to the Bud Bechtel Quartet, dinner hors d'oeuvres and desserts prepared by Mel and Danielle, and a champagne toast at midnight. Black tie optional.

Tickets to the celebration are $100, which includes a $75 donation to the Harsha House Museum's continuing restoration and renovation project. Tickets are available at the Charlevoix Historical Society.

Parenting workshop

The Charlevoix Public Library is offering a parenting workshop for families who have children from a previous relationship and have entered a new marriage, or are considering entering a new marriage. The six week workshop called a Real Family is taught by Amy Spegele, Family Life Educator. The workshop will be focusing on many issues faced by blended families. The workshop is from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., starting Jan. 8.

This free workshop takes place in the downstairs meeting room at the Charlevoix Public Library, please call or stop in to register.

The Charlevoix Public Library is located at 109 Clinton Street. Their hours are Mon.-Thurs. 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., Fri. 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sat. 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Contact the library at 231-547-2651 or online at www.charlevoixlibrary.org.

Officials talk about 2004 plans

2003 by Dawson and Mark "Barney" Way against the township over its refusal to rezone their land near Ferry and Brock roads to make way for a mobile home park.

Work on Ferry Road will be complemented in nearby Norwood Township where work will be done on Ferry Road from Barnard Road to US-31.

In Marion Township, major projects will also include road improvements, but a priority list has not yet been established.

North of the city of Charlevoix, in Hayes and Charlevoix townships, road improvements and major projects will make their mark in 2004.

Roads that made the Hayes Township improvement list include: Maple Grove Road, Spring Street and Pincherry Road.

While roads are being improved the Hayes Township Board will he hard at work planning for the township's recreational needs. Officials plan to inquire about availability of waterfront property off Maple Grove Road as a potential site for a township park and are also backing an initiative to have Big Rock Point converted to a park once its transformation to a green field is complete.

Hayes Township's work to meet recreational needs of its residents and visitors will also include construction of a modest rest area along the portion of the Little Traverse Wheelway non-motorized path, that lies within the township.

While Hayes Township tackles recreation needs, in nearby Charlevoix Township the hoard is working with the city of Charlevoix to contract a sewer line out toward Pine Point off Boyne City-Charlevoix Road.

The Pine Point project will take the township's focus on the north side and on its south side a possible Wal-Mart development will keep things interesting.

Planning for a new Wal-Mart will likely continue in 2004. Township supervisor Dale Glass said it is his impression that Wal-Mart representatives plan to approach the township planning commission with a site plan, but he isn't sure when.

Hospital to host clinic to help stop smoking

Are you ready to kick the cigarette habit?

Charlevoix Area Hospital's Freedom from Smoking program can give you the tools, techniques, and motivation to quit for good.

Offered in cooperation with the American Lung Association, Freedom from Smoking is a lively, interactive, step-by-step program with a proven track record. A new, eight-week series of classes will begin Thursday, January 8, 2004 at the hospital.

There's a $25 fee to cover course materials.

Each week participants will learn how to break the nicotine habit; get practical tips for handling stress, maintaining weight, and making changes in daily routines; and receive plenty of encouragement and support as they adjust to their post-smoking life.

To register, please call Charlevoix Area Hospital's Freedom from Smoking coordinator, Michelle Potter, at (231) 547-8672.

War of words between officials

MAYOR

located on a two-acre parcel on Charlevoix's north side, off Petoskey Avenue, in the R-2 single family residential district.

This decision went against city council's Nov. 17 majority vote not to set a public hearing to discuss a zoning amendment to allow this type of facility as a special use in the R-1 and R-2 districts.

But Mayor Campbell said he didn't make this decision just because the commission defied council.

"It's not about the people. They are all good people — achievers and leaders. But in my opinion, the avenue they took put the city in jeopardy," he said.

In setting the hearing, the commission went against city attorney Jim Young's advisement which was to have the zoning board of appeals review the special use permit request before a hearing was set. Mayor Campbell said this decision left the city vulnerable to a lawsuit.

The mayor also claims the commission's decision to close the meeting to public comment violated its bylaws.

In spite of the fact that the mayor said his decision isn't personal, Kusina, who made the decision to close the meeting to comment, took the mayor's action personally and said he plans to look into lodging a slander suit against him.

The mayor said, "I don't understand how I slandered him."

Bennett said he has received calls from members of the community interested in mounting a recall campaign against the mayor.

Mayor Campbell said that is the democratic right of the people and if that is the direction things take then so be it.

"I want what the people want," he said.

Bennett said he would not support a recall campaign.

"I'm not interested in doing that, it's not my manner," Bennett said. "I don't think that's the right way to solve this. Personally, I don't think that sort of thing does much but dig up dirt on people."

But Commissioner John Campbell may be trying to dig up dirt, but not through a recall campaign.

On Dec. 23 he issued a Freedom of Information Act request with city clerk Liz Gooch to collect a slew of information related to the 1998 lot split of the property owned by Ed Amick where Sunnybank would like to locate, documents related to the May Street Apartment complex currently under construction that the city was once sued over, documents related to Sunnybank and documents related to the mayor's decision to fire the commissioners.

Campbell said his request is not aimed directly at the mayor and he doesn't know what he is looking for.

"We'll just see," he said. "Everyone has lost site that our goal for our community is to serve all people and those who need assistance in living in our community."

With these three issues facing the mayor, he still doesn't plan to back down.

Part of the process required to remove the commissioners is formally writing out the charges against them in a letter.

Mayor Campbell said this letter was ready to be sent on Dec. 19, but he held off to see if the commissioners would reverse their decision at their Dec. 22 special meeting. But they didn't and now Mayor Campbell is waiting for Young to review the letter and then it will be sent.

After receiving the letter the commissioners will have 10 days to appeal the mayor's action in a closed or open hearing. Mayor Campbell said this hearing may take place in January.
